If citizens can speak, so can teachers: attorney

Teachers claim the right to address school board

by LINDA PUNCH

Individual teachers in East Maine School Dist. 63 have the right to speak at board meetings, according to an attorney for the East Maine teachers' union.

East Maine Education Assn. attorney R. W. Deffenbaugh affirmed the teachers' rights at board meetings in response to the Dec. 4 incident where a teacher's request to speak before the board was denied.

In a Dec. 27 letter to the East Maine board, Deffenbaugh said teachers "must be given the right to speak" at board meetings.

"If the board permits individual citizens the right to speak at a public session of the board of education it is beyond question that the individual teachers must be recognized in the same manner as other citizens," he said.

Deffenbaugh asked the board to contact its attorney "to avoid further conflict in this matter."

CONFUSION OVER teachers' rights at board meetings arose Dec. 4 when Board Pres. Irene Luck refused the request of teacher Sue Hendrichs to present a petition protesting recent board actions against teacher union leaders.

Mrs. Luck said Miss Hendrichs had violated guidelines set forth in the recent contract agreements for presenting union views to the board. When Miss Hendrichs continued to read the petition aloud, Mrs. Luck convened an executive session and board members walked out of the meeting.

The petition, signed by 195 of the 325 district teachers, called on the board to MOVING RIGHT ALONG, construction crews are working right through the snow and cold weather on the new Des Plaines City Hall. The $1.7 million, six-story facility is slated for completion in early 1975. The building will be located adjacent to the present city hall at Miner and Jefferson streets.

Water system to be improved

Des Plaines residents can expect to get more than just higher prices out of the water rate increase approved by the City Council. The higher rates also will pay for a major water system improvement program.

The council approved an ordinance that will increase water rates by about 45 per cent. The increase, the first approved since 1970, also will pay for a $2.1 million improvement program.

The improvement program calls for the construction of a 4-million-gallon water storage tank and pumping station at Central Street near the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

CARL F. BUETTNER, a consultant who prepared the feasibility study on the city's water system in 1972, said the improvements should eliminate the low-water pressure problems in Des Plaines.

He also stated the improvements would allow the city to pump a maximum of 54 million gallons of water per day. Current water needs amount to about 18 to 19 million gallons per day.

While Buettner would not predict the system would be adequate for the city until the year 2000, he did state the city would have an adequate water supply well into the future.

Construction on the water tank and pumping station could be under way within about three months. In addition to the tank and pumps the improvement program also calls for new water lines to be placed in several sections of the city.

Teachers express concerns over cutbacks, programs

Gemini Junior High School techers echoed parental concerns over teacher cutbacks and program changes in Dist. 63 junior high schools during a presentation at a recent school board meeting.

In a discussion of the Gemini program Tuesday night, teachers said that while the junior high curriculum was still "excellent," increased class loads and schedule changes had decreased individualized contact between teacher and student.

Gemini is a Niles Junior High School. A report on Apollo Junior High in Des Plaines will be given Feb. 5.

Controversy over the junior high program began last spring when the board cut 32 of 360 teaching positions in the district. Parents of junior high school students later charged that teacher cutbacks forced the schools into new class structures that eliminate team teaching and individualized attention for students.

ONE TEACHER said Gemini students are "getting the best possible education the schedule permits," citing lack of free time for helping individual students, planning and grading work and for consulting with fellow teachers.

"We have too many students and not enough time to interact," she said.

Changes from last year's program included giving teachers an additional class hour to teach by eliminating their personal planning periods. Each teacher averages a daily classload of about 150 students.

The department heads of home economics and industrial arts also criticized the switch from 18-week semesters to 13-week trimesters saying the change allowed them to teach only the basics.

ON THE POSITIVE side, principal Donald Huebner cited the creation of Delta 78, a special team for underachievers. He also noted that fine and practical arts teachers were added to each teaching team.

"Things aren't perfect — there are most classes and more pupils," he said. "But the quality of teaching is not diminished."

Two parents criticized the board for not allowing parents to ask questions until 11:30 p.m. when only 30 of the original 80 people attending the meeting remained.

"I DON'T CONSIDER 11:30 p.m. ample time for parents to ask questions. I think the gracious thing to do is allow parents to speak before this time," Mrs. Ruth Berdick said.

Another parent suggested giving the presentation earlier in the meeting so parents would have "ample time earlier in the evening" to ask questions.

In other action, the board approved the formation of a regional service agency to handle the special education needs of youngsters with hearing and sight problems.

Elk Grove Village to announce revision of ambulance-fire service policy

Unprotected areas to get serve-first, bill-later service

EDITOR'S NOTE: The victim and the accused. Two men in Elk Grove have made headlines in recent days for their roles in the death of Jean Pettee and her unborn child. The first, her husband Gary, has often been protrayed as either the victim of tragic circumstance or deliberate malice. The other, Fire Chief Allen Hulett, has been accused of callously refusing help to a dying woman. Both men told their stories to Herald reporter Jerry Thomas.

by JERRY THOMAS

While state legislators push for passage of a rural aid bill insuring emergency fire and ambulance service to unincorporated areas, Elk Grove Village officials will provide neighboring unincorporated homes with protection on a serve-first bill-later basis, The Herald has learned.

The plan, expected to be announced at a 2 p.m. press conference today, is in response to the death of an Elk Grove Township woman who was refused ambulance service by the village.

In another development, The Herald learned yesterday that police and fire department tapes and records of the incident have been subpoenaed by the State's Attorney's office, which is investigating the incident.

The tapes are a record of Gary Pettee's Jan. 6 calls for ambulance help for his dying wife, Jean. Mrs. Pettee, 36, eight months pregnant with her sixth child, died of a massive blood clot in her lung. Her husband's calls to the village were refused and referred because he had contracted for emergency service with the Roselle Fire Protection District rather than Elk Grove Village.

THE HERALD learned that village officials will pledge ambulance and fire service to unincorporated areas, such as where the Pettees live, whether people have contracted for it or not. Village President Charles Zettek yesterday said he would not deny the information but could not confirm it either.

The announcement of service is expected to come after local legislators give village officials their pledge to work for the rural aid bill. State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and State Rep. Virginia MacDonald, R-Arlington Heights, are expected to attend.

Regner said "I've been informed that if the village has my commitment to work hard for legislation that would allow the townships to tax unincorporated areas and contract for service, they (the village) would provide that service now on a pay-later plan.

"NEEDLESS TO SAY, my commitment is total. It's a bill I first sponsored last spring. It was shelved in the Illinois House Committee on Counties and Townships, not on its own merits, but simply because it gave townships power," he said.

"Obviously in light of the recent tragedy, that power could be a safety factor in some situations," said Regner.

Totten said he too will pledge full support of the bill at the April session of the Illinois General Assembly.

"This bill would ensure that people living in unincorporated areas have fire protection and it would also give townships the power to collect taxes necessary to contract for that service," he said.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE officials, under fire for refusing the ambulance call from the Pettee's rural area, will play the tapes of that incident for the first time at today's conference.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett said the tapes will prove Pettee did not indicate a life-or-death situation when he called. Village President Zettek, who has refused in the past to release the tapes or comment on them said he will do so now, "only because the tapes will show we did not heartlessly turn down a plea to save a dying woman, as some people are charging."

Zettek said the refusal of service was in keeping with a village policy to answer calls from only those people in unincorporated areas who contracted for the $42 a year service.

"We did not arrive at this policy this month but have told people in surrounding areas for years we cannot service them without contract or payment because we owe our first service to those people of Elk Grove Village who pay for this department."

ZETTEK SAID the village decision to hold a press conference, answer all questions regarding the incident and play records of Pettee's calls for an ambulance "is a reluctant one."

"The decision was finally arrived at because of the emotional upheaval this issue has created in the community."

Zettek said he has refused to comment in the past, because he thought to do so was cruel. "Mr. Pettee has lost a wife, and what point is there to argue the ifs of boundaries or legalities," said Zettek.

"If there is any good that could come out of this it should be that state legislators see that everyone has protection," he added.

Spokesmen from the state's attorney's office have said its investigation is not directed at Elk Grove Village but is rather a review of the entire incident.

STEVE PERNICK of that office said yesterday the subpoenas were issued because "we are trying to find out what happened.

"Once we have found out what the facts are, we will take a look at the statute books, review similar cases and then see where we can go from there.

"We have subpoenaed tapes and duty rosters as well as documents regarding ambulances and personnel — anyone on duty at that particular time," he continued.

"After a review of all the facts we will make a determination of what action will or will not be taken.

"There is some question in my mind, based on the information we've received at this time, that they (Elk Grove Village Fire Department) were under any legal obligation to provide service to those people, not being under contract with them," he added.

Aftermath

Fire chief: recall decision has 'ruined my life'

"When I recalled the ambulance I made a decision based on information I had — that decision has ruined my life and my reputation and subjected my family to horror," said Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett.

Sleepless nights showed in the fire chief's red-rimmed eyes, as he slumped in his chair to tell a story he has refused to comment on since Jan. 6.

"My statement would have then, and probably will now, sound like I am pointing the finger of blame at someone. God knows, I know how that feels and it is not my intent," Hulett said in an interview. "My story will be one of facts, not excuses," he said.

Allen Hulett

"We were called by the police department to answer an ambulance call to 277 Martha St. — convulsions were indicated. The equipment rolls immediately on an alert and while it was going out I recognized the address was not in our service area and recalled the units.

"MY GOD, WHY didn't he (Gary Pettee) tell us his wife was dying. He didn't, and I made a decision that it was not a life or death situation.

"Minutes later, in a second call, Pettee said his wife was having a miscarriage, still in my opinion, not a life-or-death situation," said Hulett.

"I am not a doctor and I made the decision to transfer his pleas for help to the proper fire department based on past experience. I felt I owed the people in this village service before going out of our area.

"My whole life and career have

Husband: 'there is no bitterness in my heart'

"My wife and child are dead, yet there is no bitterness in my heart," said Gary Pettee, 277 Martha St., Elk Grove Township.

Pettee said he believes Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett "deliberately called back an ambulance answering my pleas for help to make a point." Yet, he added, "In another life-or-death situation, I'd make that same plea to Elk Grove."

"They made a serious mistake — not that it would have changed anything, because I believe in the inevitable," Pettee said in an interview.

Pettee said much of the afternoon of his wife's death, Jan. 6, is lost in a blur of confusion.

"I know I've made statements to news people recounting what I said to police and firemen but it's very hard to remember exactly what I said to everyone. All I know for sure is that I panicked when my wife fell to the floor and said she believed she was dying. I knew I had an ambulance contract with Roselle Fire Department but Elk Grove Village was closer so I called them," he said.

"SHE HAD BEEN ILL all that day and stayed in bed complaining of bad leg pains. Later she got up to go to the laundry room," said the father of five.

"She fell and dragged herself to the family room screaming to me that she was dying," he said.

"I had stickers on all my phones with the number to the Roselle Fire Department we contract for ambulance service with, but instead of calling them I called the telephone operator and she contacted the police," said Pettee.

"As my wife was struggling on the floor I didn't remember the years of bitterness, arguments or harass-

Auto crash kills ex-area grid star

Former Palatine High School football star Ray Kirk, 20, was killed in a two-car crash in Palatine Township Tuesday night. Kirk was a passenger in an auto driven by 19-year-old Janet Gustafson of Palatine, who was listed in fair condition at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday. State police ticketed Robert L. Lindsey, 40, of Elgin for driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Police said Lindsey's car slid sideways into the front end of the Gustafson auto at the Northwest Highway-Dundee Road overpass.

Hospital plans in 'jeopardy'

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon says a hospital planned for the community is in jeopardy because of "adverse publicity" and a negative attitude on the part of residents. Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital has announced its intention to build a branch on the site of a historical religious retreat and some residents don't like it. That kind of attitude, Scanlon says, is driving the hospital away. However, a spokesman for Franklin Boulevard said, "There has been no indication from us that we're going to stop."

City threatens Kassuba with suit

Rolling Meadows city officials are ready to take legal action against Kassuba Development Corp. because of alleged building code violations at the firm's Meadow Trace apartment complex. A lawsuit has been drawn up against Kassuba which recently filed for reorganization under the federal bankruptcy act. A spokesman for the firm said the repairs are under way but the city maintains repeated delays have prevented any progress.

Walsh to seek new housing site

Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights village president, said yesterday he will recommend changing the proposed site for senior citizens housing and begin a search for another location in the village. The block just southeast of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library had been selected as the best location for 119 units of low-income housing for elderly citizens, but residents living nearby attended a meeting Tuesday night and objected to the plan. Many of Arlington Heights' senior citizens were unaware of the hosuing site selection and members of a special senior citizens housing commission were not notified of the prospective site.

See settlement in boundary fight

Des Plaines and Mount Prospect may be heading for an out-of-court settlement of the boundary war along Elmhurst Road. Representatives of both municipalities will meet Jan. 29. They are scheduled to be in Cook County Circuit Court Feb. 11 for action on a suit by Des Plaines challenging a Mount Prospect move to annex land Des Plaines claims it had already taken in.

Wheeling tenant faces lockout

A Wheeling woman may be locked out of her home today in a dispute with her landlord over brackish water that flows out of all the faucets in her apartment. Mrs. Jeanette LaCaeyse also charges that an unattended leak caused the ceiling over her bathtub to collapse. She has withheld this month's rent and the building manager, Kathleen Taylor, said the lockout will begin at 9 a.m.

By $4.80 to $5.80 per $10,000 valuation

County tax bills may jump in 1975

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

County-level taxes could increase $4.80 to $5.80 per $10,000 of assessed valuation in 1975, the Civic Federation warned yesterday.

A final county board vote on three budgets totaling more than $430.2 million is expected at a 10 a.m. meeting today. Witness testimony on Pres. George Dunne's executive budget, a record proposal by the county Forest Preserve Commission and the budget of the county Health and Hospital Governing Commission ended yesterday.

If the budgets are approved, county taxpayers will be billed for $65.80 per $10,000 assessed valuation in two installments due March 1 and Aug. 1, 1975, said William J. McGlone, Civic Federation director of development. Estimated 1973 levy was $60 per $10,000 valuation.

The budget hike could be reduced if the board accepts a $2 million cut proposed by the hospital governing commission yesterday or if the assessed valuation of property in Cook County increases from $23.7 billion.

THE THREE BUDGETS set for board approval are:

- Dunne's executive budget, which includes $142.3 million in its corporate fund, a $16.7 million, or 10 per cent, increase. The total includes nearly $8 million to finance county elections March 19 and Nov. 5, a 5.5 per cent wage hike for about 10,000 county employes and $1.5 million to hire 137 new county employes.
- A forest preserve budget of $10.7 million that includes 5.5 per cent wage hikes for most employes and a 10 per cent hike for district law enforcement officers.
- A $134,621,556 budget for the hospital governing commission. State and federal government funds will provide about two-thirds of the budget total to run County, Cermak, Oak Forest and Memorial hospitals. If the $2 million cut is approved, the county share of the funds will be about $47.9 million.

The health and hospital budget was heavily criticized for "excessive waste" by county board members yesterday.

"This budget is completely out of line. This is a runaway situation," Comr. Charles Chaplin said. They're building a dynasty out there," Comr. Floyd Fulle said.

Chaplin said the hospital budget, which is presented at separate hearings by the governing commission, includes salary hikes of as much as 44 per cent, asks for a $241,000 increase in funds for telephone use by patients and staff and includes a 40 per cent food budget increase although fewer meals will be served at the hospitals next year.

"These hospitals have the highest administrative cost of any in the world," he said. "It costs $176 a day for a bed in a ward. They have the largest number of employes per patient in the world."

FULLE CHALLENGED recent county state's attorney opinions that the board cannot reduce the hospital budgets which have increased 74 per cent since 1970. "I don't care what the state's attorney says. In the last two years I have voted against these budgets and I think if the board turned them down, the commission funds would revert to last year's total. There's $10 million in there that shouldn't be."

Fulle predicted a "sloshing around" of county funds at today's meeting. The final budget totals will remain about the same, but funds will be transferred from one account to another.

Republicans, including Fulle, who have challenged past budget totals with charges of waste will remain silent today, Fulle said. "It would just be another act of futility. The budget is not too bad per se."

The key executive budget, which finances the state's attorney, sheriff, public defender and Circuit Court staffs was released in December by Dunne.

THE BOARD PRESIDENT predicted

TV 'ghosts' to haunt us just a little longer

The ghosts on WLS-TV (Channel 7) will be around a little longer. Because of below freezing temperatures, the installation of the station's new antenna on the roof of the Sears Tower has been delayed again.

The new completion date is Jan. 29, and by then the antenna should be in place and testing will be completed, according to WLS officials.

The ghosting seen on individual television sets was caused by interference from the tall buildings downtown, especially the new Standard Oil Building. By putting the new antenna up 690 feet higher, WLS-TV plans to eliminate the interference.

Carbona case ruling appears 3 months away

It will be at least three more months until the Illinois Appellate Court makes any ruling on Ruthe Carbona's appeal of her May 9, 1973 conviction for the murder of her husband, Joseph.

That time estimate was given yesterday by the court clerk's office. The Cook County State Attorney's Office was to have filed legal briefs by Monday, but has not and will probably ask for a month's extension of the deadline.

Mrs. Carbona, 30, of 1762 E. Euclid Ave., Mount Prospect, has been out of jail on $25,000 bond since July 27, 1973. Court testimony revealed she and her husband, a Cook County Sheriff's police lieutenant, had been having an argument when the Dec. 22, 1971 shooting occurred.

Fire saftey extension at nursing homes

The administration told more than 8,000 nursing home operators yesterday they could have up to two more years to make fire and safety improvements without losing federal aid. For institutions caring for mentally retarded persons, the delay could be up to three years, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said.

Urge hands-off plan for Cable TV

A White House committee proposed yesterday that the government keep hands off Cable TV programs, and avoid any form of the regulations now imposed on broadcast television. the FCC, it was recommended, should reverse policies developed for directly broadcast television. The FCC sets up detailed obligations which broadcast licensees must fulfill in order to get license renewals.

Navy denies submarine 'war signal' report

The Navy has denied charges that mistaken emergency signals from Polaris submarines nearly set off nuclear war twice in 1971. The Navy said the mistaken signals did indicate the submarines had sunk, but not by enemy action. Rep. Les. Aspin, D-Wis., earlier said the signals set off "massive military alerts."

1985 water cleanup goal doubtful

Government auditors said Wednesday it is doubtful the nation will meet the legally prescribed goal of cleaning up its lakes and rivers by 1985. The General Accounting Office said the goal is jeopardized because of lack of coordination among government agencies responsible for the cleanup, and failure to spend enough money on basic research and development.

Consumer income tops $1 trillion

Consumer income in the United States topped $1 trillion for the first time ever in 1973, the Commerce Department reported. At the same time, it was reported U.S. industrial production declined by 0.5 per cent in December, the biggest loss in more than two years, because of a sharp cutback in automobile production and reduced consumption of gas and electricity.

Spacemen could end trip minus gyroscope

If a troublesome control gyroscope fails within the next few days, the Skylab 3 astronauts can still limp along for the remainder of their 84-day mission, flight officials said yesterday. The remaiing amount of backup thruster gas and use of the Apollo ferry ship's engines would give the pilots about three weeks in orbit with no additional maneuvers for earth resources.

Gas ration coupons being printed; decision may be off until summer

From Herald news services

Deputy Energy Chief John Sawhill said Wednesday gasoline rationing coupons will be ready by the end of January, but the decision whether to use them may be delayed until "a peak time of gas usage" next summer.

Obviously optimistic that the nation can avoid rationing, Sawhill outlined more details of the government's standby rationing plan at a news briefing.

He said 1.6 billion rationing coupons will be printed and placed in storage by the end of the month and the entire standby system will be ready for possible implementation by March 1. But he added:

"It is more likely the plan would go into effect in the summer at a time of peak gas usage . . . If gasoline demand mounts in the summer, there will be more pressure to bring on the rationing plan. Our view on rationing is unchanged. We still consider it to be a last resort."

He said employes of the Federal Energy Office are trying to set up the mechanics of the standby rationing system in discussions with representatives of the states, post offices and banks. The system will classify drivers' needs region by region, largely on the basis of mass transit.

Sawhill said rural areas would get the best break along with urban areas having little or no mass transit. Urban areas with moderate transit would get 90 per cent of the maximum and areas with good transit — such as Chicago — 80 per cent. Assuming a gasoline shortage of 800,000 barrels a day or 11 per cent, Sawhill said Chicago drivers might get 40 gallons a month.

He said the nation can get through the energy pinch without rationing if American drivers continue to save gasoline and if domestic refining holds up.

In other energy-related developments:

- Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, issued a statement saying that oil industry profits were at a "10-year low" in 1972 and profit increases in 1973 "barely bring the industry back to the level of previous years — and this level has not been as good as the average for other manufacturing industries."
- The API reported that supplies of jet fuel and home heating oil were higher last week than a year before, but that stocks of gasoline and heavier oils as well as domestic production and imports of crude oil were lower.
- In Boston, Massachusetts Gov. Francis W. Sargent told a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing the public must be protected against an "unrestrained oil dictatorship" by stricter government regulation or even public ownership of oil companies if necessary.

A law for better mileage?

From Herald news services

Drivers who have said there ought to be a law against cars that get lousy gas mileage have a supporter in Administrator Russell Train of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Train said Wednesday that he will seek just that: legislation forcing the automobile industry to build cars that use less gasoline.

Describing it as a plan "which has the potential of saving hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil per day," Train said the laws might involve taxes to discourage production of heavy or high horsepower cars, and perhaps a requirement that the average car get more than 13½ miles per gallon — with better than that after 1977.

The current average consumption for U.S.-made cars is about 11 miles per gallon, and the public lately has been showing it wants better gas mileage.

Figures just released by the automakers showed a whopping 27 per cent drop in sales the first 10 days of 1974, with industry giant General Motors down 42 per cent. Only American Motors, with its accent on small, economical cars, bucked the trend — with sales up 33 per cent, and some dealers running out.

Grand jury may probe tape erasure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said Wednesday he is considering recommending a federal grand jury investigation of how a crucial Watergate conversation was erased from one of President Nixon's tape recordings.

The White House denied that Nixon personally had erased the 18½ minute segment — either accidentally or deliberately — and cautioned against making "premature judgments" about the cause.

Sirica spoke during a court hearing at which a Secret Service agent and a White House aide were questioned to determine who had access to the tape of Nixon's conversation with his then chief of staff H. R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in.

The testimony indicated that at least part of the erasure took place between 1:15 p.m. and 2:06 p.m. Oct. 1, 1973, a period during which Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, said she was transcribing the tape.

But it remains a mystery how the remainder of the 18½ minutes was erased, since Miss Woods said a "possible accident" that occurred while she was transcribing the tape would account for only four or five minutes of the gap.

The hearing will continue today with more White House aides and Secret Service agents scheduled to testify. Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste said he had no plans to call Miss Woods to the stand in an effort to clear up the tape mystery.

A team of court-appointed technical experts testified Tuesday it appeared after two months of study that the original conversation on the tape had been wiped out by at least five and possibly as many as nine, erasures, all performed manually.

Sirica did not characterize the testimony he has heard about the tape. But he said in open court Wednesday what he had acknowledged privately for several weeks about what he might do.

"I have to decide — I might as well tell you in open court — whether or not I'm going to recommend to the special prosecutor this case should be submitted or whether the special prosecutor should seriously consider going to the grand jury."

Testimony Wednesday by Secret Service agent Louis B. Sims, coupled with the experts' report, indicated that the erasure of the Nixon-Haldeman conversation could have occurred only on or after Oct. 1.

That was the date the White House bought the Uher 5000 tape recorder with foot pedal for Miss Woods to use in transcribing the Watergate tapes. This was the machine the audio exerts concluded "almost surely" caused the 18½-minute erasure.

Presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren issued a brief statement from Nixon's attorneys urging the public to withhold judgment on the new development until all the facts are in.

Indonesians' anger turned on Chinese

JAKARTA (UPI) — Tens of thousands of rioting Indonesians turned their anger on Jakarta's unpopular Chinese minority yesterday, burning, looting, and wrecking entertainment spots owned by Chinese. It was the second day of rioting that began Tuesday when students rampaged through the city protesting the visit of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

The student leaders, however, disavowed the anti-Chinese violence and issued a call for calm. The original demonstrations were called to protest alleged Japanese domination of the Indonesian economy.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik said Tanaka had agreed Japan would not try to dominate this country's economy. Malik said Indonesia apologized for the hostile public reception, and said the government of President Suharto would survive the riots — first since the government seized power in a military coup in 1965.

Armed with table legs, billiard cues and bamboo staves, the rioters burned, looted and rampaged through the Chinese districts. Thousands of rioters confronted army paratroops at one point, daring the soliders to move against them. But the army dispersed the crowd with tear gas.

In the two days of riots, eight persons have been killed and 35 injured. Damage to property was estimated at millions of dollars.

Kissinger whirls; settlement nears

From Herald news services

With Secretary of State Henry Kissinger still very much the man in the middle, American officials traveling with him on his Middle East peace mission indicated Wednesday that an agreement might be reached soon.

Kissinger, shuttling from Israel to Egypt and back to Israel, said he thought the differences between the two sides had "substantially narrowed," with "75 to 80 per cent" of the problems settled.

Henry Kissinger

Kissinger met twice with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Aswan Wednesday, after more than 30 hours of negotiations with Israeli officials in Jerusalem. He then returned to Jerusalem, with indications that he would then come back to Aswan — continuing a pattern that began over the weekend.

The big issue is troop disengagement along the Suez Canal, with Kissinger trying to find some acceptable formula for moving out Israeli and Egyptian troops.

Israeli newspapers speculated that much of the talks centered on questions of security guarantees and enforcement of the scaling down of Egyptian forces and firepower on the East Bank of the Suez. Israel is reported asking for U.S. security guarantees to make up for concessions on the disengagement issue.

A new urgency attended Kissinger's mission with a United Nations announcement that Egyptian and Israeli troops battled so fiercely on the outskirts of Suez City that U.N. Finnish peace-keeping troops had to evacuate one position and arrange a local cease-fire. The U.N. said it couldn't tell who started the shooting.

In a related development, new Tunisian Foreign Minister Habib Chatti said one of the first tasks after Tunisia's planned merger with Libya will be to settle differences between the two states over how to handle Israel.

Tunisia has urged a moderate stand; Libya a militant one. There is no current date set for the merger.

Chrysler recalling 160,000 new cars because of defect

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. said Wednesday it was recalling 159,149 of its current model cars because of a defect in the suspension system that could result in a loss of steering control.

The cars affected include some 1974 model Dodge Monaco, Plymouth Fury, Chrysler and Imperial passenger cars built through Dec. 31 by Chrysler. A spokesman said about two-thirds still were in dealer stocks.

There have been 13 reports in which the lower control arm on the cars has fractured, resulting in a loss of control. In one instance, the spokesman said, the driver lost control of his car while traveling at about 25 miles per hour, but was stopped when he went off the road and into a ditch.

While 13 instances of lower control arm failure have been reported, none involved collisions or personal injury to the cars' occupants, the spokesman said.

Owners of the recalled cars were advised to return the vehicles to their dealer for installation of a reinforcement to the lower control arm at no cost. Dealers will install the reinforcements in cars not yet delivered.

The failures have been reported in the lower control arm which might fracture adjacent to the lower ball joint assembly in the car's suspension, Chrysler said.

'Suburban Coalition' to be formed

Minorities plan to 'open up suburbs'

by BARRY SIGALE

Chicago-area civil rights groups are setting up a coalition organization to "open up the suburbs" to housing, job and education opportunities for minorities.

The new organization, called the Suburban Coalition, will be announced Saturday night at Arlington Park Towers hotel at a memorial dinner in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the late civil rights leader.

According to Clyde Brooks, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) suburban division, the SCLC will provide the major support for the new group and will be joined by Operation PUSH and 15 to 20 other Chicago and suburban minority organizations.

BROOKS, who will announce the new group Saturday, is expected to get support from Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of Operation PUSH and featured speaker at the dinner.

The coalition will deal with existing problems in the suburbs making use of increased muscle that a organization of groups provides.

The coalition is the first of its kind that deals primarily with the suburbs and their alleged lack of response in providing housing and jobs to minorities. Other coalitions, in Detroit and Philadelphia, for example, which are comprised of city and suburban civil rights groups, have turned their attention mainly toward city problems.

Among the major goals of the new coalition in the Northwest suburbs and elsewhere is the establishment of more low and moderate-income housing and the removal of barriers between blacks and whites. A more immediate goal will be a joint promotion of the Regional Transit Authority proposal, which will benefit both blacks and whites and make it easier for everyone to get to their place of work.

"A major drive will begin to find black workers who want to live out here but can't find a place or afford to," said Brooks. "We will support them to the hilt. We will fight for their right to do so."

BROOKS said the new coalition, which will have an elective president and council, will be backed by "people power" and will focus on the suburbs "more so than ever before.

"It will be a positive movement," he said. "Because of the Suburban Coalition we can make a great positive contribution to the growth of the suburban community in such a way so as to be socially, economically and educationally advantageous for all Americans, especially those who are poor and of a minority."

Concerning housing, Brooks said attorneys are currently looking at the law to determine if they can get court injunctions to prevent industry from locating in suburbs without low and moderate-income housing plans.

Brooks feels such a move would force the suburbs to take action to adjust their policies because the prevention of companies from moving to the suburbs would have an economic impact that would reduce tax dollars. Also, he said, it would make other companies think twice about moving to certain suburbs.

LESS THAN 1 per cent of the Northwest suburban population is black, according to Brooks, but that fact will change dramatically in the next 15 years, he said.

Brooks predicted the black population of the suburbs will be eight to 15 per cent by 1990. There will be a mix of housing, also, including low and moderate and single family, he said.

He said because of the conclusion and with the help of the coalition, future problems would hopefully be solved in an orderly and tidy fashion. As an example of this change, he cited the village of Arlington Heights.

"The whole question is academic," he said about a significant number of blacks moving to Northwest suburban communities. "It's coming anyway whether they (the communities) like it or not. People are resisting, but one day they are going to wake up and it will be here . . . while they're spending all their energies fighting it."

BROOKS would prefer (and he thinks the communities involved would, too,) that the changes would come through reasoning rather than the federal government coming in and saying "do it."

Another duty of the coalition would be to help avoid any conflict or physical disturbance from occurring when blacks and other minorities move to the suburbs. Though there have been a few racial incidences of this nature, there is always that possibility.

An example of this was the burning cross incident in Hanover Park nearly two years ago when several persons erected a burning cross in front of the home of a white family who had adopted a black baby.

Several civil rights organizations were mobilized and a motorcade carried demonstrators to the village to pressure officials to take action. It is this kind of direct action that the coalition hopes it won't ever have to take. If it does, according to Brooks, the coalition will not speak as one voice but as many.

Opportunity Center hits Latino-income survey

by WANDALYN RICE

Representatives of service organizations that work with Spanish-speaking Americans in the Northwest suburbs have expressed concern that a survey recently completed for Harper College paints too rosy a picture of the status of the Latino community.

The survey, conducted by Sam Bell of Diversified Technical Systems, a private consultant, interviewed 150 Spanish-speaking persons, many of whom were chosen from telephone books. Average family income of those surveyed is $11,400 a year, with 19.8 per cent earning less than $7,000 a year and 15.6 per cent earning more than $15,000.

In addition, the survey found those interviewed had lived in the area an average of four years, had smaller families than the national average for Spanish-speaking persons and had more education than the national average for their ethnic group.

AT THE same time, however, per capita income of the Latinos surveyed was lower than for the general population of the Northwest suburbs and Latino residents averaged less education than the general population.

At a meeting of about 20 persons Tuesday at Harper, representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows said they believe the study does not accurately reflect the characteristics of the Spanish-speaking persons in the suburbs because so many of those interviewed were chosen from telephone books.

A cross-check of the Northwest Opportunity Center files showed that of 79 poor families the center works with in Palatine, only 11 were listed in the phone book, according to Mike Beck of the center. In addition, he said that of 39 poor families in Wheeling working with the center only eight had telephones.

"It seems like the survey really missed the hard core of the Spanish-speaking population of the area," Beck said.

BELL DEFENDED the survey, saying that Latino families without telephones were interviewed by surveyors, either by using Northwest Opportunity Center files or referrals from other families. He said poor families are represented in the survey and that "a number of people have severe problems, but that number does not comprise the universe of Spanish-speaking people."

Joanne Newman, director of curriculum implementation for Palatine Township Dist. 15, who works with programs for migrant children during the summer, said, "I find the

Golf course rates being increased

New rates for the 1974 season of the Lake Opeka golf course have been announced by Des Plaines Park District officials.

Des Plaines residents will pay $2 to use the course on weekdays and $2.50 on weekends and holidays. Last season, residents paid $1.50 and $2 to play golf at those times.

Nonresidents will pay $3 for weekday golf and $3.75 to use the course on weekends and holidays as opposed to last season's rate of $2 and $2.50.

Residents who paid $12.50 for a 10-play ticket last season will pay $16.50 this season while rates for those living outside the city have been hiked from $20 to $24.75.

Season pass prices have been raised from $30 to $40 for residents and from $50 to $60 for non-residents.

The course, located near Howard and Lee streets is scheduled to open March 31 weather permitting.

Chlorine shortage?

Shortages of fuel may lead to a limited supply of gas chlorine, used to disinfect park district swimming pools, according to Park Director Robert Kunkel.

All four park district pools use gas chlorine. An alternate form of the chemical such as tablets or powder may have to be used to clean pools if gas supplies are limited.

Kunkel said the gas chlorine stored in tanks "does a better, safer job" of cleaning pools. "One alternative would be to go to a powder or tablet form but the pool would have to be hand fed," he said.

"With gas, you can set a dial or gauge and during the evening gas will continue to run according to the gauge so you can maintain readings."

Kunkel was uncertain yesterday however whether the gas chlorine will be in short supply when park district pools open June 15.

Park site try

Park district commissioners say they will try to acquire a new park site to open during the city's 1976 celebration.

Commissioners discussed the plans at a board meeting Tuesday but Park Director Robert Kunkel said yesterday officials were "strictly looking" right now.

NIPC to study bike trail?

Park officials have agreed to ask the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) for help in studying a proposed bicycle trail.

Under study is a six-mile connecting trail extending from Des Plaines to Skokie.

Boundary dispute in court Feb. 11

Attorneys for Mount Prospect and Des Plaines will go into court Feb. 11 to defend their towns' annexations of the same piece of property.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Arthur L. Dunne yesterday set the new date during a brief hearing in his Civic Center courtroom.

In addition, he instructed Mount Prospect to prepare a response to Des Plaines' suit challenging the village's annexation of 30 acres of property that had previously been annexed by Des Plaines. The response must be submitted by Jan. 28.

MEANWHILE, plans are being firmed up for a possible out-of-court settlement.

A tentative meeting date of Jan. 29 has been set for representatives of the two neighboring suburbs to get together to try to resolve their boundary dispute.

Mayor Herbert Behrel and Ald. Alan Abrams and Richard Ward will be present on behalf of Des Plaines, and Mayor Robert D. Teichert and Trustees George B. Anderson and Patrick J. Link will appear for Mount Prospect.

THE DISPUTE concerns property around the intersection of Elmhurst and Algonquin roads, which has been claimed by both municipalities.

The 30-acre parcel cited in the lawsuit lies generally east of Elmhurst Road, and includes the Waterfall and Terranova restaurants and the Colonial apartments.

Also expected to be discussed in the Jan. 29 meeting is a 10-acre lot west of Elmhurst Road which is currently undeveloped.

Like the 30-acre piece, it was annexed first by Des Plaines and later by Mount Prospect, which contended that the initial annexation was improper because of legal technicalities.

Earlier, the two towns clashed over the former Dawn Fresh Mushroom Farm at the southwest corner of Elmhurst Road and Dempster Street. That 8.9-acre parcel was awarded by the court to Mount Prospect.

Both suburbs are anxious to extend their boundaries around unincorporated property in order to reap sales and property tax benefits.

Early-film stars to highlight historical series

The Marx Brothers, W. C. Fields, the Keystone Cops and other old-time screen heroes may become regular visitors to the Des Plaines Historical Society.

According to director Richard Welch, the antics of early film greats will be presented as part of a film series pilot program at the Historical Society's meeting Jan. 23.

"We wanted to see if this type of thing would be popular with our membership," said Welch. He said ideas for the films were suggested through questionnaires sent in by society members.

If enough community interest is generated in the series, Welch said the films may be presented on a regular basis. He could not say, however, what films would be presented or how often they would be shown.

"We'd like to get feature length films, the ones you don't see on television everyday, based on our money," he said.

An "Our Gang" comedy will be shown at the January meeting. Jackie Hofer, now a communications clerk at the Des Plaines police department, appeared in the mid-1930s series. Also to be shown is a segment from the Marx Brothers film, "Horsefeathers."

The meeting and films will begin at 8 p.m. at the Historical Society museum meeting room, 777 Lee St. Nonmembers will be charged 50 cents to see the films.

Surprise! Telephone bill to go down

Local residents should find a small but pleasant surprise when they receive their telephone bills this month — they may go down.

Martin Brown of Central Telephone Co. said that as of Jan. 1, 1974, another reduction of the federal excise tax went into effect. With the reduction, the government will charge eight per cent tax on all services except installations.

Under the federal excise, estate and gift tax of 1970, the excise tax rate on telephone service will be reduced one per cent each year until 1982, when the tax will be eliminated altogether.

Mortgage money more plentiful

Suburb housing outlook not so bad

by JOE SWICKARD

The outlook for the 1974 housing market in the Northwest suburbs is cautiously optimistic.

The positive spotlight shines on increasingly available mortgage money. The limelight is less bright when focused on new home construction. Real and anticipated shortages of building material are blamed by some experts for dimming the outlook for the latter.

Jack Kemmerly, of Kemmerly Real Estate Co., is one observer who feels the market is improving for those looking for a home in the Northwest suburbs.

"The thinking has been very negative but now the money picture is getting better," he said.

Kemmerly said prospective buyers are now turning to other sources besides savings and loans for their mortgages. He said many persons are using, for the first time, alternative sources such as Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration financing.

KEMMERLY CITED VA financing in recalling a local physician who recently purchased a home with no down payment.

"He (the doctor) had it available to him all these years and just never used it," he said.

Kemmerly admitted the market picture was not as bright as it was a few years ago when people saw the value of their homes double.

"Last year people were gouging. The prices that were being asked were highly inflated. The market ate its head off. Now the average house stays on the market about two or three months, which is normal. before it would only stay on the market two or three weeks," he said.

He said part of the problem was homeowners started to think of their house as an investment rather than a place of shelter. People expected, he said, high returns when it came time to sell.

"The key," Kemmerly said, "is that the market has plateaued."

PLATEAU OR NOT, Kemmerly said the first week in January "was the best we've ever had."

Nathan Parmet, sales manager for Miller Builders Northgate subdivision in Arlington Heights, also reported a big week to start off the year.

"We sold three homes the first week in January. This is in comparison to December when we didn't sell any," he said.

Parmet said December is traditionally slow because of the holidays. He said the first part of the year is traditionally faster, but three homes in the first week is well above the norm.

"We're getting young people who can put down a lot of money right away. They have good jobs, but not the kind where they can put down that amount," he said.

He surmised the young people were getting these substantial down payments from relatives willing to help them buy their first home.

KEMMERLY AND Parmet disagree whether the usury rate (maximum interest allowed on a loan) will be raised above the current 8 per cent ceiling in Illinois.

Parmet contends it would be political suicide for a legislator to sponsor a bill raising the rate. "It would just kill him with the voters," he said

Kemmerly said the trade unions would actively push for higher rates. His theory is the more money available for construction, the more work for the union carpenters and plumbers, and thus it is a politically realistic move to raise the usury rates.

Even with money more available for mortgages, housing may be difficult to find for the first time buyer. Inflation continues to boost prices up in the new home field.

Some home builders are predicting a six to eight per cent rise in construction costs which would carry over to the purchase price of the new house.

Robert W. Starck, president of Robert W. Starck and Co. Realtors, said he was "most optimistic" about the current market.

He said, like others, he expected an 8 per cent inflation rate in housing this year.

HE SAID POTENTIAL buyers' concern about a tight and expensive money market caused business to level off last fall. "Now it's evident prices are going still higher," he said. "It's better to pay 8 per cent interest for a mortgage than ride the inflation we're going to have."

Hel like Kemmerly and Parmet, said despite cold weather and gasoline shortages the past few weekends have been busy.

The tight money and rising costs may have acted to shield another factor: shortages in vital construction materials.

Reinforcing steel, cement, asphalt, insulating board, plumbing fixtures and bricks all are in short supply going into 1974.

Cement product has been cut back and some plants may have to close because they do not meet environmenatl control standards. Cement is costly to ship over long distances because of its weight.

SOME BUILDERS claim they have been rationed on the number of bricks they can receive, with a six-month delay and limited color choice.

At least one large brickyard in Illinois stopped operations in December.

Despite rising costs and shortages the picture is bright in places. Bell Federal Savings has started lending mortgage money again.

In late 1973, Bell stopped lending mortgage money. The new mortgages now can be written for 80 per cent of the cost of the home at 7.9 per cent interest. Prior to the freeze, Bell was requiring 30 per cent down and giving 70 per cent mortgages.

However, the picture varies in the Northwest suburbs. Arlington Federal Savings and Loan is making 80 per cent "conventional" mortgages to customers and non-customers at 7.8 per cent interest.

PALATINE SAVINGS and Loan Assn. is just making the loans on a "limited basis." Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association still has their mortgage moratorium in effect.

Home Data, Inc., a Hinsdale research firm, foresees Schaumburg as experiencing continued growth in the housing market. The firm is not alone in their assessment of that town. Bell Federal's Survey of Building listed Schaumburg as the new housing leader for last year.

According to the Bell Survey, 1,209 homes were built there last year, as well as 932 apartments.

Kemmerly made another forecast for 1974 based on the economic climate. He said the shortages and rising costs might limit new homes. As a result, older homes will be more attractive to buyers.

Starck said he expects housing to continue to sell, " . . . In spite of the fact some economists are talking recession, people have to have housing. I don't think they'll deny themselves one of these basic values in life."

County tax bills may increase in 1975

budget and personnel cutbacks last fall, but reached into his Christmas stocking to find funds for the criminal justice departments without boosting the corporate levy. About 64 per cent of the corporate fund is allocated for protection of citizens and property and another 25 per cent is tabbed for general government, assessment and collection of taxes.

Dunne said extra money came from five sources — $4 million from interest on investments, $2 million from earlier disbursement of taxes which avoided purchasing tax anticipation warrants, $1.3 million from the county's new car sales tax, $1 million from late tax penalties and $6.75 million of money carried from 1973.

"Unnecessary surpluses" were criticized by the Civic Federation which charged that elimination of the carryover funds would have reduced taxes 6.3 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The federation also called for a centralized personnel program to include all county employes, a review of county tax policy in unincorporated areas and preparation of a six-year capital improvements budget which would lead to "more orderly planning of major construction projects."

The Civic Federation said that a 62 per cent jump in cost of administering the county pension fund is excessive and should be reexamined.

THE FEDERATION praised improved county budget procedures, start of a job work-order program to "better utilize personnel," a reduction in the number of temporary employes and a joint purchasing program started with the City of Chicago.

The corporate fund tax levy was frozen in 1972 by board resolution. Estimated revenue in 1974 will be about $55.8 million, based on a $23 per $10,000 of assessed valuation levy. Other revenue will come from $22.7 million in federal revenue sharing. About $2 million in revenue sharing funds is not appropriated in Dunne's budget.

44% boost in county election budget hit by GOP hopeful

The topic of the Cook County Board meeting was Pres. George Dunne's executive budget.

The speakers waited on a long list to offer budget praise, requests for additional funds and charges of unnecessary spending.

Then, came Lola Flamm.

Lola Flamm

She began demurely. "I speak for myself as a private citizen. . . I am specifically concerned about the allocation of funds to the county clerk election division."

MRS. FLAMM OF Evanston had launched into page two of her statement — where she noted that the election division budget will increase 44 per cent to $6.6 million this year — when the protest began.

"There's a tinge of political flavor in the remarks being made. This is not the place," Dunne said.

"Is Mrs. Flamm running for public office herself?" Democrat Comr. John Stroger asked.

"Yes, sir. I am the Republican candidate for county clerk," Mrs. Flamm said.

"I am asking you to take responsibility for the money you appropriate," she said as Comr. Jerome Huppert, chairman of the finance committee meeting, ruled her out of order.

MRS. FLAMM'S speech ended about five-and-a half pages short of its typed conclusion. And, the commissioners continued their budget hearing without looking for her message.

What the commissioners missed was Mrs. Flamm's fear that county election machinery will become a new "battleground for federal lawsuits, injunctions and disciplinary actions" under direction of County Clerk Stanley Kusper.

Kusper was chairman of the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners during the last city election and Kusper was defendant in a recent federal court suit that led to formation of election guidelines by Judge Hubert Will in a Dec. 20, 1973 decision.

"Why was it necessary for a lawsuit of this magnitude to have been filed? Why did a federal judge have to order observance of the law in such details? The inescapable conclusion is that it was because of the manner in which the incumbent county clerk, Mr. Kusper, chose to conduct the board of election commissioners," Mrs. Flamm's speech said.

WILL'S RULING called for training of election judges, registration officers and canvassers; a five-day deadline before elections for party chairmen to submit supplemental lists of election judges; radio-equipped vehicles to aid in investigation of election-day irregularities; barring of election division employes from political activity; up-to-date maintenance of precinct binders; availability for inspection of registration and election documents; examination of nomination petitions by a handwriting expert; use of public buildings for voting and printing of election materials in languages other than English in some areas.

The changes would be made without "significant additional cost," Mrs. Flamm said. "Attach some strings to the election division."

Emergency room misunderstandings

Impatient public tough to deal with

by LINDA PUNCH
and BOB GALLAS

Last of a series

Most people are disillusioned by their first visit to an emergency room.

Conditioned by television and movies, they expect quick treatment from a warm and sympathetic staff. Nobody fills out bothersome forms and nobody pays bills.

Instead, emergency room patients find long waiting lines, harried staff members and high costs.

"Everyone likes instant service like at McDonald's," Monica Kulikowski, R.N., supervisor of the Northwest Community Hospital emergency room, said. "We aren't running a factory."

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS are constantly battling the image of doctors idling behind closed doors while patients suffer in the waiting room, according to Renee Lameka, R.N., patient care manager of the Holy Family Hospital emergency department.

"We take people on a first come, first served basis with priorities taken first," she said. "We don't keep anyone waiting if they are bleeding or in any distress."

"It seems to many people like we're doing nothing. When the doors are closed, they don't know what's going on inside," Mrs. Lameka added.

Dr. Stanley Zydlo, MESA chief of emergency services at Northwest Community Hospital, notes that people who complain about waiting don't understand "triage" or the sorting out of patients by the seriousness of the injury or illness.

"Someone who can't breathe goes before someone who's been waiting an hour with a cut lip," he said. "If people complain, I say 'Don't get mad at me, I just saved a kid's life.' The cut lip can wait."

DESPITE LARGER staffs, emergency rooms "can't see and treat everybody at once," according to Mrs. Lameka.

"A patient may be very sick with abdominal pains. Meantime the doctors are inside trying to resuscitate a heart patient. I think people forget this," she said.

Staff members try to facilitate treatment by processing a patient before the doctor sees him — ordering X-rays, soaking cuts, cleaning wounds.

"It seems like we're doing nothing but there's always something being done for someone," she said.

Dr. Robert Anzinger, director of emergency medical services at Lutheran General Hospital, said, "We see people in the emergency room on the average faster than a doctor sees patients in his office — and they have appointments."

"The true emergencies aren't waiting in the hall dying. We get all the acute emergencies in the treatment room right away," he said.

VISITORS to the emergency room also complain about hospital officials' seeming obsession with permission forms, insurance information and background information.

"We've got to know who we're dealing with — the patient's name, age and address," Mrs. Lameka said. "We're working with a lot of people and we have to have some cross-check."

While laymen may consider consent for treatment unimportant, hospitals are "in big trouble if we treat someone without consent," she added.

"The only reason doctors require consent is because Americans are so suit conscious," she said. "If it's a life-threatening situation we'll go ahead without consent but you can't cram medical help down people's throats."

Dr. Anzinger notes that doctors are open to criminal charges if they treat a patient without his permission.

"I have to have a release form. If I stick a patient with a needle or operate without permission, that's assault," he said.

ALTHOUGH hospitals request insurance information when admitting a patient to the emergency room, "no one is turned away because they don't have insurance or money," Dr. Zydlo said.

"We try to keep the information gathered to a minimum before a patient is seen. We get the information and look into the bill after treatment," he said.

People complain about the callousness of discussing money in an emergency situation, but Dr. Anzinger notes, "We can't lose money and keep going."

"We try to collect from people who don't have an insurance program before they leave," he said. "If they can't pay at the time we don't bother them. We don't always collect."

Perhaps the largest public outcry is against the high costs of emergency care. Minimum rates at the four local hospitals range from a low of $17 at Northwest Community Hospital to a high of $19.50 at Lutheran General Hospital.

HOSPITAL officials blame the increased costs on several factors, including better staffing, more expensive equipment, a shortage of medical goods, and the growing number of people using the emergency room.

Jackie Carrier, R.N., ambulatory service manager at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, said emergency rooms "have to maintain a highly skilled staff and lots of equipment in a 24-hour readiness state."

"It's like going to a specialist for treatment. They charge more, too," she said.

Three local hospitals — Alexian Brothers, Holy Family and Lutheran General — charge patients a flat rate for doctors' and nurses' fees. Charges for additional equipment or services, such as suture sets and X-rays, are extra.

EMERGENCY ROOM patients at Northwest Community Hospital are billed on a sliding scale with a minimum $7 fee for the use of the emergency room and $10 for the doctor's fee. Both fees can increase depending on the treatment given and the equipment used.

Hospital officials realize that bad feelings arise because of a lack of commu-

Mazda officials rip EPA claim of low gas mileage

Mazda automobile dealers in Illinois said yesterday their customers are getting 18 to 22 miles per gallon of gasoline on their 1974 rotary-engine cars.

The information contradicted statements made last week by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, which gave the car a lower mileage rating.

The EPA released figures saying Mazda gets only up to 11 miles per gallon of gasoline. The Chicagoland Mazda Dealer Assn. said at a press conference yesterday at the Marriott Hotel that the EPA's mileage testing procedures were faulty and that their customers report getting good mileage on their newly purchased autos.

The EPA was using a start-stop method testing to determine whether cars were meeting emission standards, said Mike Harrington, Mazda district manager for Chicago. Then they looked at the gas gauge and came to their conclusion.

Harrington said it was unfair to release these figures when the EPA wasn't even testing for mileage in the first place. He said the EPA's report embittered Mazda because it is the only company in the United States with complete 1975 emission control devices already built into its cars.

The original statement, released by Eric Stork, deputy assistant EPA administrator, stated, in part, "the rotary engine, which has many things going for it, is quite inefficient in its use of fuel. In comparison to other cars in its weight class, the Mazda gets substantially less fuel economy.

Mazda officials are expected to meet with Stork Friday to settle the matter.

Scouting news

St. Stephens Cub Scout Pack 60 opened its January meeting with the presentation of colors by the Webeloes.

Jim Ragusin and Matt O'Toole were accepted into the Scouts by Dennis LaSota and the Arrow-of Light award was presented to Jim Ragusin.

Den 1 won the attendence award at Scout Mass and the Webeloes won the attendence award at the Pack meeting.

The following new denners assistant denners were announced: Den 1 — Paul Friedman, denner, Mike Yehl, assistant denner; Den 3 John Saydak, denner, John Ragusin assistant denner.

Den 2 put on a skit about the new and old versions of the pinewood derby.

Mr. Ragusin, who is retiring in February, was presented a plaque by the denners of all the dens.

The Order of the Arrow dance team entertained at the meeting and asked the Scouts to join them in several dances. The meeting closed with the Webeloes retiring the colors.

'It's getting heavier'

Mother tells district board of drug problem in schools

by KATHERINE BOYCE

The family problems caused by teenage drug abuse found their way into the High School Dist. 214 Board room this week as a mother tearfully appealed to the board for help with her son.

The mother of a Buffalo Grove High School student who was suspended from school for possession of marijuana told the board Monday that the six-day suspension her son received from the school "was not a punishment to him. All it taught him is that he had an extra week off from school."

Under Dist. 214's policy on drugs, a student caught using illegal drugs is suspended until he or she brings in a note from the doctor saying he has discussed the drug problem with the student.

THE BUFFALO GROVE woman asked the board to come up with a better way of helping students who are using drugs, possibly through a drug clinic offered by the school.

"There is a drug problem in Dist. 214 and it's getting heavier," she said.

The board listened to the boy's mother in public session for more than an hour as she told how she noticed a change in her son's behavior last August, how she has talked with him and tried to help him, how the boy helps pay the electric bill for the family now that his father is out of work after 25 years, and how she fears for the future of her younger daughter and 10-year-old son. Through tears she pleaded with board members to come up with a way to help students who have turned to drugs.

Board member Jack Costello said the answer may lie in some way "to shame the youths in the eyes of their own peers." The mother said she was doubtful it would work. When her son returned to school he was "greeted with open arms by other students. He's a martyr in their eyes."

She said one reason her son smokes marijuana is because other kids do it and it is a way of making friends. They even share it with each other as a token of freindship, she said.

BOARD MEMBER Arthur Aronson said he sees no alternative to suspension.

"We know it's not working 100 per cent but we know keeping him in school won't either," he said.

Costello said the board may find an answer from other students.

"I believe that we would only be able to find the answer from some students who have been suspended." The mother agreed. "I think they would speak more freely with someone other than the family," she said.

"I have a feeling that what a young person needs today is to be needed," said Costello. Twenty-five years ago a teenager was an integral part of the family and he was needed to help with family chores, he said.

The boy's mother said all her children help out in the family. While she works, the daughter cooks and cleans house, and the son helps pay the bills. "There is no problem in love, in understanding and communication," she said.

"Some parents feel we're closing our eyes to this and we're not," said Aronson. "We just don't know where to turn."

The board commended the woman for her bravery in coming to the board and for her concern, not just for her own son, but for all students. They promised her they would try to find some answers.

Board members said they hope an answer may lie in a new program for educating teachers on teen-age drug abuse.

RICHARD HEMME, a teacher at Elk Grove High School, told the board about a 14-week course in drug abuse he has developed.

"I think the teachers are the most unaware of the drug scene," he said. "If a teacher knows something at 8 a.m. he can keep the kid from going down at noon."

Speakers from law enforcement, juvenile and health agencies will speak to the teachers for two hours each Tuesday beginning Jan. 22.

Students and parents will also be invited to participate in videotaped discussions to be shown to other teachers in Dist. 214, Hemme said. Costello volunteered to take part in the program as a board member.

UOP official to speak

Roy B. Heimbrock, Universal Oil Products Co. official, will discuss the use of UOP's catalytic converter and other products being introduced by the automotive industry to improve the environment at today's meeting of the Des Plaines Lions Club International.

The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the Des Plaines Elks Club, 495 N. Lee St.

UOP's automotive products division produces and markets automotive exhaust pollution control catalysts. In his position with the division, Heimbrock is responsible for marketing systems for vehicles already on the road.

Prior to joining UOP in 1973, Heimbrock was marketing manager for Wayne Knitting Mills in Chicago and Detroit. He attended Colorado State University.

Maine North concert

Maine North High School's concert band will present "A Mid-Winter Concert" Thursday, at 8 p.m. in the spectator gym.

Under the direction of O.D. Premo, the concert band will play "The Colonel Bogey March" by Kenneth Alford; "Grace Variants (from the Hymn Amazing Grace)" by John Zdeclik; "Les Preludes" by Franz Liszt; "Pusillonimous Pussycat" by Clavin Huber; "Elegy" by John Chance; and "Three Cameos" by Jared Spears.

Robert Sutter, a professional vocalist, will be featured in several selections from Camelot.

Admission for the concert is $1 adults and 50 cents for students. Fine Arts Booster Membership Cards will also be honored.

Maine North is located at 9511 Harrison, Des Plaines.

Boys' basketball contest Jan. 26

A pass, dribble and shoot basketball contest co-sponsored by the Des Plaines Optimist Club and the Des Plaines Park District will be held Jan. 26 at the following locations: Algonquin and Iroquis Junior High School's and Rand Park at 11 a.m. Chippewa Junior High School at 10 a.m.

Fifth and sixth-grade boys are eligible to participate free of charge. First and second place prizes will be awarded in both age groups at the four locations. Points will be used for accuracy in passing from a distance of 15 feet to a direct target, and also a bounce pass to a target; three passes in each division.

The dribbling phase will consist of dribbling around a triangled area and points will be awarded on a basis of distance covered in six seconds.

The shooting phase will consist of three shots from a 11-foot foul line for 11-year-olds and 13 feet for 12-year-olds, and three additional shots from any place on the court. For information call the park district, 296-6106, or register at the above locations on the contest date.

Maine West fencing team finishes second

The Maine West High School girls' fencing team finished its season by placing second in the final tri-meet.

Arlington scored 12 points to top Maine West's 9, and Schaumburg placed third with 6.

Karen Neetz, in her final appearance as a Maine West foiler, fenced in the No. 1 position and won five bouts, losing only one. She tied with Patti Pinski of Arlington as high scorer of the meet. Kathy Dueball won four bouts and lost two. The highlight for Kathy was her win over Patti Pinski. Fencing in the third position for the first time, Yvonne Monreal lost 6 bouts.

In a previous tri-meet, Arlington took first place with 22 wins and 10 losses, Maine West placed second with 17 wins and 15 losses, and Schaumburg placed third with 9 wins and 23 losses. Fencing for Maine West were Karen Neetz 6-2, Kathy Dueball 5-3, Debbie Maday 4-4, and Kathy Pelinski 2-6.

Season individual records are Karen Neetz 20-6, Kathy Dueball 15-11, Debbie Maday 6-10, Kathy Pelinski 6-14, Mary Rossi 7-4, Sue Permoda 4-3, Yvonne Monreal 4-10, Nancy Parrotte 3-5, Sandy Oehl 1-0, Sandy Sadler 1-2, Sue Paska 1-5, and Sue Seidler 1-4. Other members of the team include Terhilda Garrido, Janet Krebs and Anna Rossi.

Dist. 214 wrapup

More cash sought to pay off schools

High School Dist. 214 will ask the state for $451,466 to pay off bonds used to build Rolling Meadows and Buffalo Grove high schools and to reduce the tax rate for residents.

Board members agreed Monday to apply for the money through the Illinois Capital Development Board assistance programs created by the state legislature last summer. School districts may apply for funds to help build new schools and pay off bonds for schools that were approved by referendum after Jan. 1, 1969.

Residents passed an $8.75 million referendum in 1969 to build Rolling Meadows and a $10.5 million referendum for Buffalo Grove High School in 1971.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business services, said the 32.75-cent per $100 assessed value tax rate being used to pay for the two buildings would be reduced by about 4.5 cents if the funds are approved. The reduction would not take place until a year after the funds are received, he said.

Weber said the district may apply for more money again next year to pay off more bonds. Next year's request would probably be about the same as this year, he said.

Bus service rates to rise 7%

High School Dist. 214 will pay 6.75 per cent more for school bus service next year through a contract it has negotiated with two bus companies now serving the district.

The district has three-year contracts with Ritzenthaler Bus Co., and Cook County School Bus Co., which expire at the end of this school year. Board members agreed to extend the contract for an additional year instead of asking for bids for a new contract on bus service.

According to Nelson Lowry, director of non-instructional staffing, bus service bidding will be more competitive next year because many of the elementary school districts in the area will also be asking for bids.

Niles Township High School Dist. 219 was criticized recently by the Better Government Assn. for negotiating its bus contract instead of bidding.

However, Supt. Edward Gilbert said he checked with Dist. 214's attorney and officials in the state school superintendent's office and was advised to go ahead and negotiate a one-year extension on the contract. Dist. 214's situation is different, he said, because it is not negotiating a new contract but only a one-year extension.

The daily rates for both Cook County and Ritzenthaler for next year are 6.75 per cent higher than this year. Ritzenthaler's rate will increase from $41.90 to $44.73 per bus per day, and Cook County's will increase from $44.24 to $47.22. Rates for charter buses and athletic buses will also be higher next year.

Substitute asks for pay hike

One of High School Dist. 214's substitute teachers says he's not being paid enough for his services.

Donald Kousnetz appeared before the board of education asking for a raise in the $28-per-day pay rate for substitute teachers. "It's not in line with today's living. We are on the bottom of the economic scale," he said.

Board members heard a similar appeal from another substitute teacher last November, when the board agreed to raise the rate from $27.50 to $28, increase the hourly rate from $5.50 to $5.60, and the rate substitutes earn after 10 days on the same job from $33 to $33.60.

Next September, the daily rate will be raised to $28.50, the hourly rate for substitutes to $5.70 and for teachers of homebound students to $6.50, and the daily rate after 10 days will be raised to $34.20.

Board member Richard Bachhuber pointed out that there are many substitute teachers available to Dist. 214 and he couldn't justify a pay increase to taxpayers in the district. The board decided to stick to the rate they are paying now and increases planned for next year.

been to save life and I don't know how to answer critics who call me callous or heartless," he said.

"I DID WHAT I had to do and was instructed to do. I believe it was the right thing to do and am not about to hide behind village officials and call it their policy and not mine. If it had been only my decision, I would have made the same decision and that is to ensure that people of Elk Grove Village have protection first.

"The state's attorney has requested all information about this horrible tragedy and that tapes of our calls be handed over to him for investigation," he said.

"I have done so. My only hope now, is that this harrowing ordeal will end with hope for the people in unincorporated areas and that they somehow will all have the fire and ambulance protection by a state decree.

"For me this means an end to hope and a career," said Hulett.

HE IS A SHAKEN — nearly broken man. His mail is filled with hate letters from people across the country who've read stories of the Elk Grove incident in their local newspapers. Phone calls are often filled with threats against his life, his family and his home. Obscenities and words of hate are a part of their daily life.

"For the first time in my life I am ashamed and embarrassed to get in the fire chief's car and drive through the village.

"My worst anguish is to read the letters of hate directed at me from strangers in other states and people of this village — people who have heard sketchy television newscasts that say I turned down a husband's pleas for help for his dying wife.

"If people of Elk Grove Village can believe this, my life's work has been nothing."

Husband: 'there is no bitterness in my heart'

ment between people in this unincorporated area and village officials, I just knew I needed their help," he said.

"People are saying I didn't contract with nearby Elk Grove Village because of the price difference or because I'm a miser. I'd have paid anything to save my wife," he said.

"When I called Elk Grove Village I made it quite clear that my call was an emergency. Because of all the bad feeling between us, (Elk Grove Village officials and people in nearby unincorporated areas) they should have known they'd be the last ones I would have called unless it was life or death."

PETTEE SAID the village ambulance has made hundreds of ambulance calls into the unincorporated area. "On the day they refused my call I believe they were making a point.

"I can't remember how many calls I made to police and fire departments. I'm not even sure which ones I called. I called again and again and kept running out to the road to watch for the Roselle Ambulance.

"It was heartbreaking for me to know that the hospital was just a few short blocks away and the Elk Grove ambulance was so close and yet not coming," he said.

"It took so long, my wife struggled and struggled for about 20 minutes and I think when the Roselle ambulance arrived she was not breathing," Pettee said.

"They made a heartless decision they must now live with," he said. "All I know is I will never contract with them for service. I'll stay with Roselle — far away or not."

Fire departments review mutual aid agreements

Representatives from eight area fire departments met yesterday to review their policy of mutual assistance when responding to emergency calls for ambulance service.

Wheeling Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen, who called the meeting, said it was an attempt to insure there would be no repetition of the Jan. 6 Elk Grove Village incident in the eight departments' protection districts. In addition to Wheeling, the fire departments attending were Vernon, Northbrook, Glenview Rural, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

In the Elk Grove Village incident, Jean Pettee and her unborn child died after her husband's telephone calls for ambulance help were referred from Elk Grove Village Fire Department to Roselle, where the family had a contract for emergency service. A nearby Elk Grove Village ambulance was called back and the woman had to wait while the Roselle ambulance traveled about six miles to the Pettee home.

Koeppen said the departments merely verified that the current practice would continue. "We always did have some sort of agreement," he said. "If someone is really in trouble, we go and then radio the correct department."

The patient would receive emergency treatment on the scene until the proper department arrived, Koeppen added. "We've done this for years."

Lincoln penny most universally accepted currency

Among most collectors, the Lincoln cent still commands the title of "King of Coins." But a survey of the general public would show the silver dollar to be the most cherished of all U.S. coinage. It is the only piece of currency still accepted anywhere in the world without question, and more often than not at more than face value.

This has always been true of the "American cartwheel" even during a period between 1873 and 1880 when the "Trade Dollar" could be purchased for less than face value.

It contains 412.5 grains of silver, which is more than the silver equivalent of 10 dimes, four quarters or two half-dollars. Even the most worn specimen is always worth more than the declared value on the reverse.

THIS MEDALLIC TRIBUTE to America's five Great Lakes by the late Lorado Taft of Illinois will be struck in January for the first time in pure silver by the Society of Medalists.

Pure-silver art medal to honor Great Lakes

An art medal inspired by the five waterways that make up the Great Lakes will be struck in pure silver for the first time in January by the Society of Medalists.

The bas-relief fine art medal by the late American sculptor, Lorado Taft of Illinois, will be reproduced in silver in a limited edition of 700 specimens. The medal is only available to members of the society. The society is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization founded in 1930 to encourage American artists in the art form of medallic sculpture.

THE UNITED STATES has had 10 types of silver dollars from 1794 to 1974. The flowing hair bust from 1794 to 1795; the Draped Bust 1795 through 1798; the Draped Bust with Heraldic Eagle reverse 1798 through 1803; the Type IV Seated Liberty without the motto "In God We Trust" 1840 to 1866; the same design on the Type V with the motto; Type VI Trade Dollar from 1873 through 1885; the Type VII Liberty head shown above from 1878 through 1904 and again in 1921; the famous Peace dollar from 1921 to 1935 and the two Eisenhower dollars, Types IX and X from 1971 to date.

Of the 10 types, the Type VII Liberty head must be considered the most popular throughout the world and the one coin with a ready market.

While many of the more valuable silver dollars are accounted for in private collections, thousands are still extant and presumed to be locked away among personal keepsakes with the owners unaware of their true worth.

AS A SERVICE to our readers we have revised an earlier "Twenty Top Value Dollar" list to show the latest market prices as realized in sales and auctions up to the last of 1974. The list also includes the present value of several one, two and five dollar bills.

To receive your free copy simply send a stamped self-addressed envelope to Twenty Top Dollars, P.O. Box 555, Wooster, Ohio, 44691.

The values given in the list should not be construed as a committal to buy or sell dollars by this column, and while the prices may vary from dealer to dealer, they represent a true overall average in the market.

For example, an 1882 dollar (illustrated) brought an uncirculated price of $4.00 in 1971. The same date is listed in today's Red Book at $7.00, for a 75 per cent increase. The same is true of all 1882 dollars issued at the Philadelphia, New Orleans, Carson City and San Francisco mints.

PARAMOUNT AVERAGES
Dec. 25, 1973
Nickel Coins

Nickel coins in a collectors category have always found a ready market at national auctions and coin sales, even when gold and silver portfolios show a tendency to lag or drop. A sure sign that copper and nickel collections will always share a popularity on a par with silver and gold coins.

Since this is the last 1973 Paramount Average for the Nickel Coin Portfolio it may be interesting to note that during a 60-day period nickels have increased 78.5 points over the original $1,000 base.

6 new issues yet to come during January

The U.S. Postal Service, during January, will release six new stamped paper items. Because of the closeness of the releases and the late announcement, requests for first-day cancellations will be honored through Feb. 15.

The items are:

- An 18-cent regular postage stamp honoring Doctor Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman doctor of medicine of modern times.
- An 18-cent international airmail stamp featuring the Statue of Liberty.
- A 26-cent international airmail stamp depicting Mount Rushmore.
- A 12-cent international surface rate postal card bearing a ship's figurehead and the inscription "Visit USA Bicentennial Era."
- An 18-cent international postal card featuring a weathervane and the Bicentennial inscription.
- An 18-cent international aerogramme depicting a globe and an airplane in flight.

Requests for first-day cancellations, with the proper remittance which is the cost of the item itself, should be sent to:

- 18-cent Blackwell Stamp, Postmaster, Geneva, N.Y. 14456 (release date Jan. 23)
- 18-cent Statue of Liberty Stamp, Postmaster, Hempstead, N.Y. 11551 (Jan. 11)
- "26-cent Rushmore Stamp, Postmaster, Rapid City, S.D. 57791 (Jan. 2)
- 12-cent Postal Card, Postmaster, Miami, Fla. 33101 (Jan. 4)
- 18-cent Postal Card, Postmaster, Miami, Fla. 33101 (Jan. 4)
- "18-cent Aerogramme, Postmaster, Atlanta, Ga. 30304 (Jan. 4)

Space limitations prohibit simultaneous printing of all six photos but we will try to do so two at a time over the next three weeks.

FRANK FISCHER, secretary of the Northwest Philatelic Club, tells us the annual stamp auction will be held Wednesday, Jan. 23. The auction was postponed last month because of bad weather.

Guests are invited to the session which begins at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mark's Youth Center, 205 S. Wille, Mount Prospect.

THE U.S. 8-cent Special Stamp for Someone Special (Love) stamp and the 8-cent Einstein stamp are being printed and distributed in additional quantities for use until the proposed new postage rates go into effect in March.

These stamps were selected to better utilize the varied printing capabilities of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The 8-cent Eisenhower and American Flag stamps still are being printed also.

'Conserv-A-Ride' beats the gas crunch

Business today

by EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT — The nation's recreation vehicle manufacturers are having a rough time with their luxury motor homes because of gas shortages and higher gasoline costs.

Two giants of the industry — Winnebago and Champion — have cut back production. General Motors is delivering some of its $15,000-and-up motor homes as shells to be outfitted by the owners as offices or mobile doctors' offices.

But Sheller-Globe Corp., of Toledo, Ohio, has found a way to cash in on the energy crisis and still provide a gasoline-conserving vehicle.

THE COMPANY, which recently signed an agreement with the Ford Motor Co. to produce a motor home for Ford dealers, has introduced a "Conserv-A-Ride" line of vehicles to ease the transition from the passenger car.

"With the growing government emphasis on reduced use of personal cars to and from the job, we believe 'Conserv-A-Ride' units will expand the potential of pooled transportation beyond that possible with mass transportation and car pools," says Chester Devenow, chairman and president of Sheller-Globe.

The company has taken its Superior motor home model and, rather than adding a sink, beds, a stove and closets, put in 16 individual aircraft-type seats and reading lights, paneled walls, carpeted floor, work tables, coffee counter and other amenities to accommodate 16 persons.

The motor home, built on a Dodge chassis, retails at about $12,500, a lot cheaper than a bus but more expensive than the large vans offered by the automakers that can seat nine or 10 persons in far less comfort.

THE GOVERNMENT already has begun a national campaign to coax Americans out of their cars and into pooled transportation in hopes of saving gasoline.

The average occupancy of cars used for commuting is now 1.6 persons. Raising it to 3.2 persons through pooling could save 20 billions of gasoline a year, estimates Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar.

"As a matter of national energy conservation policy, Americans must be persuaded to give up single passenger commuter travel wherever possible," Brinegar said recently in kicking off the campaign.

Sheller-Globe also offers the van-type vehicle with high headroom capable of seating 10 and a regular bus seating 40. But it's counting on the converted motor home to cushion some fallout in the market.

DEVENOW said research indicates markets for the unit even without the stimulus of the gasoline shortage.

Some typical areas, in addition to home-to-job transportation, would be large living complexes, campuses, resorts, hotels, airports, government agencies and institutions.

At Champion, the Michigan-based manufacturer is hoping a smaller camper-utility vehicle, called the "Handi-Van" and selling at under $5,000, will take some sting out of its losses in the large motor home market.

Checklist makes it easier to find good insurance men

by CARLTON SMITH

That old blues song, "A Good Man Is Hard to Find," has been revived by Pennsylvania's commissioner of insurance, with a slight change in the title.

"A good insurance man is hard to find," he laments. So he's making it easier for the citizens of his state to find one by distributing "rate your agent" checklists, one for life and health agents, another for property-liability agents.

Most of the checklist questions apply equally to either kind of agent. And certainly it's true, as Commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg says, that "a good agent can be worth his weight in gold; a bad one can be a disaster."

SO WE'll pass along a condensed version of his checklists, hoping it will enable you to find one of those nuggets of gold.

Zero in first on the general professional qualifications of an agent or broker. As a very minimum, he should make it his full-time business. "Avoid part-timers and the incompetent brothers-in-law."

Is he well-established as an agent, or with a well-established agency? Does he have at least four years' experience in the insurance business? And finally, if he's a thorough professional, he'll have done the course work and passed the exams for a CLU designation (Chartered Life Underwriter) or CPCU (Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter).

The agent or broker with such professional qualifications will in all likelihood meet the pragmatic tests of a good insurance man:

Can you reach him when you need him — or do you get just an answering service, or a phone that rings without answer? Does he return calls or answer correspondence promptly?

DOES HE do more than just send you bills every so often? Does he touch base, at least once a year, to see whether you need changes in your insurance program, changes of beneficiaries, etc.?

Does he explain your policies in such a way that you really understand them? Explain cost and coverage differences between companies. Does he compare the cost of life policies in terms of interest-adjusted cost?

Does he explain the use of deductibles, in property and auto policies, to reduce premium costs?

Has he ever made any suggestions that reduced the amount of your premiums?

When you have a claim, does he help to see that you're paid promptly and fairly?

For your agent to get a passing mark, says Commissioner Denenber, you should be able to answer "yes" to at least 67 per cent of these questions. That's "not an acid test, of course," he says, "but it may give you a good idea of what you should expect from an agent."

FINALLY, THERE are a couple of negative indications that may, by themselves, constitute a test:

Does your agent make a habit of adding on service fees, or other extra charges, over and above the premium?

Does he require you to buy life insurance, or homeowners coverage, as a condition of getting auto insurance? "If an agent tries this," Denenberg suggests, "you probably have the wrong agent."

Is it realistic to expect an insurance man to give you the kind of personalized service stipulated by this checklist? Or is it simply a fact of life — as Denenberg admits that some will argue — that in this age of the computer and mass marketing, the sellers of insurance no longer render personal service?

"We're old - fashioned enough to think that they should," is the commissioner's position, "and that some still do."

Retirees should plan well before making the big move

Some 800,000 Americans will retire in 1974.

Of these, nearly 118,000 individuals will relocate. Many of the newly retired breadwinners will travel to retirement communities or areas closer to their children.

"The grass is not always greener elsewhere, however, and the cost of living could be higher than at home — a fact that persons planning retirement should certainly take into consideration," says W. Scane Bowler. He's executive officer of the Pioneer Western Corp. "Without financial planning during their income producing years — including allocations for a possible move — many of these people could wind up with incomes well below present national poverty levels," he said.

IN DOLLAR and cents terms, Bowler explains that the average annual budget of 1974's retired husband and wife must be pegged at $5,855, as compared to '73's total of $5,421 — about an 8 per cent increase to meet higher costs.

He points out that Social Security payments to this couple will cover only about 61 per cent of their expenses — or $3,570 annually.

"Somehow, an elderly couple must find an additional $2,285 — or $190 monthly — in pension benefits or income from savings or investments in order to fulfill their budgetary needs in 1974," Bowler notes.

"This modest income is within the reach of most retirees, but only if they set a definitive retirement goal early while regularly employed. Numerous programs are available to achieve a couple's financial objectives and they can be tailored to fit almost any income."

BOWLER PROJECTS the average retired couple's expenditures for '74 at $1,693 for food; $2,095 for housing expenses — rent, furnishings, utilities and upkeep; $495, transportation; $319, clothing; $470, medical care: $783, other items — recreation, reading material, personal care, gifts for children and grandchildren, an occasional visit to relatives.

He adds that those retirees planning to make long-distance moves should be aware that it may well cost them more in another part of the country. In some areas, for example, living costs run as much as 10 per cent above the national average. "Those approaching retirement age should do their financial planning now so their later years will be full of new opportunities free from financial worry," he concluded.

The environment

U.S. funds curb irks ecologists

by LEA TONKIN

What are friends for, anyhow? The President's move this week to impound federal funds for rivers and streams clean-up projects, and to authorize cuts in spending for nuclear safety programs draws fire from environmentalists. It was only last Nov. 17 when Nixon talked in a speech about being remembered for his contributions to peace, prosperity, energy and the environmental field. Now the sincerity of his offer of friendship to environmentalists is in doubt.

The decision to authorize the Office of Management and the Budget to cut $10 million from the Atomic Energy Commission's safety budget for the next fiscal year could have a significant impact on Northern Illinois residents. Nuclear plants already supply approximately one third of the electric power generated by Commonwealth Edison Co. The AEC is charged with monitoring safety programs at existing nuclear plants.

Additional nuclear plants are on the drawing boards in Edison territory. Slashing the budget for safety programs could affect the AEC investigations and licensing procedures for Edison plants proposed in north central region of the state. These include dual units proposed at the Byron site in Ogle County and at the Braidwood site in Will County.

Among the groups that criticized the cutback in safety funding for the AEC is the Friends of the Earth Organization. Contending that the president's action is "unwise and borders on irresponsibility," Friends of the Earth say in an open letter to the President, "We believe it is foolhardy to ask the AEC to speed up the licensing of dangerous nuclear power plants at the same time as you cut the safety budget. Obviously the consumer will suffer greatly if this cut occurs because there will be a much greater accident risk."

The impoundment of $3 billion in cleanup funds for rivers and streams, adds Friends of the Earth, will allow little more than half the funds allocated for the program to be used. The funds were to be used to meet 1977 treatment standards in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and 1983 waste standards.

Soil, water district meeting

The annual meeting of the North Cook County Soil and Water District will be held Thursday, Jan. 24, at Harper College in Palatine. The session will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Building E.

The guest speaker for the district meeting will be Walter Lewis, professor of architecture at the University of Illinois and an expert in planning for urbanization. He'll discuss impact zoning.

Other business will include the election of three district directors, the presentation of a new sediment and erosion control model ordinance and a question-and-answer session on the resource evaluations the district produces. Reservation information may be obtained by calling 438-5427.

New fuel, energy task force

A fuel and energy work group was recently established by the Midwest office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The task force will be headed by Walter Kovalik, administrative assistant to the regional administrator.

Kovalik said the group will coordinate the environmental aspects of energy activities within six states in Region V (Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Representatives of various EPA divisions will promptly consider requests for fuel variances and will work with federal and state fuel allocation offices.

Latino-income survey disputed data very valid for the people who were interviewed, but working with a service agency that has to justify needs for special programs to the state I find it very disconcerting."

"We're looking for all the help we can get to prove our case and we were hoping this survey would help us do it," Miss Newman added. "Now we'll have to look somewhere else."

Bell said, "People who want to use this survey against whatever kind of programming is done for the poor will be misusing it." In addition, he pointed out that even among the "middle class" Latino families, per capita income is not as high as the average for all families in the Northwest suburbs.

"The families have an average income of $11,000 a year because they generally have two people working full time at unskilled jobs," he said. "Even the Spanish-speaking people who live in the area who are aspiring to be middle class aren't making it the way they hoped they would."

BELL said he would write an addendum to the survey report, making clear that the report does not prove there are no poor people in the area. In addition, Harper officials said they will study what kind of programs can be offered to Latinos in the area.

Bell said he would recommend that the agencies working with the very poor should continue to do so and that cooperative efforts should be set up by Harper and other agencies to help them. In addition, he said, "We should set up programs for people who are less poor."

Impatient public tough to deal with nication between the patient and his family and the emergency room staff. Several local hospitals are studying the possibility of hiring an ombudsman to ease the relationship between patients and staff.

"We have the problem of not conversing with the families of critically ill patients — we become so involved with the patient, we forget about the family," Mrs. Lameka said. "Our first priority is to take care of the patient but the family is important, too."

RTA reforms beaten back

by BOB LAHEY

Political Editor

The Illinois General Assembly took a ho-hum attitude last week toward efforts to beef up some of the weaknesses of the Regional Transportation Authority proposals on which the voters will decide in the March 19 primary election.

The amendments offered in the one-day session when the legislators gathered to hear Gov. Walker's ho-hum State of the State address came mostly from suburban legislators who are seeking to defeat the RTA in its present form.

But ironically, any or all of the amendments would remove objections which they are using in their campaign against the referendum question, and would thereby have enhanced its chances for passage — which are already very strong.

The sponsors of the amendments fully expected to be brushed off. As Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, put it, the amendments were introduced primarily to demonstrate to RTA opponents the futility of seeking changes in the proposal before the March 19 election.

Schlickman took the lead, introducing amendments which would give the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission the power of "review and comment" on some RTA policies. His motion to suspend the rules and bypass committee hearings needed 109 votes — a two-thirds majority — to bring the amendments to the voting stage.

Only 30 or 40 legislators even bothered to vote yes, no or go-to-hell on the Schlickman motion, and other legislators received the same courtesy on their amendments.

Had the House adopted these amendments and gotten the Senate to follow suit, they would literally have gutted the arguments being used against the RTA "compromise."

Eugene Schlickman

An amendment offered by Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estate, would have defined parking facilities to be taxed by the RTA board as public facilities which charge fees. It would have eliminated the somewhat quixotic argument that the lack of a definition of parking facilities in the present bill threatens a tax on private garages and driveways. More importantly, it would have specifically exempted municipal parking meters from an added tax, and would also have eliminated the possibility of taxing such things as shopping center lots.

Rep. Harold A. Katz, D-Glencoe (a supporter of the RTA referendum), and Rep. Giddy Dyer, R-Hinsdale, both sought to expand the membership of the RTA board, which is now set at nine.

Mrs. Dyer sought to expand the board to 15 members, assuring representation of each of the five counties surrounding Cook. Under the present bill, the five counties will name two board members among them. Katz sought to expand the board to 21 members, who would then elect a 5-member executive board.

Either amendment would have diluted opposition to the RTA proposal on grounds that the area outside Chicago will not be sufficiently represented

Another proposal, by Rep. Adeline Geo-Karis, R-Zion, would have required the RTA board to offer bonds for public bids. A major objection to the present bill is that the RTA board may issue up to $500,000 in bonds through private sale.

But the House leadership — with assurances of a half-million dollars from Chicago businesses to sell the RTA referendum — demonstrated a serene confidence that they are going to win, by stifling any attempts to strengthen the bill. The rank and file, as usual, followed the lead goats.

Congress should tackle crises

There was something compelling in Ralph Nader's statement Monday that if the federal government were to announce a shortage of straws, there would be one.

Nader's comment came before a House-Senate economic subcommittee hearing, the first of at least four Congressional hearings into the current energy mess, its causes and real proportions.

It was a challenge to the logic of federal energy chief William E. Simon, who conceded at the hearing that some oil products are more plentiful now than a year ago, but warned that the situation could get worse.

It was another doomsday-style warning from the government to the consumer, who — as Nader pointed out — has gotten attention from the government only in being assigned the principal sacrifice.

Nader's "straws" remark can be stretched to mean many things, principally that if the government talks shortage and crisis enough, it can create both — setting off hysteria buying, hoarding, excessive prices, the squeezing out of some gas station operators and a panic among drivers and heating oil users that will lead them to favor any concession to the oil companies.

It all underlines the one consistent certainty of the energy mess: that no one — including the federal government — really knows what's going on.

There is no question, as many members of Congress have observed, that there is enormous public skepticism about the energy crisis — a belief that the government is playing into the hands of the oil industry, and that the industry can make the crisis whatever it wants, either by saying so or by regulating the flow of oil products.

That skepticism is fed by revelations such as those of the oil companies in the past week that their stocks are much better than we were first grimly told, in some cases greater than a year ago. Or by the federal government saying it's really not so bad now, but it could be.

It is why we welcome enthusiastically the beginning of several congressional hearings into the energy crisis, focusing on a broad range of questions, including pricing, profit and supply in the oil industry; evidence that the Arab oil embargo has had little real impact on the flow; the role of the giant U.S. oil corporations in the creation of shortages.

Some Capitol sources promise "spectacular revelations," particularly when two different Senate hearings begin late this month.

Facts are desperately needed from some source other than the executive branch or industry, and we look forward to whatever flow of information members of Congress can get moving.

Percy's battling

by DONALD LAMBRO

WASHINGTON — Charles Percy believes he has more than a "10 per cent chance" to win the 1976 Republican presidential nomination and is ready to take on anyone who says he doesn't.

Percy, who plans to spend at least $90,000 this year on an as yet undeclared quest for his party's nod, doesn't like being scratched from the race before he's had an opportunity to show his track record.

So Percy bristled when Barry Goldwater bluntly said last November the Illinois senator didn't have a ghost of a chance, predicting that Percy's own state delegation would desert him.

"Right now I wouldn't give Chuck Percy a 10 per cent chance," the Arizona conservative told this reporter in an interview. "I don't think he can get the delegation from his own state. It's not that he's too liberal — but he's too inconsistent. He wanders all over hell's half acre."

Percy, who last year went to great lengths to make peace with President Nixon, quickly contacted Goldwater when he heard of the story and extracted a pledge that Goldwater would support him if he won the nomination.

"He has given me that assurance," Percy said confidently. Goldwater, he added, explained to him "it was just an off-the-cuff remark."

The exchange between the two men is significant because it undoubtedly foreshadows another liberal-conservative party battle in 1976.

As far as Goldwater is concerned, "85 per cent of all Republicans are conservative so we don't worry about the remaining 15 per cent who are not."

The conservative wing of the party will be the dominant voice at the 1976 convention, he believes, and there is no way a moderate-liberal candidate like Percy could be nominated.

During an interview, Percy said Goldwater was "pulling those 85-15 per cent figures out of the air."

"No figures I have seen indicate that," Percy insisted. "In fact, polls show that half of all Republicans see themselves as middle-of-the-road.

"I would say that if he was talking about the 1964 convention which nominated Goldwater where Nelson Rockefeller was booed and where extremism was the symbol, his figures come close to accuracy but that was not a representative year."

Pulling out a sheaf of polls, Percy was prepared to refute Goldwater's 10 per cent estimate of Percy's own prospects.

Charles Percy

Last year, before Gerald Ford became vice president, one nationwide poll gave Percy a 14 per cent rating among Republicans. At the same time, a name recognition survey gave Percy a 54 per cent rating.

But some evidence of the accuracy of Goldwater's political predictions may have been evidenced in a recent Harris poll.

In that survey, Ford was first with 25 per cent of Republicans questioned on their first choice for the GOP nomination. Ronald Reagan came in second with 20 per cent.

Percy, who insists that "it's premature to count anyone out," came in third with 10 per cent. (UPI)

Readers react to Elk Grove tragedy

letters to the editor

As a former resident of Elk Grove, I am amazed and disgusted that anyone in authority, whether the police or fire department or the administrator, had the lack of humanity to stop an ambulance from going to a mercy call. It is a disgrace. The village has the authority to make a charge against the owner of property who does not pay for such service and if not paid a lien can be put against the property.

If I were a member of the Pettee family, I would sue the village which was negligent in their duty.

If a large fire occurred outside the village and a neighboring village called for aid, our fire departent would respond. Why not for the Pettee family?

The Roselle Fire Dept. should be congratulated for the prompt action, although they could not arrive at the hospital soon enough to save Mrs. Pettee's life.

Whoever is responsible for the recall of the ambulance should be charged with derilection of duty.

Thomas J. King

I am very disgusted about the death of mother and daughter in Elk Grove recently.

The moral issue, because of a non-contract for fire service, was set when the unincorporated home owners put their families lives on the line for a mere $21, which most spend on a weekend skiing, dining and drinking, etc.

Now you're going to say it's a cruel thing to say, but Channel 7 Friday night showed an interview with a neighbor of the unfortunate family and he was quoted as saying he will still refuse to pay $21 more to receive Elk Grove services. Which of us made the cruelest statement? For political reasons ($21 worth), he is denying his family the best and closest available protection. I say the moral obligation has been set by him, not by the Elk Grove Fire Dept.

If there is an investigation, it should be on the people who live in the unincorporated area, to find out why they are not willing to pay, year around, their share toward all costs in operating and maintaining village services.

Bargain hunting is not worth it when it's a matter of life or death.

If every homeowner was given a choice of paying for these services (in 1957) or pay only if and when you need it, those ambulances would not have been available at all, because too many would have taken the latter, and funds would not have been available to purchase more than one.

Unincorporated areas should be required, by law, to pay for the services given by the town or village they are located in. This should be done through taxes and not by contract.

A tale of the energy crisis

"Dad, tell me the story about how we use to celebrate Christmas."

"Now, Son, I've told you that story dozens of times."

"Please, Dad, tell it again."

"Well, O.K. Now years and years ago, people used to string colored lights around their house, and some even had a plastic Santa that would light up and glow brightly all night long."

"The tree, Dad, tell me about the tree."

"They used to put pretty lights all over the Christmas tree, the windows, or wherever they wanted to. Oh, when I was a boy, we tried candles, but it caused too many fires and finally was outlawed."

"Gee, Dad, it must have been great when there wasn't a 'lights-out' law.

"I guess so, Son."

"Hey, Dad, can we go to the museum next Sunday and see the cars people used to drive?"

"Now you know we used up our monthly 'Train For Pleasure' ticket to see the Industrial Sewage Ruins. Maybe next month, Son."

"Dad, it's really hard to believe that people used to drink water, right out of the faucet. . .and that there were such things as a forest, where trees grew plentiful."

"Yes, Son, it's really true. Why, I remember my grandparents talking about 'The Good Old Days' — You could buy a loaf of bread or a quart of milk for only $5 — and gas, it was just $10 a gallon."

"What happened to 'The Good Old Days', Dad?"

"Well, here's how my grandparents explained it to me. They told me an ancient story about a little boy who cried 'wolf,' just to tease the townspeople and get them excited. Well, after awhile, the people didn't believe him, and they went on their merry way. All of a sudden, the boy did see a wolf. He cried 'wolf, wolf, wolf,' but no one listened. That wolf was big, mean, and very greedy — He not only ate up most of the people, but also something called 'resources.'"

"That's a good story, Dad."

Discipline policies should be formed in public view

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

At various times in this space, I have talked about the problem of student discipline in the schools — a problem with many and varied sides.

Back in the "good old days," students could be counted on to obey dress codes, to walk, not run, in the halls and generally to abide by all kinds of rules, both important and petty, designed to keep things orderly.

Anyone who has been in a high school lately knows that things have changed. Students don't have dress codes anymore and tend to bristle at all kinds of rules that just a few years ago were unquestioned.

LAST WEEK High School Dist. 211 in Palatine and Schaumburg townships came up against the increasingly complex problems of enforcing student discipline in two ways. And the two incidents seem to be clear examples of the increasing problems schools face.

The two incidents, in capsule form, were:

- An appearance before the Dist. 211 board by Mr. and Mrs. David Bone to ask whether an administrative committee meeting to discuss discipline policy will be open to the public. The Bones said they thought the committee's meetings were covered by the Illinois Open Meeting Law.
- Action by administrators at Palatine High School, who had, as in past years, posted a list of students' names to notify them they had to make up assigned detentions or be suspended from school. There were 250 names on the list initially and by the time the first deadline passed 90 students still had detentions to make up.

Let's start with the second incident first. The students on the list posted at Palatine had been assigned detentions (which involves sitting in a study hall for an hour. for violations of attendance policies. In short, they had been tardy or had cut classes.

ATTENDANCE is probably the single biggest problem school officials have these days. Kids come to school and don't go to class. Ask any principal and he'll tell you he faces almost constant problems in that regard.

At Palatine, students are assigned detentions and can make them up at their leisure. However, if they don't make them up by the time the semester draws to an end, they find themselves on the "list" as the 250 did last week.

At other Dist. 211 schools, students who get detentions are assigned specific times they have to serve them — and the result is that there is no need for a "list" at the end of a semester.

On a very superficial level, it looks as though Palatine should adopt a policy like that in the other schools. After all, school administrators say they want to "teach responsibility," but once a kid has drawn a detention for not getting to class on time (for, basically, not showing responsibility) it doesn't seem sensible to give him the responsibility for serving the detention on his own.

BUT THERE is a deeper question involved — do detentions for any offense do any good? And are there other, better ways to deal with the problem of attendance?

Those questions lead us right into the Bones' appearance before the Dist. 211 board. The committee they were asking about is a committee of district administrators, including Associate Supt. Bruce Altergott. The committee will study possible changes in the discipline policies — including the policy on class cutting and tardiness.

When the committee was set up, Dist. 211 board Pres. Robert Creek said that one or two board members may attend the committee meetings as observers. However, he also said the meetings will be closed to the public — as are all "administrative" meetings.

The Bones' contention that the meeting should be public because of the Illinois Open Meeting Law is a good point. Only an attorney or judge could be absolutely sure that Creek is obeying the letter of the law in this case.

FOR EXAMPLE. it's clear that a group of principals or the school superintendent and his assistants can meet to talk about school business without having the public present. However, to form an administrative committee to talk about discipline policies which board members might attend as "observers" seems to tread pretty close to the legal line.

But regardless of legalities, it seems fairly clear to everyone except the Dist. 211 officials, I think, that good politics and general compliance with the spirit of the law ought to require the discipline policies to be developed in public.

After all, what is more likely to affect the public, particularly parents and children, than the policies a school develops on student discipline? And doesn't it make sense that people will support policies more easily if they have a hand in developing them?

Last year, when Dist. 211 was working on new discipline policy, the same sort of problem arose. An administrative committee made some recommendations on suspension and expulsion (some of which were eventually adopted and some of which were changed) and Creek nearly refused to give me a copy to write a story about. He was wary about letting the public know what was being considered before the policy was officially adopted.

I said then and I say today — that's no way to run a school district. Instead of working so hard to keep deliberations on student discipline problems quiet, the school officials ought to be enlisting the help of the Bones, of students and of any one else they can find.

3 perfect teams, Nitch's milestone top MSL action

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

"I was hoping for a little bit better show, but — boy — they're loaded. And that's not just depth — they're all quality kids."

So said Hersey head coach Herb Parsons, thoroughly impressed with the power of Arlington's team. And well he should have been for the Cardinals crushed a very fine Hersey team, 104-66!

Thus, Hersey was knocked from the rankings of the unbeaten last week. Now only three remain at 2-0 — Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows and Arlington.

Elk Grove handled Wheeling, 96-76, and Rolling Meadows did the same with Forest View to keep pace, 99-72.

In the only other league encounter, Prospect won its first MSL meet by besting Buffalo Grove, 96-73.

Matchups for Friday look like this — Arlington at Wheeling, Prospect at Elk Grove and Hersey at Forest View. All meets begin at 4:30 p.m.

Wheeling was to have met Buffalo Grove yesterday to round out conference action this week.

Here are the highlights from last week's meets:

NITCH LEADS CARDS

Arlington captured eight firsts in its decisive victory over visiting Hersey, but the most impressive of the wins was by double winner Joe Nitch.

Following up his title in the 200 freestyle (1:51.8), Nitch streaked to the area's first sub-five minute 500 freestyle — a sparkling 4:59.9. That effort puts him among the best four-minute-plus distance men in the state.

Pete Wroblewski also took two events — the individual medley (2:19.1) and the breaststroke (1:06.9). Other Cardinal winners were Charlie Dunn in the backstroke (57.7), Rob Carstens in the butterfly (1:02.5), the medley relay team of Carstens, Wroblewski, Dunn and Dale Patterson (1:48.1) and the freestyle relay team of Patterson, Jeff Haseman, Dan Stubing and Nitch (3:34.2).

The Huskies' only double winner was Bob Larue in the 50 free (23.5) and the 100 free (53.0). Jeff Speakman won diving with a 191.95.

MEADOWS ROLLS ON

Thanks to the new scoring system (counting the top five places), Rolling Meadows nearly hit the one hundred mark against Forest View. The Mustangs did it with depth instead of a lot of victories.

Accounting for the Mustangs' five firsts were Gary Grunwald in the 50 free (24.9), Dan Mate in the butterfly (1:00.6), Jeff Gillen in the backstroke (1:05.3), Ken Stahnke in the breaststroke (1:08.7) and the 200 medley relay team of John Schmitt, Stahnke, Mate and Rick Sievert (1:51.9).

The usual combination of Doug Schlak and Kevin Redig posted double wins for the hosting Falcons, Schlak in the 200 free (1:56.0) and the 100 free (51.2) and Redig in the individual medley (2:19.6) and the 500 free (5:30.2).

The other two firsts came in diving — Steve Caviocchioni (195.65) and the freestyle relay team Schlak, Jim Rohn, Redig and Dave Gronke (3:40.6).

GRENADIERS FINISH STRONG

Posting 1-2 finishes in two of the final three events as well as a winning effort in the freestyle relay lifted Elk Grove over a talented Wheeling team.

Steve Banach and Steve Clarizio went 1-2 in the backstroke with 1:02.1 and 1:08.8, respectively. Then Paul Butchart and Tim Durkee did the same in the breaststroke with 1:10.9 and 1:12.8. Finally, Scott Bolin, Mark Fournier, Bruce Kinn and Brent Bolin splashed to victory in the relay with 3:35.6.

Scott Bolin was the Grove's only individual double winner with his showings in the individual medley (2:08.5) and the 100 freestyle (50.9). Other winners were brother Brent in the butterfly (58.3) and the medley relay team of Banach, Butchart, Jim Henry and John Livesay (1:50.5).

Bill Modica posted two victories for Wheeling, taking the 200 free (1:54.6) and the 500 free (5:08.8). Paul Lindquist was the 50 free winner (23.4) and John Runion took diving (176.85).

KNIGHTS WIN 1ST

Behind the showing of Gary Eichhorst as well as five other Prospect swimmers, the Knights registered their first MSL dual meet victory over inexperienced Buffalo Grove.

Eichhorst had victories in both the 50 free (24.9) and 100 free (56.2). Three other individual winners were Jim Lyon in the 200 free (2:03.3), Chris Prinslow in the backstroke (1:02.5) and Brad Busse in the breaststroke (1:11.2).

The Knights' relay teams were also victorious — the medley of Prinslow, Mike Barone, Busse and Eichhorst (1:53.7) and the freestyle of J. Lyon, Steve Forton, Bill Lyon and Jim Ormerod (4:02.6).

Dan Woodruff had two top spots for the Bison — the butterfly (1:04.9) and the 500 free (5:27.5). Other winners were Mike Yasky in the individual medley (2:20.3) and Steve Johnson in diving (153.90).

3 winning efforts in non-league action

Rolling Meadows had the heaviest non-conference swimming schedule among area teams recently, winning one and losing two.

The Mustangs broke even Tuesday, defeating Prospect and falling to Libertyville. The Knights, who swam at the Meadows home site, dropped both non-league meets.

Saturday saw the Mustangs defeated by hosting Maine East. On the same day, Hersey handled Libertyville and Maine West finished 11th at the College Events at Hinsdale South.

Here are the highlights from each meet:

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

The Mustangs and Knights met in a Mid-Suburban League on Jan. 4 with Meadows emerging the victor. Although it was just an exhibition contest this time, the result was the same: Rolling Meadows 51, Prospect 29.

Coach Phil Pardun's Mustangs hosted a double dual meet. His boys lost to Libertyville, 45-35, as did Coach Roger Huegerich's Knights, 61-21. The following are the winning performances by both teams:

Rolling Meadows — medley relay of John Schmitt, Ken Stahnke, Dan Mate and Brad Hammersmith (1:50.2), Gary Grunwald in the 200 freestyle (2:02.7), Stahnke in the individual medley (2:26.2), Hammersmith in the 50 free (24.2), Mate in the butterfly (1:00.6), Grunwald in the 100 free (55.0), Jeff Gillen in the backstroke (1:05.4), Stahnke in the breaststroke (1:08.1) and the 400 relay team of Schmitt, Hammersmith, Tom Stahnke and Grunwald (2:45.3).

Prospect — medley relay of Chris Prinslow, Brad Busse, Don Balas and Gary Eichhorst (1:52.7), Jim Lyons in the 200 free (2:03.5), Busse in the individual medley (2:20.3), Spencer Gilchrist in diving (110.25;, Lyon in the 500 free (5:48.6), Prinslow in the backstroke (1:03.1) and Busse in the breaststroke (1:08.3).

DEMONS BEAT MEADOWS, 104-68

Maine East had six individual winners and took the 400 freestyle relay enroute to its 104-68 non-conference victory over Rolling Meadows.

Blue Demon winners were Scott Strauss in 200 freestyle (1:58.1) and 500 freestyle (5:28.5), Wayne Westman in 200 individual medley (2:16.3) and 100 backstroke (1:03.0), Chris Dickson in diving (243.05) and Carl Anderson in 100 freestyle (54.0).

SPOTLIGHT ON SWIMMING

Anderson, Matt Kane, Brad Kroll and Rick Reeve won the 400 freestyle relay for Maine in 3:40.9.

John Schmitt, brothers Ken and Tom Stahnke and Brad Hammersmith won the 200 individual medley relay (1:49.9) for Rolling Meadows.

Individually, Hammersmith won the 50 freestyle (24.8), Tom Stahnke the 100 butterfly (1:01.3) and Ken Stahnke the 100 breaststroke (1:07.9) for Meadows.

HERSEY ROMPS

Thanks to a trio of double winners, the Huskies had an easy time disposing of hosting Libertyville, 101-71.

Accounting for the six victories were Dave Johnson in the individual medley (2:22.3) and butterfly (1:02.1), Bob Larue in the 50 freestyle (23.8) and 100 freestyle (53.8) and Chris Tague in the 200 freestyle (1:51.6) and 500 freestyle (5:13.6).

Larue's effort in the 100 free paced one of Hersey's two sweeps. Taking the 2-3 portion were Kevin Taylor and Bob Butler.

The other sweep came in diving as Jeff Speakman led the way with 219.90. Tim Brennan (199.25) and Randy Shaw (193.20) rounded out the outstanding showing.

Other winners for the Huskies were Taylor on the backstroke (1:03.6) and the 400 free relay team of Butler, Tague, Taylor and Larue (3:37.5).

WEST 11th AT HINSDALE

Maine West took an 11th place, second to last, in the Hinsdale College Events. Paul Dyer placed seventh for Maine in 200 freestyle (1:59.4). Craig MacNab, Jim Ritzema, Dyer and Tom Ptach were 10th in the 800 freestyle relay (8:35.0). George Ericksen, Jim Stenstrom, Bill Samp and Doug Benton were ninth in the 200 individual medley relay (4:18.1).

Red Devils bump 5 locals off state list

The latest state swim honor roll has a different look from last week. A seemingly repetitious look.

Appearing for the first time are the Red Devils. That means the most prevalent school name is Hinsdale Central. . .Hinsdale Central. . .Hinsdale Central. . .

Despite that new but all too familiar look, St. Viator's Ed Fitzsimmons still sets solidly in first place among 50-yard freestylers. However, two medley relay teams and three individuals from the area were bumped from the prestigious top 12 classification.

Here's how the event leaders look:

MEDLEY RELAY

Hinsdale Central in first (1:40.7) with Elk Grove in 11th (1:47.3).

200 FREESTYLE

New Trier West's Andy Veris in first (1:48.2) with St. Viator's Rick Yasky in fifth (1:51.4), Arlington's Joe Nitch in sixth (1:52.0) and Fitzsimmons in eighth (1:52.2).

INDIVIDUAL MEDLEY

Veris in first (2:02.1) with Arlington's Charlie Dunn in third (2:05.3) and Elk Grove's Scott Bolin in fourth (2:06.8).

50 FREESTYLE

Fitzsimmons in first (22.3) with Forest View's Doug Schlak in seventh (23.1) and Hersey's Bob Larue tied for 12th with Evanston's Greg Boone (23.3).

BUTTERFLY

100 FREESTYLE

Veris in first (48.5) with Fitzsimmons in second (49.1) and Schlak tied for seventh with Oak Park's Kim Sayre (50.5).

500 FREESTYLE

Hinsdale Central's Bill Miller in first (4:53.4) with Nitch in fourth (5:02.2) and St. Viator's Rick Yasky in eighth (5:04.1).

BACKSTROKE

Lyons' Mark Wintercorn in first (55.7) with Bolin in fourth (57.3) and Dunn in fifth (57.5).

BREASTSTROKE

Hinsdale Central's Mike Capek in first (1:02.6) with St. Viator's Kevin Szarabajka in third (1:04.4), Bolin tied for seventh with Maine North's Don Polz (1:05.9) and Arlington's Kiernan Mark in 10th (1:06.6).

FREESTYLE RELAY

Hinsdale Central in first (3:23.8) with St. Viator in third (3:26.1).

Hungry Lions seek more wins, pizzas

The next couple of years could cost John Fleck several hundred dollars in pizzas, but he only says, "I hope so . . ."

St. Viator's head swimming coach promised his freshman team a pizza party if it won the prestigious Hinsdale Central Freshman Invitational Saturday. The young Lions did and it cost him $50.

"This was the most satisfying win I've ever had," said Fleck, who saw his varsity team win the school's first district title last year. But this was different for his team had beaten the best teams in the state, including perennial powerhouse Hinsdale Central Red Devils.

St. Viator rolled up 208 points with LaGrange a distant second with 164. Hinsdale, winner the past three years as well as seven out of the 15 years the invite has been held, produced only 130 points.

Elk Grove, the only other Herald area entrant, was 14th with 30 points.

"I knew they had a real good team," said Don Watson, Hinsdale's head coach. "That's why we invited them."

The young Lions captured five firsts, including one for a meet record. That was turned in by the 400-yard freestyle relay foursome of Jack Cord, Doug Peonski, John Newcomer and Mark Rohl. Their 3:35.4 is presently the fourth best time on the Herald area honor roll!

Rohl was a double winner. This fine freestyler sprinted to victories in the 50 (23.1) and 100 (51.1) — both St. Viator records.

The medley relay also posted a school record with a 1:52.4. In on that mark were Doug Peonski, Mark Rucshe, Dan Peonski and Cord.

Rucshe rounded out the first-place showings with his win in the 50 breaststroke (31.6).

Hinsdale invites the state's best teams each year, so winning this meet is something special. However, Hinsdale's losing it didn't seem to bother Watson.

"It's one of the weakest teams we had," he said.

Obviously, optimists who follow St. Viator would like to think that the Lions will be state contenders in three years because of this showing. Watson, who has seen his teams win seven straight state team titles, wasn't concerned. Instead, he talked about a group of eighth graders "who are right now ahead of that super group." He was referring to his state champs several years ago or John Kinsella & Co.

As far as Fleck is concerned, he'd love to have another group of freshmen next year that compare to this year's squad. Then he'd let the state championship chips fall where they may.

One thing's for certain — St. Viator gained statewide respect last Saturday. Fleck said that people came up to his boys and asked where their school was located. Now Illinois knows.

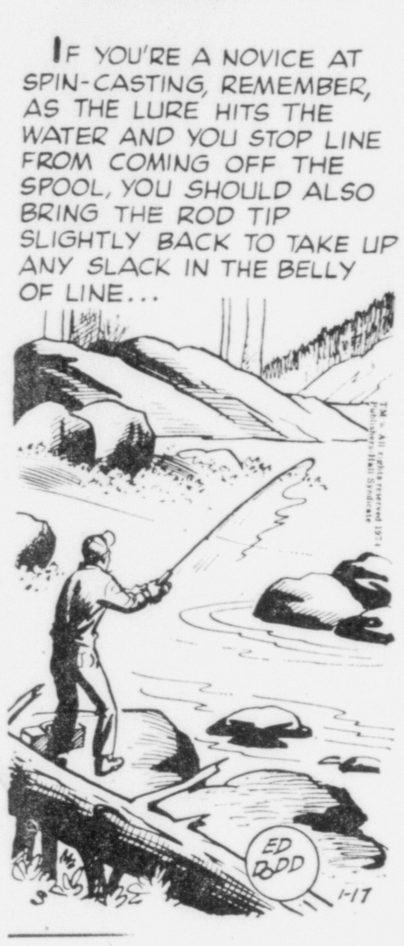
Mark Trail's OUTDOOR TIPS



Cards top century mark in win over Schaumburg

by ART MUGALIAN

The Arlington High School basketball crowd had its hero.

Jay Colloton, the Cardinals' reserve guard, dropped in two free throws with three seconds remaining on the clock to give Arlington a 101-56 win over the Schaumburg Saxons Tuesday night. Colloton provided the home fans with the 100-point victory they had been demanding the last five minutes of the game.

While everyone in the gym went crazy, Arlington coach George Zigman sat on the sidelines with a bored look on his face. The 100 points meant little to him.

Coach Zigman had his own candidate for hero. "Dan Donahue moved like a real ballplayer for the first time in three weeks," the Cardinals' coach exclaimed. "All of them moved out there. When Dan gets going, they all start going. He can lead this team."

The 6-foor-10 senior began slowly but finished with a rush, scoring 29 points, including 20 in the first half on nine-often from the field. He led Arlington in rebounds, grabbing just about everything in sight in a wild third period.

The Cardinals never trailed in the game as they rolled to a quick 23-9 first quarter lead on hot shooting by Doug Betters and Jeff Cleveland. Guards Jerry De Simone and Steve Loughman executed several key passes to set up early scoring plays.

Donahue dominated the second period when he scored 15 of his team's 31 points. His height advantage over the much smaller Saxons resulted in several easy layups and short jumpers for the big center.

"We couldn't stop him inside," Schaumburg coach Joe Breault said after the game. "They're all just too big. And they shot real well the whole game."

The Cardinals' 54-33 halftime lead figured to be hard to improve on. But Arlington was awesome in the second half. They outscored the Saxons 47-23 while using second-stringers much of the time.

Zigman praised Donahue and he lauded Cleveland's 18-point performance. But the coach was especially happy with his reserves. Doug Doppke, Dennie Gaare, and Colloton displayed admirable talents in supporting roles.

"This will help our bench strength," Zigman noted. "I can stick them in there and it won't hurt us. I feel I can go with these eight kids the rest of the way."

Schaumburg's leading scorer was Ray Kralicek with 20 points. The 6-4 senior played mostly at forward and he hit the majority of his nine field goals from 18 feet or more. John McIlraith had 15 points for the Saxons.

Joe Breault's team is now 1-6 in league play. The Saxons' woes continue next week against Hersey.

For Arlington, it's a different story. The Cards are now 5-2 in the North division of the Mid-Suburban League, one half-game behind Hersey and Wheeling, both of whom they will play again.

"Maybe we're on our way," Zigman said. "We've had two good games in a row and maybe this will shake us up. We know what we've got to do."

What the Cardinals have to do is win six straight MSL games.

West turns in top Des Plaines times

No wins and three losses were recorded by Maines East, West and North last weekend in Central Suburban League varsity swimming.

Deerfield beat Maine West, 132-37, Highland Park beat Maine North, 101-53, and Glenbrook South beat Maine East, 110-61.

With few exceptions, West's Warriors swam their best times to date but were still swamped by Deerfield. West's only winner was George Ericksen in 100-backstroke (1:04.7). Paul Dyer had a third in 200 freestyle (1:59.6) and Stewart Seaholm third in 100 breaststroke (1:14.1).

John Monaghan won in 200 individual medley (2:14.1) and 100 butterfly (58.6) for Maine North against Highland Park. The other Norseman individual win was by Don Polz in 100-breaststroke (1:06.7).

North's Dan Larson, Polz, Monaghan and Mike Vernon won the 200 individual medley relay in 1:48.8. Seconds were recorded by Vernon in 50 freestyle (25.3), Larson in 100 backstroke (1:04.8) and Paul Kofoed in diving (123.90). Al Michalow had a third place in 100 freestyle (1:03.3).

Maine East's had two individual winners in its unlucky bid to defeat Glenbrook South. Chris Dickson took diving with 123.90 points in a poorly judged event, according to Maine's Ron Davitt. The other first was by Wayne Westman in 200-individual medley (2:14.9).

Westman, Greg Erickson, Lloyd Esses and Carl Anderson teamed to win the 200 individual medley relay (1:50.6) for Maine East.

Other Blue Demon placings included seconds by Scott Strauss in 100 butterfly (59.5), Anderson in 100 freestyle (54.1) and Erickson in 100 breaststroke (1:09.6).

Thirds were earned by Strauss in 200 freestyle (1:58.6), Esses in 50 freestyle (24.8), Matt Kane in 500 freestyle (5:39.1), Westman in 100 backstroke (1:03.0) and the 400 freestyle relay team (3:42.9).

Five weekend meets are on tap, three in the CSL. On Friday, Maine West visits Niles West, Maine East hosts Glenbrook North and Maine North hosts Glenbrook South in a meet at Maine West's pool.

Non-conference action on Saturday has Arlington at Maine West.

Ten Pin, Fairlanes share top spot in Jr. Paddock

Action ended Jan. 6, with Ten Pin Bowl and Fairlanes deadlocked for first place in the Junior Paddock League.

Ten Pin took only two out of a possible seven points from Bowlway Lanes, as Bowlway's Dan Durrenbberger rolled a high series of 589, including 216 and 200 games.

Striker Lanes took four points from Fairlanes.

Spencer''s Lanes took four points from Hoffman Lanes as Bill Geiersbach led Hoffman with a 244 game and 588 series. Doug Welsher was high for Spencer's with a 509.

Beverly Lanes took five points from Brunswick Northern with Tom Olcese of Beverly rolling a 559 series and a 247 game.

Next Sunday the league will bowl at Bowlway Lanes.

Coming up on Jan. 20, will be the benefit match between the Junior Paddock League and the Paddock Men's League at Hoffman Lanes. All proceeds will go to the Clearbrook Center for Retarded Children in Rolling Meadows.

Junior Paddock standings: Fairlanes 44 points; Ten Pin 44; Bowlway 43; Hoffman 41; Spencer's 39; Striker 35; Beverly 35; Brunswick Northern 27.

At Elk Grove Bowl

In the His and Hers League Jan. 2, top men bowlers were Arnie Goeddeke with a 560 series, Frank Columbo with 552, Bob Kroll with 548, Pete Santucci a 519, and Al Lew with 514.

Leading the women was Dolores De Bartoli with a fine 600 series — 231-179-190. Down the list came Sue Nolte with a 508, Mary Ann Tate and Carole Peterson with 466, and Lorraine Kasthing and Verna Goeddeke with 458 series.

Conant visit to Hersey on radio Friday

For the third straight Friday evening Hersey High School will host a significant Mid-Suburban League basketball game — and WWMM-FM (92.7) will be there.

WM Director of Sports Bud Kelly will call the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will give the color commentary when Conant, unbeaten (6-0) leader of the South, invades Hersey (5-1), co-leader of the North.

Hersey shook off a loss to Wheeling to topple Arlington last Friday evening, and Conant rolled along with an eight-point conquest of Elk Grove.

Air time Friday is 8 p.m. with the tipoff for the varsity game dictated by the length of the preliminary.

WM radio also has scheduled its Friday, Jan. 25 game and will visit Forest View, when the host Falcons battle Fremd.

Pancratz returns; DePaul hopes for strong finish

by KEITH REINHARD

Andy Pancratz is what sportswriters like to dub a "non-controversial" figure.

That is to say the 6-foot-9 DePaul sophomore center is not the kind of person to make the big headlines . . . normally.

His team might win the big game but it will usually be someone else scoring the 40 points. His team might drop a toughie, but it will be someone else badmouthing the opposition or the circumstances.

Andy will merely do his job, excelling quite likely in some of the more unheralded aspects of the game, and then quietly slip into the background until it's time to do the job again.

It was this way in high school at any rate when the affable Hersey star shunned the opportunity to go down in the area record books as possibly the greatest scorer ever, and developed into probably the finest defensive prospect instead.

And it appears to be his way still with the Blue Demons.

Last week, for example, Pancratz expressed more amazement than dismay at what appeared at best to be dubious officiating on the road out East.

DePaul turned back a couple of New York State's finer cage teams, Niagara and St. Bonaventure, and in the case of the latter encounter accomplished the feat in the final seconds with three regulars, including Pancratz, nailed to the bench on fouls.

Andy's opening remark: "Our reserves did a fantastic job for us in that one."

Prodded a bit he admitted, "I was told that you had to beat seven guys down there instead of five but I didn't believe it until the game. It's a little easier for me to understand now how the Bonnies could go so long without losing on their home court."

Pancratz didn't even want to venture an opinion on the Matt Hicks mixup, a situation that has one of DePaul's super freshmen candidates in limbo over eligibility.

Andy's philosophy is pure and simply wanting to play basketball and wanting to excell at it in his own very unpretentious way. This attitude made it all the more surprising when he and teammate Bill Robinzine were involved in one of the bigger headlines polled by DePaul in several seasons, and both were suspended for 10 games after having participated in a non-NCAA sanctioned tournament at South Bend between seasons.

Andy Pancratz

It's easy for the big guy to joke about it now that he's back in action. "Hey, Andy, I've got a tournament going this weekend . . . want to come over and play in it?" a friend jibed and Andy just chuckled.

But it wasn't that way a few months back. His dad noted: "Andy worried about it for a long time before the ruling even came down. The tournament came up right after last season ended in April or May and he got wind of a possible investigation and sweated it out all summer long.

"The hardest thing about the whole situation for him," the elder Pancratz added, "was not so much in accepting it but living with it. Basketball means a lot to him and watching from sidelines was a painful experience."

Painful — and demoralizing — for both Pancratz and Robinzine as well as the rest of the team, which had earlier been pegged to make a strong bid for a postseason tournament berth. "Our incentive was gone," Andy admitted.

His coach Ray Meyer even commented at the time that one of the players suggested forfeiting all games during the suspension period and letting the two stars play . . . just for the exhiliration of winning.

Now Pancratz and Robinzine are back in uniform and the thrills count in the win column again. DePaul acknowledged their return with three straight triumphs before falling by four to mighty Marquette up in Milwaukee last Saturday.

"We may still have a crack at an NIT bid but we'll have to beat Marquette when they come down to our place later in the season," Andy pointed out. "The guys are also pulling together to get the coach his 500th win before the season is out so some post season action is important."

Meyer had 478 victories when the season commenced, stretching out over an amazing 30-year career that has produced only five losing seasons. Now he has 486 with 11 games remaining on the regular season slate.

Pancratz has set some goals of his own since coming to college which now coincide with Meyer's quest. "The first year I just wanted to play varsity ball. I felt then if I worked at it I could win a regular position by this season."

"Now my big ambition is to see the team play in the NIT. At first I didn't think this would be a possibility until my junior year but the way the guys are going we may make it ahead of schedule."

On the subject of his own scoring goals Andy is not nearly as concerned. "I guess if I could maintain an average of 10-12 points by my senior year I'd be content. Our offense is very similar to the Chicago Bulls with not a lot of scoring involved at center."

And as for the thought of life beyond college, basketball still remains supreme. A pro career would fulfill Andy's ultimate dream.

In the meantime, the lanky Arlington Heights native is a history major leaning toward social studies who probably wouldn't mind getting into the teaching profession some day, as long as it also afforded him the opportunity to coach . . . and play at his favorite game.

Flames skate to win over Gulls

The Randhurst Flames played their strongest hockey game of the season by defeating a fine Gull team 5-4.

The Flames lit the scoreboard first on a goal by Reed Behnke, assisted by Tom Giannis.

Shortly into the second period the forechecking of the Flames paid off and they tallied twice on goals by Behnke and Giannis with assists credited to Giannis, Mike St. Clair and Tom Anderson.

Midway in the third period the hustle of Giannis earned him another goal assisted by teammate Behnke.

Late in the game a score by Tony Aiello, assisted by Bill Ceas and St. Clair, put the game out of reach for the Gulls. Jim Murphy, in nets for the Flames, had an outstanding game.

Hoffman Hawks win, 8-5

The Hoffman High School hockey team defeated Wheaton-Warrenville 8-5 for their seventh consecutive league win.

The Hawks' 8-6 record has them in third place in the West Suburban High School Hockey League.

An opening period where defensive hockey prevailed left the Hoffman Estates team on top 2-0. In a wild second period, the Hawks outshot Wheaton 15-5, but only outscored Wheaton 5-4.

After the first two periods, Hoffman led 7-4 with the third period again reverting to defensive hockey, resulting in a fine 8-5 win for the Hawks.

Scoring leaders for the Hoffman team were Joe Ciccia with three goals and three assists, Tim Harkness with three goals and one assist and Bob Payson with one goal and two assists.

Additional scoring went to Dan Weiss and Todd Vuglar with two assists each, while Ron Holtz had a goal and Gregg Turner a single assist. The Hawks outshot Wheaton 33-15 with excellent work in the nets by Serge Faldstein and Paul South.

The Hawks will play their next West Suburban Hockey League game Saturday, Jan. 19, at 9:00 p.m. at the Carol Stream Ice Arena against Glenbard South High School.

Paddock Classic benefit match, tourney set for Hoffman Lanes

On Sunday, Jan. 20 at 1 p.m. at Hoffman Lanes, eight teams from the Paddock Classic Traveling League will bowl a two game benefit match against eight teams from the Paddock Junior Traveling Classic League.

Formco Metal Products, Gaare Oil, Des Plaines Ace Hardware, Hoffman Lanes, Ten Pin Bowl, Williams Five, Sullivan Pontiac, and Commercial Embroidery are the teams featured by the Paddock Classic Traveling League with Junior teams from Spencers Lanes, Bowlway Lanes, Ten Pin Bowl, Hoffman Lanes, Brunswick Northern, Beverly Lanes, Fairlanes Rolling Meadows, and Striker Lanes.

Spectators may watch this event held by the two Paddock circuits with all proceeds going to Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows.

After the team events, the senior circuit will go immediately into a four game doubles tournament which is an annual event, with the Paddock Classic League bowlers teaming up in pairs to compete for honors and prize money.

Fencing season ends for girls

The fencing season has concluded for local high school girls with Arlington holding a 4-0 record and first place in two tournaments. Maine West was 2-2 and Schaumburg 0-4.

In a recent triangular, Arlington scored 12 points, Maine West nine and Schaumburg six. Scorers for Arlington were Patty Pinski 5-1, Ellen Buaske 4-2 and Maura Spellman 3-3.

Maine West's points came from Karen Neetz 5-1 and Cathy Dueball 4-2. Yvonne Monreal did not win. Miss O'Shea had three wins for Schaumburg, Trudy Bayer two and Kathy Sommer one.

Arlington also recently won a dual meet from Schaumburg, 25-7. Bauski and Pinski were unbeaten in four matches for the winners as were Taryn Kubic and Joan Coha in three matches. Others with perfect records in less action were Mary Pat Kennedy, Lynda Jolly and Ginny Rizzo. Schaumburg's best score was a 2-2 record posted by O'Shea.

At Beverly Lanes

In the Arlington Hts. Lady Elks League Jan. 10, seven bowlers rolled 200-plus games with handicap. They were: Eleanor Callaghan, 201; Helen Scharinghousen, 201; Rosanna Glueckert, 202; Mary Dalfonso, 204; Pat Campise, 206; Beverly Smith, 207; and Pat Greener, 213. Betty McKinlay picked up the 1-2-10 split and Ella Kramer converted the 6-7-10.

Elk Grove hockey facts

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association midget team won two games and tied one in their last three league games in Woodfield.

Elk Grove defeated Des Plaines 2-0, with a very fine defensive effort and excellent goaltending by Steve Cimino. Kevin Kosowski scored the first goal, assisted by Len Jeroci and Gary Pratschard. Joe Danca scored the second goal, assisted by John Campbell.

Elk Grove defeated Hoffman Estates 6-1 as Hoffman scored in the last minute of play off goalie Steve Cimino who was trying for his ninth shutout of the season. Scores for Elk Grove were Kevin Kosowski, John Campbell two, Gary Pratschard, Mike Tucker, and Mark Rodseth, with assists going to Mike Tucker, Tony Saltarski two, Kevin Kosowski, Gary Pratschard, Mark Rodseth and Joe Danca two.

Elk Grove tied Schaumburg, 2-2, in a wild game which brought back memories of past Elk Grove Dundee games. Elk Grove was called for 18 penalties for 72 minutes and Schaumburg was called for only six penalties for 21 minutes. The game was one of the most exciting this year at Woodfield. After Schaumburg scored first on a power play to take a 1-0 lead, John O'Shaughnessy scored for Elk Grove, assisted by Mark Gustafson, while Elk Grove was shorthanded. Schaumburg again scored a power-play goal in the third period to take a 2-1 lead.

Elk Grove played the next six minutes with a two-man disadvantage and scored on a Len Jeroci goal.

Both goaltenders played outstanding games to keep the score down as each team was foiled on many opportunities.

Next game at Woodfield is Thursday, Jan. 24, vs. Streamwood.

Paul Logan

At Elk Grove Bowl

In the Friday Night Mixed Nuts League Jan. 4, Dick Hildebrandt led the men with a 596 series on a high game of 234. High game for the night was by Joe Hadsell with a 255. John Klein and Fred Zielinski each rolled 578 series. Others were Bob Metcalf with a 556, Jim Nelson 554-223, Ed Swietek a 543, Joe Los with 538, John Bleatman 504, and Dave Gee with 500.

The women's leader was Linda Metcalf who rolled a 522-192, followed by Ardell Bleatman's 515-190. Next in line were Sue Nolte 471-180, Do De Bartoli with 470-163, Sally Klein with 467-165, Sharrie Hildebrandt 450-163, and Doris Takeda with 448-176.

At Hoffman Lanes

Bob Drysch captured high game and series in the three-man scratch league at Hoffman Jan. 8, with 933-279-211-192-251. Others who exceeded 800 for four games were: Jerry Rogers with 838, Al Cavicchioni, 837, Dave Bergmann, 833, Bud Ewert, 823, and Steve Bergman, 813.

In the 600-club were: Drysch with 682, Rogers with 648, Bergmann, 643, Ewert, 633, Cavicchioni, 623, Bergman, 609, Steve Plichta, 607, and Jim Rudnick, 600.

High team series and game went to the Cynthia Shoppe with 2375-656, moving them into third place behind Mutual County Fire and Country Club.

Today's TV highlights

'Happy Days' not great, but good fun

HOLLYWOOD — "Happy Days," ABC-TV's new comedy series, is television's latest contribution to the nostalgia craze.

The weekly half hour is set in the 1950s and revolves around a naive high school boy, his friends and family.

And what ABC-TV is trying to do in this show is look back with affection on the recent past in the same way some hit movies have.

To set things straight quickly, "Happy Days" is not a great show, but it has a certain curiosity shop attraction, and maybe more.

In "Happy Days," we hear rock and roll music before it became angry, before it turned mellow and bittersweet.

THE MUSIC we hear in the series is innocent, silly, brash — still a step away from involvement in the impending drug culture outbreak.

We hear rock and roll music before it became just "rock." As someone said on video the other day, what ever happened to "roll?"

Answer: Just tune in television and listen to all those tacky commercials for albums of tacky old rock and roll songs.

"Happy Days" also gives us the period when the term "generation gap" was not yet unleashed with its full impact.

It is fascinating how some of the simple-minded but popular movies and video shows reflected early stages of this impact. Example:

In the beach party-type movies, adults and other symbols of authority were generally either secondary or idiotic, or both.

DuBrow on TV
by Rick DuBrow

WELL, HERE in Tuesday's premiere we have "Happy Days," and the plot, at least, takes the right direction: The naive teen-ager gets fixed up with a date with a girl who supposedly has a "reputation."

The notion is positively quaint. But many people think that maybe it was a little more exciting when everybody didn't know everything.

Perhaps the last time the younger and older generations shared this thought was around the late 1950s. And then youth went its own way.

Grownups had seen innocence disappear in World War II, the Korean conflict and the Army-McCarthy hearings.

Many youngsters in the next generation dismissed these older battles and chose to shed innocence in their own way.

And now, in the 1970s, they are trying to get it back. Just listen to the music.

Veterans' rights radio show topic

"Veterans' Benefits and Veterans' Rights" is the subject of a Harper College radio program on WWMM(FM), 92.7, Sunday.

The panel show is a "Focus: Northwest" program aired each Sunday at 8 a.m., with a rebroadcast at 9 p.m.

Molly Waite, assistant professor of political science at Harper, serves as moderator. Panel members include George E. Hooper, veterans' benefits counselor, Veterans' Administration Regional Office, Chicago; William J. Hejnosz, Harper veterans' affairs coordinator; Raymond A. Hylander, counselor in Harper's business division; and Robert Powers, Illinois Veterans' Commission outreach worker and full-time Harper student.

Each panel member presents professional and personal viewpoints regarding the variety of benefits available to American veterans. All panelists are veterans, and each agrees that too many vets eligible for benefits do not know what is available to them and consequently are unable to capitalize on them.

The "Focus: Northwest" weekly radio series originates from Harper's Office of Community Relations. The producer-director is Harriet Kandelman.

Archie Bunker's new video neighbor a homebody

The Hollywood scene
by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD — Vincent Gardenia is Archie Bunker's new neighbor on the "All In The Family" series, and Archie would certainly move to a new neighborhood if he suspected in real life that Vince was born in Italy.

Gardenia is a warm, friendly man who left his native Naples at the age of two when his parents migrated to New York.

At age 50, Vince — whose real name is Vincenzio Scognamiglio — is still a bachelor. He's never been married. He never intends to be.

His home is a two-family dwelling in Bensonhurst, an Italian-Jewish section of Brooklyn, where he has lived all his life. He owns the house and rents out the upstairs apartment to another family.

His sister, Conchetta, and brother-in-law and their three sons, Vincent, Jerry, and Michael, all live in the three-bedroom lower apartment.

There is a backyard, patio and front yard, filled with flowers and tended by Vince when he is home, which isn't often. Work in movies, the theater and television keep him on the road 10 months a year.

HE IS pampered by Conchetta, however, whenever he gets home. She is an accomplished cook, specializing in all the fine Italian dishes. And the pasta adds pounds to Vince, who must diet when he is on the road.

Gardenia considers Hollywood "the road." He rents a modest apartment here. It is furnished simply and few of his possessions are in evidence. It is just a place to hang his hat and watch television.

Vince does take some pride in his own culinary accomplishments and more often than not prepares his own dinner.

He drives a rented car — he doesn't own one — to CBS every morning about 9:30 to report for work. During the noon rehearsal break he eats a meager lunch and is usually home by 6 o'clock.

JUST AS Vince has no desire to marry, neither does he foresee the day he will make his permanent home in Hollywood. Many of his old New York cronies from show business now live in Southern California but he doesn't share their enthusiasm of the land of the fruit and the nut.

Several evenings a week Vince takes a date to the movies or the theater and out to dinner. But it is rarely the same girl two nights in succession. Concentration on one girl, he believes, is flirting dangerously with the possibility of a trip to the altar.

He has a small wardrobe, no pets and as few possessions as possible.

"I like to be as free and unencumbered as possible," he says. "That way I can take any picture offer in Europe or television assignment that comes my way."

Vince doesn't believe in exercise, although he will swim now and again during the summer just to cool off.

HE SAYS acting absorbs all his time and most of his thoughts. He signed to appear in only 10 of "All In The Family's" annual 13 new episodes. He spends the rest of his time working in guest appearances on other television shows.

When he travels to Europe for a motion picture role he makes it a point to stop by Naples to visit with his aunts and nephews who still live in Italy. He had the opportunity earlier this year with a major role in "Luciano."

"They are always pleased to see me," says Vince. "Especially my dozens of cousins. They are very proud to have an American actor in the family."

Among his friends in Hollywood are Carroll O'Connor and Jean Stapleton, who star in the CBS series. He has been to their homes frequently for dinner and talk about the good old days when they all worked in New York.

"But they're Californians now," Vince concludes, as if to say they live in a different world.

Spying within government only way to find anything

The lighter side
by Dick West

WASHINGTON — Reports of Pentagon spying on the White House caused a great deal of eyebrow-raising and tsk-tsking here this week.

These expressions of astonishment or consternation came mostly from persons who don't understand the situation. So I shall endeavor to put the incident in proper perspective.

First of all, the Pentagon had good and valid reason for wanting to keep tabs on the activities of Henry Kissinger when our farflung Secretary of State was serving as President Nixon's national security adviser.

AT THE TIME of the alleged spying in mid-1971, Kissinger was engaged in negotiations that could have resulted in outbreaks of peace in several places.

Obviously, information relating to the talks was of vital interest to the Pentagon.

Suppose, for example, that Kissinger put through an agreement to end the fighting in Cambodia. And suppose the Pentagon, unaware of the arrangement, continued the Cambodian bombing.

A faux pas of that sort would amount to an admission that U.S. military intelligence was deficient or defective.

Well, you may ask, why couldn't the Pentagon have gone through official channels to obtain the information that was leaked from the National Security Council?

ACCORDING TO C. Howard Tiddlehood, author of the book "I Was a Spy for the American Battle Monuments Commission," most federal agencies maintain intelligent-gathering apparatuses in other agencies.

"Many federal agencies don't know what they are doing," Tiddlehook explains.

"So Agency A will spay on Agency B, hoping to learn what Agency B has learned from spying on Agency A. Through this process, Agency A keeps itself informed about its own operations."

G. Gordon Deadwright, author of "The Spy Who Came in from the Railroad Retirement Board," is even more to the point.

"Government agencies aren't necessarily hiding things from each other," he writes. "But when they communicate through channels, the information is transmitted by inter-office memos, which are tedious to read and must be initialed by at least six other bureaucrats, usually in triplicate.

"Furthermore, the memos frequently become buried in somebody's 'in' basket, causing inordinate time lags.

"It is much more expeditious to get data by spying."

In the circumstances, one can readily see why the Pentagon officials might have tried to sneak a peek at some of Kissinger's papers.

The wonder is they didn't send up a spy satellite to keep track of his whereabouts.

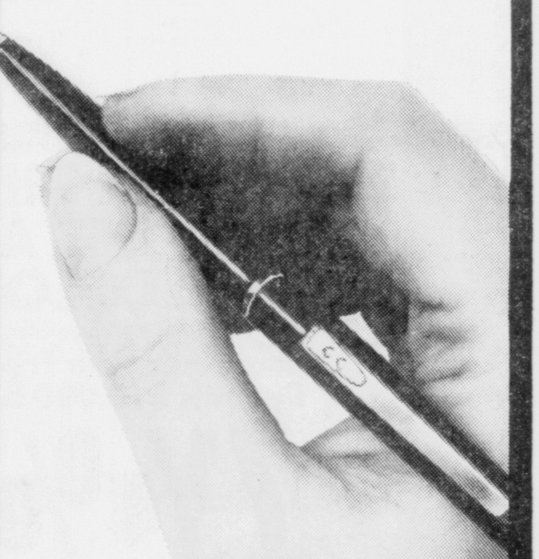
FMIC
FIRST MONTHLY INCOME CHECK
Here's what it can do for you...

Pick the plan that best suits you, and every month there'll be an FMIC check for that amount in your mailbox—money to use any way you care to use it, 12 times a year, for as long as you like. Just keep a minimum of $5,000 in any of the First National Bank's savings plans listed below, and we'll mail your interest by the month. It's just like a second income. Look over the chart below and decide how much you'd like us to send you—then come in and open your account at the First National Bank, where your savings are insured safe.

SAVINGS PLAN	MONTHLY EARNINGS *
7% interest rate 4 YEAR INVESTMENT SAVINGS	$28.85	✓
6½% interest rate 2½ YEAR INVESTMENT SAVINGS	$26.78
6% interest rate 1 YEAR INVESTMENT SAVINGS	$24.72
5½% interest rate 90-DAY INVESTMENT SAVINGS	$22.65



* FMIC (First Monthly Income Check) earnings are based on a 30-day month and require a minimum $5,000 balance.

Money withdrawn prior to maturity earns Regular Savings rates, less 90 days interest.

LORETTA YOUNG

'Camelot' wins, 'Tango' loses

Loretta Young: People really do want to see only good films

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — Loretta Young, one of Hollywood's grande dames, emerges from her years of nontalking to make some cogent comments about today's movies. Miss Young is now active (sort of) in business as president of the Loretta Young Division of Schick Inc., and she speaks like a big businessman.

"I don't go to many films these days," Loretta says, "because I find so many so brutalizing it's not worth it.

"But the last time I did go, we passed three theaters in a row while driving down Wilshire Boulevard. The first was showing 'The Sound of Music' and there was a long line of people waiting to see it. 'Last Tango In Paris' was playing at the second one and there wasn't a soul in line. The third, where I was going, was showing 'Camelot' and there was a line of people around the block waiting to get in.

"My point is, I'm convinced that people really do want to see good, healthy, constructive entertainment — a good strong story with good values to live up to. I just wish there were more films like that. And, oh, yes, I recently saw 'Godspell' and loved every minute of it."

ANOTHER VIEW of film's today, from George Steves Jr., of American Film Institute:

"The film business is changing," Stevens says, "and, mostly, it's contracting. It's probably leveled off and will be an important part of our culture, as it always has been. Fewer pictures are being made. Fewer people are seeing them. But the audience we're left with is a faithful and enduring group and seems to replenish itself."

"JONATHAN Livingston Seagull" may not have impressed the critics but Neil Diamond's music has obviously impressed the public. I'm told Columbia Records has 1½ million back orders for the JLS album with Diamond's sound track.

Only problem is that there is currently a shortage of vinyl so it's tough making records today. The Columbia brass figure that, if that shortage ever ends, they may have a five-million seller on their hot little hands.

VICTORIA Principal, one of today's top glamor gals, says she lifts weights to stay in shape. It all began, she says, when she and a girl friend were around a swimming pool and some creepy guy began annoying them. Victoria's friend calmly tossed the creep into the deep end of the pool.

"She told me she'd been lifting weights," Victoria says, "so I decided to do it, too. So far, I haven't had any occasion to put my strength to a test."

She says the good thing about it is that lifting weights doesn't develop bulging musicles — "just long ones." —NEA

The Professionals OF THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Holding O'Connor Blaeser Real Estate

55 S. Northwest Hwy., Palatine 359-4600

Holding O'Connor Blaeser Real Estate is among the newer real estate firms in the northwest suburban area but the newness ends right there.

The three principals, Jack Holding, Jack O'Connor and Jim Blaeser, combine for well over 20 years service to the northwest suburbs. That 20 years along with the experience of sales associates Lu Henke, Dorothy Stanke, Tom LaDore and Tom Bowman puts the aggregate experience in excess of 40 years.

Four of the seven sales people are million dollar salesmen which is recognition of sales in excess of $1 million in a calendar year.* Three of the four are "Life Members" of MAP Million Dollar Sales Club, denoting sales in excess of $1 million in three consecutive years. During the year 1973, Holding participated in sales in excess of $3 million.

Holding O'Connor and Blaeser say, "The foundation of our business is that we are a service business and our vehicle to performing that service is real estate sales. With this in mind we are proud to be known as 'The People Pleasers,' a name denoting the performance of that superior service which leads to real estate sales."

The phrase "The People Pleasers" may to some degree denote success. However, Holding O'Connor and Blaeser prefer not to look at it that way. It is their belief that everyone knows the successful person and the successful person will not be able to be of great assistance to a client by relying on his past success.

He must, however, concern himself with and have interest in a client's problems and regard his needs as his own. In other words, putting himself in the other person's shoes. In the dictionary this is called empathy.

Empathy is a very important consideration with Holding O'Connor and Blaeser. They look at it this way:

Home Sellers: Of course the home seller is the firm's stock in trade but while marketing a seller's home they must take into consideration exactly what the home-seller's requirements are. Examples of this are urgency to sell, amount of time required to perform the sale, best way to finance the ensuing transaction, counseling the seller as to the various intricacies of the sale and of course obtaining an equitable market value price for the property.

Home Buyers: By using a very systematic approach with a home purchaser Holding O'Connor and Blaeser can best serve his needs. The initial qualification of the buyer is a most important step, not merely determining financial capabilities but also learning the family's true needs, wants and desires. Understanding the needs, wants and desires not only helps them find a desirable home for clients but also a community and neighborhood suitable to the family in the shortest possible amount of time. Of course, the firm also assists the buyer in obtaining financing and counsels him regarding the purchase.

Sales People: The principals at Holding O'Connor Blaeser believe in working hand in hand with their sales associates. They feel if a sales person has no hesitation about discussing various aspects of the business or a particular transaction with them, then the old adage "two heads are better than one" results in greater success for the sales person, the company and, of course, the clients.

Combined with the empathy approach the real estate firm keeps another business practice in mind, one which they feel should govern every business transaction — the Golden Rule. Add to these practices common sense and the firm believes the net result is real estate sales and purchases in a most satisfactory manner. These satisfactory results are the cumulation of their business purpose, that being . . . service.

Holding O'Connor and Blaeser also believe a real estate office's location and appearance is of utmost importance. These men had wanted to pool their expertise for some time but waited until they were able to secure a property on a prominent street and not locate themselves in an out-of-the way or hard-to-find area. They feel good exposure of a real estate office, ease of entrance to auto drivers and sufficient parking are of great importance.

In locating at 55 S. Northwest Hwy., they felt certain these requirements have been fulfilled. They also believe the building's appearance and environment are conducive to the good business of real estate sales. They are quick to tell visitors that even though the building looks new it is actually a remodeled gas station.

It is their belief real estate is an individual's best investment; they use their office as evidence of how a person can not only improve the appearance and usefulness of his investment but also greatly increase its value.

HOME TO HOME

ONE OF THE MODEL homes being shown during the grand opening of Greenfields of Cary is the 1½ story two-bedroom home priced from $39,990. All four model homes are available in three elevations. The basic home includes a one-car attached garage and improved lot. Standard Pacific-Illinois Corporation is the builder/developer. First homes will be ready for occupancy in mid-March.

Greenfields, Cary shows four models

Standard Pacific-Illinois Corp. is now holding the grand opening of Greenfields, the 160-acre single family development at Cary-Algonquin Road and Main Street in Cary. The four furnished models were decorated by John Ksandr, N.S.I.D., and Michael Syrjanen, N.S.I.D. Sales over the next five years are projected at $25 million.

The first unit of 90 single family homes will be ready for March 15 occupancy. Unit two, consisting of 74 homes will be under construction by late fall 1974 according to the current projections of L. A. (Tex) Guggemos, president of Standard Pacific-Illinois Corp.

A 1½ story, ranch, bi-level and tri-level are currently available at Greenfields. Each home is available in three different elevations. A one-car attached garage with lot space for a two-car garage, improved lots averaging approximately 10,000 sq. ft., and full municipal facilities are included in the basic home price. Standard Pacific-Illinois has already installed paved streets and curbs. Gas street lights and sidewalks will be installed as a home is completed.

Plan 1400 is a 1½ story home with two bedrooms, crawl space and one bath in the basic home. The upper floor has subfloor, insulation, heat and plumbing drain lines fully installed. Water lines are roughed-in to subfloor and the electrical supply is roughed in to one junction box. The home is expandable to include a family room, second bath and hallway and two more bedrooms. Plan 1400 is priced from $39,900.

Plan 1100 is a basic three-bedroom, one-bath ranch with entry level living room and raised family-dining room. The three bedrooms and bath form a separate wing at the front of the house, completely isolated from the activity areas. The home is priced from $38,990.

Plan 1200 is a three-bedroom bi-level with two baths and a foyer with vaulted ceiling. Patio doors in the dining and living rooms open onto a balcony. Another patio door leads to the yard. The home is expandable to include a family room and fourth bedroom. Prices begin at $43,490.

Plan 1300 is a tri-level with formal living room, separate dining room, and a kitchen with breakfast area. There are also three bedrooms, one and one-half baths and crawl space. The home is expandable to include a basement and family room. The tri-level is priced from $42,990.

All of the homes have optional fireplaces with paneled walls, central air conditioning, two car garages, and basements.

Greenfields is a development of Standard Pacific-Illinois Corp., a subsidiary of Standard-Pacific Corp. of Costa Mesa, Calif.

Pat O'Connor is sales manager for the Illinois subsidiary. His sales office and the models are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. The models at Greenfields may be reached by following Northwest Highway No. 14 to Main Street in Cary and driving west on Main to the models.

New booklet relates facts on condominiums

So you've bought a condominium, or just moved into one, and think you know all about it?

Maybe you do, but to make sure you're not about to face some unpleasant surprises, there's a new free booklet available from Baird & Warner, Inc., that will tell you what you need to know about condominium and cooperative ownership.

Single copies are available free of charge at any of the real estate company's offices in Chicago and suburbs, or by sending 10 cents to the Property Management Division, Baird & Warner, Inc., 10 S. LaSalle St., Chicago 60603.

"Living in a condominium is entirely different from living in a conventional single-family home or an apartment, which is why we published this booklet," according to William D. Sally, vice president and general manager of Baird & Warner's property management division.

Many people move into a condominium with the expectation that everything will be done for them, not realizing that they have assumed many responsibilities and obligations.

"Since condominiums are becoming so popular in the Chicago area and elsewhere in the country, we think people ought to know what condominium living is all about, so their transition to a condominium will be more pleasant," Sally said.

The 32-page booklet begins by explaining what condominiums and cooperatives are, including their differences and similarities.

Then the booklet tells about assessments, how they are figured, and how they are likely to go up, depending on rising costs and what the board of directors of the condominium decide to do.

Since the policies and liefsttyle of the building are determined by the board of directors, the booklet explains how the board is elected from among the members and what powers the board has.

Also explained in the booklet are the functions of the developer or builder of the condominium and the managing agent who is hired by the developer or the board to run the building.

The booklet concludes with a section on insurance and taxes.

THE ARCHITECTURAL FIRM of Busche & Markson, Inc., has received an award for outstanding Design and Professional Capability from the Society of American Registered Architects. The award was given at the Society's recent national convention, held in San Francisco. The award was given for the design of the new manufacturing facility for the Halo Lighting Division, McGraw-Edison Co., now under construction in Elk Grove Village. D. J. Velo and Co. is the general contractor.

The cover story on R. A. L. Realty Co. last week should have read that Richard A. Lis is a past president of the Northwest Real Estate Board, rather than the Northwest Suburban Real Estate Board.

Kotnaur reaches $1 million sales

Frank Kotnaur is the seventh member of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, to achieve more than $1 million in real estate sales, announced Ralph H. Martin, president.

Frank Kotnaur

By achieving this distinction, Kotnaur becomes eligible to be a member of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards' "Million Dollar Sales Club." Kotnaur started with Kunkel in 1969 in residential sales and is now a member of the firm's Commercial-Investment Division.

Kotnaur is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. In the latter organization, he is a candidate for the designation of R.M. (Resident Member). Kotnaur holds a B.A. degree from Dominican College, which is now called College of Racine, Wisconsin. He also is an assistant instructor of real estate principles at Wm. Rainey Harper College in Palatine.

Kotnaur resides in Des Plaines with his wife, Patricia, and two children.

Versailles on the Lake begins Phase II apartments

Donald J. Scholz & Company has begun construction of the $8 million Phase II of Versailles on the Lake apartments at Schaumburg. The community at Golf Road and Plum Grove Road has four three-story buildings with enclosed heated parking on the lower level, in the first phase.

Also included was the Versailles Club with heated pool and sun deck, exercise and sauna areas, billiard room, formal lounge with fireplace, and bar area. Outdoor recreation will include tennis courts and a par three golf course. The lake is used for sailing, fishing and ice skating. And, at the entry gate is the trademark of the community, the Versailles fountain.

Phase II will have eight additional three-story buildings on 14 acres directly west of the present apartments. There will be another bathhouse and swimming pool.

The foyer of each building has a winding staircase and colonial chandelier suspended from the two-story lobby ceiling. There will be efficiencies from $240, one bedroom studios from $250, one bedrooms from $290, one bedroom with den from $335, two bedroom, two bath from $375, and two bedroom, with den and two baths from $430.

All two bedroom apartments will have electric fireplaces. All apartments have suspended lighted ceilings in the kitchens, formal dining areas, balcony or patio, hook-ups for optional washer and dryer. Rent includes heat, air conditioning, underdrapes, built-in bar, all appliances (including dishwasher) and wall-to-wall carpeting. The heated parking is also included in the rent.

A free courtesy car provides transportation to the commuter station, O'Hare airport, and Woodfield Shopping Center directly to the east of the apartment community. For the homemaker without a car, there are also regularly scheduled grocery shopping tours.

When completed, Phase II will add 410 units to the original 210 in Phase I for a total of 620 apartment units. Occupancy is scheduled for spring, 1974.

Three associates join Gladstone

Three new sales associates have joined the staff of Gladstone, Realtors in the Des Plaines office. Gladstone also has offices in Franklin Park, Villa Park, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Berkeley and Westchester.

Harry Blume

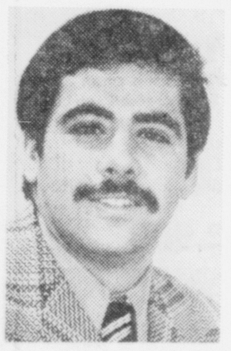
Harry F. Blume of Des Plaines is a lifelong resident of that suburb. He attended Maine Township High School, New Mexico A. & M., and is a graduate of Northwestern University.

He was formerly production control manager for a Chicago firm and served as assistant scout master of Troop 13 in Des Plaines. Blume is vice president of Town and Country S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. Barbershop chorus and sings bass with the "Reliables" Barbershop quartet.

Richard Biggins

Richard V. Biggins of Des Plaines brings with him 10 years experience in the construction business, 10 years in purchasing, and 23 years in the field of sales.

He is a past president of St. Juliana's Holy Name Society, a fourth degree member of St. Paul of the Cross Council of Knights of Columbus, and for 15 years served as precinct captain of the 41st ward in Chicago.



Kenneth Guzzetta

Kenneth Guzzetta of Park Ridge, the youngest of the new sales associates, is a graduate of Maine South High School in Park Ridge, and attended Northern Illinois University.

Retail construction demand strong

New shopping center construction will reach a level of approximately $4 billion in 1974.

So observes Durand A. Holladay, managing trustee of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, who notes that "the demand for new retail facilities continues strong throughout the nation."

"The highest levels of shopping center construction will continue in and around Chicago, Denver, Detroit, Houston, the greater Miami area, Orlando, Phoenix, San Diego, the San Francisco-Oakland area, and the Tampa-St. Petersburg area.

"Developers are being asked to build supporting retail facilities following our recent record surge of residential construction. And a look at the current 'hot' shopping center markets shows that these cities also posted strong home building records in the '70s," Holladay points out.

Increased shopping center construction, he emphasizes, generally follows within 12 to 15 months in those areas where home building rates have been high.

"New shopping centers will be a strong segment of the overall 1974 commercial construction picture, but the worsening energy crisis may have somewhat of a dampening effect on future planning. Fuel allocations and power requirements will be prime considerations in determining the size of future shopping centers.

"The large centers now being built are, for the most part, multi-level enclosed malls that are air-conditioned in the summer and heated in the winter for the convenience of shoppers. However, the energy crunch may well result in fewer such conveniences," Holladay points out.

Although the outlook continues bright for shopping center construction, he adds, developers will encounter major problems of rising land costs plus a scarcity of some building materials in 1974.

"However, the labor market should not be as tight as it has been in recent years. With an expected decline in residential construction, an increasing number of workers will be moving into the commercial sector.

"Shopping center developers will make every effort so as not to slow down in their drive to meet the continuing demand," Holladay concludes.

Break ground for new condo towers

Ronald Wiesner, president of Weisner Realty Inc., Chicago realty firm specializing in the location and acquisition of multi-family zoned land in the Chicagoland area for local and out-of-state builders and developers, announced a large-scale condominium development has begun in Willowbrook. Developer is American Housing Systems, a Cleveland-based holding company with various building activities in the Midwest and along the East coast.

According to Weisner, who was sole broker in the land sale, the site consists of approximately 12 acres and is located at 63rd Street west of Rt. 83 (Kingery Expressway.)

To be known as Lake Hinsdale Towers, the property will be developed with two 12-story fire proof buildings containing a total of 520 units, said Weisner. The planned development will include a recreation center connecting both buildings, an enclosed indoor/outdoor swimming pool with sliding glass doors, tennis courts, game rooms and saunas in each building and there will be both enclosed and surface parking for the residents.

The first building is expected to be ready for occupancy by summer 1974. Estimated value of the development, when completed will be approximately $20 million according to the developers.

The two condominium towers will offer 48 one-bedroom units, 364 two-bedroom units and 108 three-bedroom units. All units will have balconies. Proposed price ranges will be $29,000 - $31,000 for the one-bedroom units, $34,000 - $39,000 for the two-bedroom units and $42,000 - $45,000 for the three-bedroom units.

LAKE HINSDALE TOWERS condominium development in Willowbrook will contain a total of 520 units when completed. Developer is American Housing Systems.

Two women join Starck

Mrs. Joyce Lennox and Mrs. Pat Landes have recently joined Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, as sales asociates.

Mrs. Landes will be located in the Mount Prospect Starck office, 209 S. Main St. She has lived in Mount Prospect for 12 years and has a bachelor of science degree from Purdue University.

Mrs. Landes is a past president of the Northwest Suburban Delta Gamma Alumnae, and served two years on the Busse School PTA Board and three years on the District 57 Caucus. Her other interests include sewing and volunteer work.

Joyce Lennox will be working in the Starck office in Palatine, 450 N. Northwest Hwy., as a broker-sales associate. The Palatine resident is a graduate of Western Michigan University where she obtained a bachelor of science degree in sociology. She has 2½ years experience selling real estate in the northwest suburbs. She currently is the coordinator for the Palatine Township Council on the Aged.

Gallery of Homes to launch 'Operation Optimism'

"Operation Optimism" will be launched this week by Gallery of Homes Northwest, Arlington Heights, as part of a nation-wide response to the energy and money crises on the part of more than 15,000 members of Gallery of Homes, Inc.

In announcing local participation in the campaign, Realtor W. Richard Impey said, "The entire project is an effort to restore public confidence in the strength and advantages of living in America. We think there is no better way of doing this than by reaccentuating the benefits of home ownership and the ease of acquiring same."

The Gallery effort will focus on ways of overcoming shortages and costs for both money and energy.

"With respect to financing," Realtor Impey said, "we hope to overcome exaggerated 'horror' stories by assuring people that money is available for home mortgages, at relatively reasonable rates considering anticipated appreciation in property values."

"Among various approaches to home financing, we will stress the availability of the Gallery of Homes Equity Advance program. Under such a plan, Gallery of Homes, Inc. advances cash to a home buyer enabling him to acquire a new residence while his former home is being sold."

"In approaching the energy crisis," Realtor Impey said, "it is our hope to convince people of the numerous recreational and leisure time activities that can be centered around a good home. In addition, we will continue to support and participate in neighborhood-centered community activities, including the use of meeting space at the Gallery office in Arlington Heights."

"Rather than use a lot of gas exploring various areas," Realtor Impey added, "prospective home buyers will be urged to visit the Arlington Heights Gallery where they may view full-color photographs of all homes currently listed for sale."

Nationally the Gallery campaign is designed to stress the continuing vibrancy of the residential real estate market despite pressures of the economy. According to Gallery executive vice president Thomas W. Dooley, the housing market continues to be strong in most sections of the nation, especially the resale market for existing homes.

"The major reason for this continuing buoyancy," Dooley stated, "is the steadily increasing corporate transferee market." Within Gallery of Homes International Relocation Service, which is specifically created to accommodate transferees, Dooley reported that 11 month volume of activity surpassed expectations by 35 per cent and was 48 per cent greater than for a comparable period in 1972.

Gallery of Homes Northwest is the exclusive member of the marketing network in the Arlington Heights area.

DONALD J. SCHOLZ & Company has begun construction of the $8 million Phase II of Versailles on the Lake apartments in Schaumburg. The community at Golf Road and Plum Grove Road has four three-story buildings with enclosed heated parking on the lower level, in the first phase.

Sees easing of tight money crunch

Storm clouds presently hovering over the mortgage lending industry now seem to be more thunder than rain.

"And visible breaks are starting to appear in those dark money crunch clouds," declares Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, who adds that "spot checks in practically every state reveal growing lending industry optimism about the mortgage money situation."

"I am not minimizing the seriousness of the tight money situation we have been experiencing or the heavy withdrawals from thrift institutions. But information that we are receiving would most certainly indicate that a turnaround is beginning — not yet a burgeoning movement nor even a major trend — but a definitive start.

"We are hearing more and more from the thrift industry that once again it can see a light at the end of the tunnel. I would, therefore, estimate that by the end of the first quarter of 1974, the turnaround will be quite evident — quite discernible," Goss states.

As in the past, he notes, the 1973 money crunch has not been uniformly tight.

"For example, we may visit 10 thrift institutions and find that eight are strapped for money to lend to potential home buyers. Another might report that things may even point out that he has more money that he has borrowers. Those who worked in the secondary market in 1970 found this to be true then — it is even more so today," Goss emphasizes.

The situation, he points out, varies from area to area across the country.

"In the San Francisco-Oakland area money is still tight but there are signs that more thrift institutions are able to make mortgage loans and some are actually seeking loans to make on new and existing dwellings. The Cleveland picture is even brighter — there are lenders in that area seeking out loans to make.

"Denver is very, very tight. One problem there has been with condominium developments in some resort areas but it is a purely local situation that could brighten in 60-to-90 days.

"Our spot survey indicates that there is money available for mortgage loans in two Eastern States — New York and New Jersey," Goss observes.

In the Chicago-Northwestern Indiana area, he adds, the money supply is down as compared to a year ago, but the crunch is starting to ease.

"The Los Angeles-Long Beach area is still tight but here there are also signs of a turnaround — some S&L executives are reporting new savings deposits. Lenders in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area have been hard hit and the tight situation there may not ease up until later in 1974.

"However, positive steps are being taken to improve the overall mortgage money supply. IMIC, for example, recently launched a national campaign to attract new savings deposits to thrift institutions from individuals as well as from housing-oriented businesses and groups. The results range from a $100 deposit in an Oakland S&L by an elderly lady to a commitment by a New England pension fund to buy $1 million worth of mortgages.

"The money needed by potential home buyers can and will be made available. It must be done because, for example, when a young couple makes up their mind that they want to buy their dream home, nothing in the world — or any other world for that matter — will stand in their way, not even a credit crunch," Goss concludes.

Architect receives five awards

Architect Salvatore J. Balsamo, a 12-year resident of Northbrook, was named by the Society of American Registered

Salvatore Balsamo

Architects, a national organization, as a recipient of the Gold Medal honor for special achievement in the educational buildings category. His prize-winning design was for the McDonald's Corporation management training center in Elk Grove Village.

Judging for the award was done by a panel of recognized architects from across the United States.

This was the fifth honor received by Balsamo and his organization in 1973. Earlier in the year, the firm received the Gold Medal and First Honor Award from the American Institute of Architects in conjunction with the National Home Builders' Association and the Confederation of Women's Clubs for his environmental concepts in the housing industry.

The firm specializes in this field and has created housing prototypes for over 7,000 living units in the Chicagoland area some of which are located in Northbrook.

"Land use, site planning, design of buildings, amenities, quality and originality are all important elements in sensitive architectural and community planning, but recognition of the human element is the most single condition in successful planning," says Balsamo in a summary of his award-winning approach.

Area woman completes decorating workshop

Rita Rich, of Hoffman Estates, recently completed a five-day custom decorating workshop at the J. C. Penney regional training center in suburban Chicago.

Mrs. Rich is a member of the custom decorating staff at Penney's Woodfield Mall department store and joined the company earlier this year.

Homefinders names top salesmen

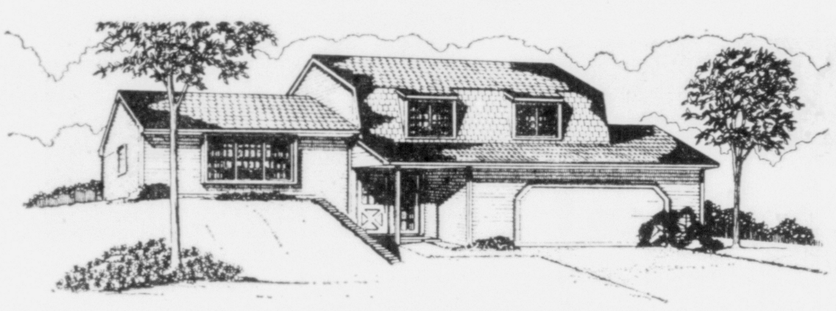
Robert L. Zaun, president of Homefinders, announces that seven sales associates have been named "Salesman of the Month" for December.

The top sales persons in each of the Homefinders offices are Billie Tollstam, Arlington Heights; Jo Ann Mathews, Buffalo Grove; Ray Gerth, Lake Zurich; Tom Durnan, manager of Mount Prospect; Charlotte Andersen, Palatine; Allen Espenshade, Palatine; and Bob Giles, Streamwood.

Founded in 1967, Homefinders has experienced rapid growth in the six years since its establishment. David Hanner is vice president of the firm and is director of its commercial and investment division.

GRAND OPENING!

Greenfields OF CARY



Once in a great while an opportunity arises to live in a better place.

Where the past and the present are in harmony.

Now it's happening in a charming, new neighborhood called Greenfields of Cary, six miles from Barrington and minutes from the recreational delights of the scenic Fox River Valley — less than a mile from CNW trains that whisk you downtown in under an hour.

Visit Greenfields — a distinctive community of single family homes built in the Standard-Pacific tradition of honest craftsmanship.

Models, starting below $40,000, are open every day from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. 30 year, 90% mortgages available to qualified buyers.

Come to Cary...a gentle past, a promising future.

Greenfields is at the intersection of West Main Street and Cary-Algonquin Road, just ¾ mile west of the Cary commuter station. Sales Office Phone: (312) 639-5531

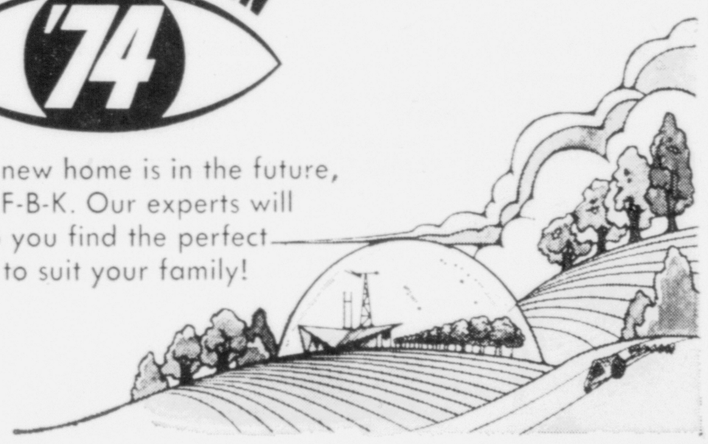
LOOK TO THE FUTURE IN '74

If a new home is in the future, call F-B-K. Our experts will help you find the perfect one to suit your family!



F-B-K WILL HELP YOU ORGANIZE CAR POOL

Because we believe there are many residents who would like to take part in car pools, F-B-K Inc., Realtors has formed C.A.R. (Co-operating Auto Registration). If you are interested in taking part in a car pool, stop in any of our offices and fill out a form. The forms indicate when and where a resident is leaving from and when and where he wants to go. This public service is intended to help the present energy crises.

TYLER BLUFF, the townhome community overlooking the Fox River Valley in Elgin, has added two new models to the present ones, making a total of five. The multi-level homes have two or three bedrooms, some with dens and all have two-car garages and woodburning fireplaces. The first three models had garages at the back of the private rear courtyard. The two new models have attached garages. Prices begin at $43,500. Tyler Bluff is located ¼ mile from the Route 31 south exit of the Northwest Tollway.

Wood-burning range stages comeback

The wood-burning range is the newest nominee for "Comeback of the Year" honors.

"And just when most people thought that these stoves had gone the way of so many other fond, nostalgic memories of yesteryear," observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston.

"With fewer new homes expected to be built in 1974, the demand for existing dwellings is already beginning to soar. A basic reason for this popularity is that many of these older homes boast open fireplaces where wood or coal can be used for heating purposes.

"Wood-burning stoves, space heaters and fireplaces can be welcome alternatives to other methods of heating and cooking," Goss emphasizes.

The current nostalgia boom, he adds, may be considered a fad by many people, but it does have its realistic moments.

"In addition to being a highly practical source of heat, fireplaces can provide entertainment and pleasure for a family — especially for youngsters.

"Toasting marshmallows and roasting hot dogs in their own living room generally proves to be more pleasant for children than playing outside on a blustery winter day. And who knows, but with more fireplaces in use, long-handled corn poppers may well come back into vogue," Goss muses.

As for those wood-burning kitchen ranges, their revival will show that cooking on these "relics of the past" is not a lost art.

"Of course, a young homemaker using a wood range for the first time may, indeed, find the lack of control knobs and push-buttons a bit disconcerting. But with a little experimenting, she will soon find that cooking temperatures can be controlled by proper use of built-in dampers and flues.

"And it could bring the man back into the kitchen," Goss points out.

Another plus, he adds, is that these stoves tend to retain heat and keep a kitchen warm and cheery long after all of the cooking is done and the meal completed.

"The energy crisis is bringing about sharp changes in our life styles — more will follow.

"And with the added emphasis on renovating, rehabilitating and restoring old homes, we may find that those 'good old days' really did have quite a bit to offer," Goss concludes.

Housing permits drop again

Construction activity in the six county metropolitan area of Chicago declined 62 per cent in November from figures reported for the same month of 1973, according to the Bell Federal Savings Survey of Building.

According to that Survey, the number of housing units (apartment and single family) for which permits were issued last month reached only 2,417 compared to the 6,470 reported in November, 1972.

The significant decrease occurred in the unincorporated areas in multi-family units which dropped from 2,112 to only 160 in November, 1973.

Total apartment permits declined 67 per cent (4,393 to 1,438).

Single family permits in the six county area reported a decline of 53 per cent (2,077 to 979).

The combined totals of permits issued for single family and apartment units in the first eleven months of 1973 decreased 28 per cent from the figures reported for the same period last year reaching only 38,894 from the 53,974 in 1972.

'Who needs you?'

There seems to be a shortage of service as well as gas

by TOM TIEDE

NEWARK, N.Y. — A gasoline company with interests in the East and Midwest has been conducting an advertising campaign recently in which an actor, portraying a dealer, stands besides a fuel pump and says: "When you come in here I'm gonna wash your front and back windows and your sideview mirror. I'm gonna take a look at your tires, your battery, your oil. Believe me, I can be very friendly now."

Uh. Maybe the actor can be friendly during the energy crisis, with cars lined 50 to 100 deep at the pumps, with horns blowing and tempers boiling. But real gasoline dealers? Not many.

The other day a driver stopped at a service station off the New Jersey turnpike and the friendly attendant almost socked him in the mouth. The driver asked to have his windshield washed, oil checked and a full tank of fuel. Angered at the gall of the request the attendant replied he had a $2 limit on gas and no time for anything else. When the driver protested the attendant ordered him out of the lot "or else!"

AND SO ANOTHER casualty on the energy front: service at the service station. Time was when gasoline dealers bent backwards to please the customer, offering enticements such as trading stamps and carving knives for the pleasure of one's business. Now it's strictly a seller's market and the buyer beware. "Who needs you?" said the choleric attendant to the Jersey driver who, as it happened, ran out of gas before the next station.

Many major oil companies agree, courtesy being replaced by lethargy and even rudeness at thousands of filling stations around the nation. Jim Walker, public relations spokesman for the Gulf Oil Corp., says he remembers when "one of our stations in Pittsburgh had porters to serve people in the restrooms." Now some stations won't even open their restrooms.

At many stations the carelessness extends over the full range of good business practices. Besides refusing to wash windshields and check oil levels, oil companies say some stations have also refused to honor credit cards and force gasless motorists to purchase unwanted accessories. There have been cases, too, where suddenly exclusive dealers have refused to serve some customers for personality and apparently even racial reasons.

SOME OF THE shenaningans, no doubt, can be traced to events beyond the individual dealer's control. Texaco publicist Jack Murphy says that pressures at the pumps necessitate some interruption of traditional station service: "If a man has 100 cars waiting, he can't possibly check everybody's oil."

Moreover, many customers reportedly invite abuse. A New York dealer was recently threatened with a gun when his pumps ran dry. Other dealers have been beaten.

Says North Jersey pump jockey Ed Radburn: "We get people in here screaming before the sun comes up. They don't let you eat lunch, they don't let you take a lavatory break."

Besides this, many station owners have been forced to turn their pump management over to inexperienced hired help. The real money at stations is made in the shops and, regardless of the queues, that's where the dealers must necessarily be.

BUT WHATEVER the reasons, the unfriendly service aggravates many. Including executives in the major oil companies. Texaco's Murphy says his corporation has spent a good deal of time and "a good deal of money preaching good business practice." Gulf's Walker, who says he's had some "lousy service" himself of late, believes the current situation is a short-sighted one for practicing dealers: "We tell them, the odds are you'll be in business after the shortage is over and you'll need all the good will you can get."

Despite their concern, however, the oil companies assertedly can do little more than jawbone about falling service. Most name-brand stations are merely franchise operations — Texaco owns only 25 of its 36,000 U.S. stations — and therefore the companies have little clout. Corporations spend billions polishing their name image, but, says an Exxon executive: "Courtesy, service, cleanliness — that's really up to each individual dealer."

And one dealer says:

"Well, what's the percentage? Customers don't care if you're friendly or not right now. All they want is gas. Adolf Hitler could stand out here and sell every drop he could get.

New course offered at Harper

The first course offerings in a new program in material management are being offered at Harper College during the spring term which begins Jan. 28.

The new program is the product of more than 18 months of study by an industry advisory committee made up of persons actively involved in material management functions in their firms.

A number of professional organizations, including the Chicago Chapter of the American Production and Inventory Control Society, Chicago Chapter of the International Material Management Society, Purchasing Management Association of Chicago, and the National Council for Physical Distribution Management, were represented on the committee.

The program includes in-service education and training for those in the material management field. The program also provides training for those seeking to enter the material management field.

Material Management courses offered during spring term are:

Fundamentals of Material Management, Monday evenings, two credit hours; Production Control Concepts, Tuesday evenings, three credit hours; Principles of Physical Distribution, Wednesday evenings, three credit hours; and Transportation for Material Managers, Thursday evenings, three credit hours.

All courses are offered at Hoffman Estates High School and run from 7 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. (with the exception of the fundamentals course, which runs until 9 p.m.). The courses carry college credits that can be applied toward a certificate in material management or a two-year associate degree.

For further information concerning the program, visit the campus at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine, or telephone 397-3000, ext. 311.

Registration for spring semester will be held Jan. 24-26.

Some quick 'n' easy washer repairs

Do it yourself

Washing machine repairs, like any appliance repair, can be expensive. The basic charge just to have a serviceman come out to look at the washer should be enough to cause you to be certain that the problem isn't something slight that you could remedy yourself.

While most repairs (unless you are very handy) should be left to the professional there remain minor corrections that should be made — or at least tried — before calling for service.

When an automatic washer fills slowly or not at all it could be several things at fault — timer, pressure switch or valve — that require professional servicing. It also could be several things that do not.

MAKE CERTAIN the water supply valves (the faucets to which the water supply hoses are connected) are on and if on, fully open. Someone just might have turned the wrong handle.

Next, disconnect the hoses. At the faucet ends there are filter washers, a combination of hose washer and screen. At the inlets on the back of the washer the hose connections contain valve screens. Both these screens and filters are designed to keep out sand and sediment.

These items should be cleaned periodically. They can be pried out with a small screwdriver. In time the screens may rust. Buy replacements at hardware or appliance parts stores.

Leaving the filters out will make the water run freely but the sediment that gets through will damage parts inside the washer in time necessitating professional repairs.

SOMETIMES CLOTHES are left too wet after the spin dry operation. There may be water remaining in the tub instead of being completely pumped out. While the pump may be at fault, check to make sure it isn't a problem in the drain hose. The hose may have a kink in it, a condition that comes about when the hose wasn't cut to length when installed in the drain. Instead it hangs down in too big a loop. In time the hot water causes the loop to collapse and kink.

Straighten out the hose or replace it with a new one.

A slipping or loose belt will also cause this trouble. Remove the panel that covers the insides of the washer and check the belt. Careful examination will tell you whether motor mounts or idlers can be adjusted to increase the tension.

WHEN AN automatic washer vibrates too much it causes excess wear to the parts. It also throws the load of clothes off balance causing the off-balance switch to turn off the washer.

First determine that an off-balance load isn't actually at fault. Next, check the washer level. Place a carpenter's level diagonally across the top of the washer.

The washer has threaded feet that can be adjusted up or down until it is level. Once level, be certain to tighten the lock nuts on the feet to keep them in adjustment.

And don't forget the obvious when the washer doesn't run. Is it plugged in? If it is, check the outlet with a neon tester or a lamp you know is good. Is the fuse burned out or the circuit breaker tripped? If it is and it happens occasionally, try transferring some electrical items from that circuit to another. If that is not the trouble and the washer trips the breaker or blows a fuse every time you start it, then call a serviceman. There may be a short in the appliance.

Soma compound may bring on dizziness

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

I notice you write often about high blood pressure, but no information on low blood pressure. My blood pressure is 118/60. I'm 61 years old, 5 feet 5 inches, and weigh 91 pounds. Isn't that pretty low pressure?

I have peptic ulcers and take Soma compounds, Donatol and Titralac antacid four times a day.

Isn't there something I should be taking for low blood pressure? I'm getting dizzy spells for some reason and thought the pressure might be the cause.

That is not an unusual pressure for a small woman like you. The important question is, what is causing your dizziness? There are many causes for dizziness, and it is true that inadequate circulation to the brain is one. It is also true that medicines can be a cause. First on my list of causes for your problem is the Soma compound you are taking.

Soma is a good medicine. It will relax muscle spasms and is commonly used for patients with your problems. However, rarely it will cause dizziness. You may well be one of the rare individuals in whom this occurs. You should go see your doctor, and I would suggest that the first thing to try would be to stop the Soma compound. If it doesn't correct the problem he will want to check other possibilities for dizziness.

For those few individuals who have dizziness related to low blood pressure, some pressure stockings are helpful. The elastic-like pressure helps to prevent too much blood accumulating in the legs and in this way helps maintain good circulation to the brain.

Before you get too worried about your blood pressure, I must tell you my pressure is commonly lower than yours. Some people claim I'm dizzy, but I haven't felt any dizzy spells yet.

The search for mental health

Shock treatment still can be effective

(This column is presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully accredited 150-bed psychiatric hospital widely known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

Dr. Zigmund Lebensohn is an advocate of electro convulsive therapy, more commonly known as shock treatment, for the acutely and severely mentally ill.

While this may not sound like an unusual position for a clinical professor of psychiatry at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., the fact is, according to Lebensohn, few psychiatrists use electro convulsive therapy (ECT) anymore, preferring antidepressant drugs, for instance. And fewer new psychiatrists are being trained to use ECT as a treatment method.

Lebensohn, who also is the head of psychiatric services at Sibley Memorial Hospital in Washington, said, "ECT is excellent treatment when properly used and is one of the most dramatically effective treatments for a rather wide variety of psychiatric disorders, primarily depression.

"In general, ECT is used when everything else has been tried and failed. There are some cases, though, when ECT should be used immediately." Lebensohn likened ECT to psychiatry as surgery is to medicine. He also noted that while some treatment methods come and go in popularity and effectiveness, of the 3 to 10 per cent of mental patients treated with ECT, it has been consistently effective since it was first tried in the 1930s.

LEBENSOHN SAID, "Many people are afraid of ECT. They've heard horror stories about it and some think it is used to punish mental patients who won't behave. None of this is true. ECT is harmless and painless." He went on to explain that the patient is first given an intravenous anesthetic which puts him to sleep. Then he is given a muscle relaxant.

A very carefully calibrated electric current is applied between the temples — 140 volts for one-half a second. This produces instantaneous unconsciousness and a mild convulsive seizure, so mild it must be watched for carefully to know that it has taken place. Oxygen then is administered, the patient recovers and is eating breakfast in 30 to 40 minutes. There is some fuzziness of memory which clears up in a matter of weeks.

How does this treatment help the depressed or psychotic patient? "ECT tends to break up recently acquired abnormal, unproductive patterns of thinking," explained Lebensohn. "This permits the older, more constructive patterns to take charge once again."

THE DOCTOR ALSO IS a foremost psychiatrist for politicians and people in government. "I have treated many government people," he said, "and the bulk of them have returned to their jobs better people for it. There should be no stigma attached to a politician having sought psychiatric help. One who reaches out for help in this area is a much more intelligent person than one who decides not to. He is in much better charge of his emotions and is much better able to discharge his responsibilities."

For those politicians who are calloused, who can make important decisions, perhaps dangerous ones, and let nothing bother them, Lebensohn was emphatically against the idea of a government psychiatrist to screen such men and their decisions. "Who is going to examine the heads of those who examine the heads of state?" was his comment.

As for psychiatry in general, Lebensohn would like to see psychiatrists stop trying to cure the world and its social ills. "I would like to see psychiatrists get back to clinical medicine and use appropriate treatment methods to cure sick people."

NEW YEAR - NEW LIFE STYLE
High on a hill nestled among the oak and hickory trees is a new concept in peaceful, relaxed living. Here is your chance to join a select group (only 176 units offered) in the style of living you always promised yourself but never thought you would find. WOODHILLS BAY COLONY offers four distinct units. 2 Bedroom units on 1 floor or 2, or a very distinctive 3 bedroom; all with full kitchen appliances and thick high quality carpeting throughout. Some units offer these amenities but would you expect to find high quality construction plus trees and hills, tennis courts, swimming pool, recreation hall and 469 feet on Fox Lake for fishing and boating? Just 2 blocks from shopping and train starting at only $25,900.
Come out and browse through our units and see on your own if all we say isn't true.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. You may be directed until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Stayman Convention not pushy

When you play the Jacoby transfer you use Stayman along with it. The form of Stayman we use is what we call very non-forcing, in that the two-club response requires the opener to rebid two diamonds unless he has a four-card major. If he holds two four-card majors he bids the better one.

South has a bad hand with four hearts and five spades. He doesn't like to leave his parther in one notrump and playing the Jacoby form of Stayman he can afford to bid two clubs. He intends to pass if North bids either major but North bids two diamonds whereupon South goes to two spades and plays the hand there.

Why does he use Stayman and not a transfer to two spades? Because if his partner does hold four hearts he wants to have the hand play in that suit instead of spades.

The play at two spades is simple and successful. South wins the diamond lead in dummy and plays a trump. West wins and can hold South to his contract if he shifts to his doubleton heart and East ducks. Otherwise, South will score an overtrick by losing just one club, one heart and two trumps.

Tomorrow we'll show how to respond with a good hand and 5-4 in the majorsl

Social security and you

For benefits, earnings can't exceed $2,400

How much can a person receive in earnings and still get benefits from Social Security?

If gross earnings do not exceed $2,100 in 1973, a person is entitled to receive all retirement benefits. In 1974, all benefits will be payable if the gross earnings do not exceed $2,400. Regardless of total amount of earnings benefits could be paid for any month in which gross earnings did not exceed $175 in 1973 or will not exceed $200 in 1974. A different rule applies for those who are receiving disability benefits.

How do earnings affect the receipt by disability benefits?

Disability benefits are based on the inability to do any substantial gainful work. There is a trial work period of up to 9 months during which earnings may not affect benefits, depending on the circumstances. If it is decided that the work done is not substantial and gainful, benefits may continue. It is important to report any return to work to avoid any possible overpayment of benefits.

What is the difference between the new Federal Supplemental Security Income program for the aged, blind, or disabled and the social security program?

The new Supplemental Security Income Program is replacing the present Federal State program of public assistance payments to needy people who are 65 or older, or blind, or disabled. It will be administered by the Social Security in January. The goal of the program is to provide payments to needy persons so they can have a base monthly cash income of $130 for one person or $195 for a married couple.

The Social Security program provides disability and survivors benefits for an individual and his dependents when he has a certain amount of work under Social Security. The amount of social security benefits paid are based on the average earnings under social security over a period of years rather than on need.

New approach to heart disease found in Syracuse VA hospital

Veterans' news

A new approach to heart disease that would involve healing of the damaged heart by regeneration is suggested by animal research at the Syracuse, N.Y., Veterans Administration hospital. Dr. Robert O. Becker has learned preliminary secrets in which some animals regenerate their organs, and he believes this knowledge eventually may be extended to humans.

Both tiny electrical currents and hormones appear to be involved in regeneration in animals, Dr. Becker has found. Using this knowledge, researchers have produced the same type electrical signal at the site of amputated legs in rats by implanting small bimetallic devices. The rats then developed portions of the missing limbs. Dr. Becker cautions that the technique is imperfect and its use in humans is a long way off. The work entails experiments to see if a damaged heart can be stimulated to regrow heart muscle instead of scar.

NEARLY A MILLION veterans won't see dividends from their government life insurance policies this year, but they won't mind because they're getting a good insurance bargain instead. They are the 908,000 veterans who already have purchased $205 million worth of paid up additional life insurance with their annual dividends. Veterans holding policies from World War II may choose to leave their dividends and as a result purchase additional paid up life insurance. No physical examination is necessary to purchase this additional insurance. The amount of additional life insurance veterans purchase depends on his age and the amount of his dividend. The average age is 51 and at this age they can buy slightly more than twice the dividend amount.

VETERANS' BENEFITS are exempt from taxation and need not be reported on income tax forms as income. The only exception is interest on government life insurance dividends left on deposit or credit with the VA. Dividends and proceeds from GI insurance policies are not subject to federal income taxes. Not taxable — nor should it be reported — are benefits from compensation and pension, GI Bill education payments, subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees, and any grant to a severely disabled veteran.

VETERANS APPLYING for original benefits from the VA often fail to include their Department of Defense form DD-214. This form lists dates of service which are important in establishing eligibility for any benefit. Directors of regional offices say that benefits are often delayed because additional information must be obtained from the veteran before a determination can be made. Veterans and service organization representatives can save the veteran time and expedite his benefit by enclosing all of the requested material in their initial application to the VA.

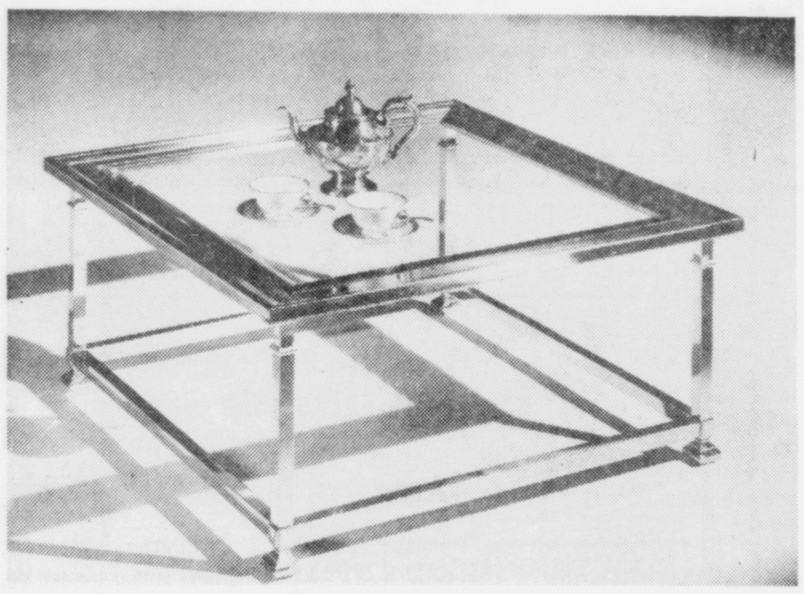
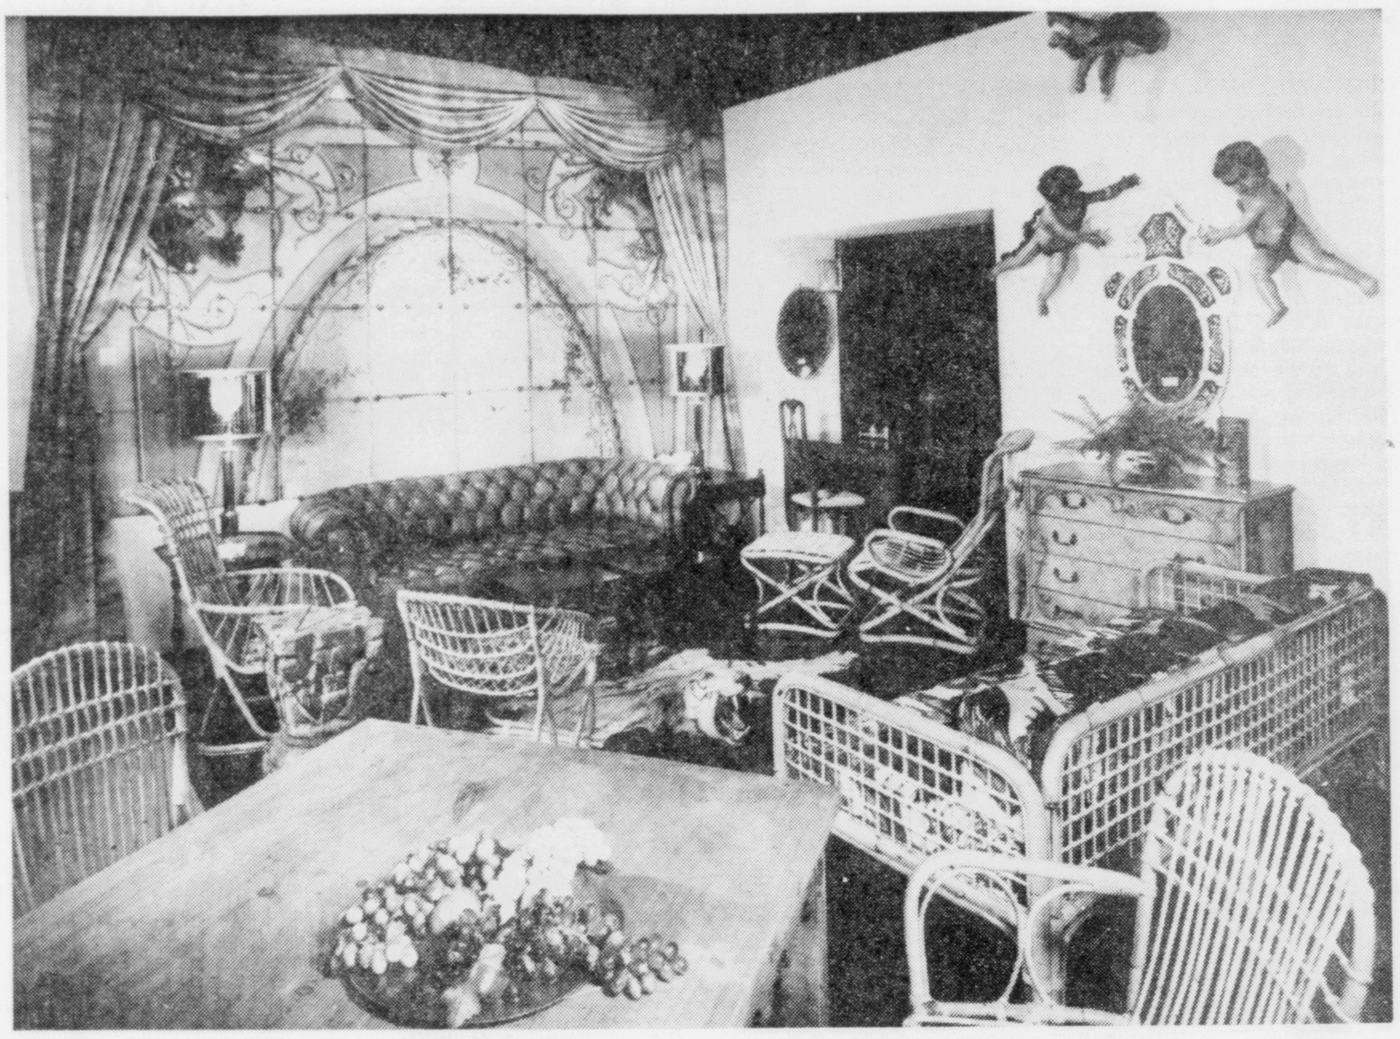
ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY



SHARP, SOPHISTICATED lines highlight this table from a modern collection by Brandt Cabinet Works. The brass frame has plate glass insert.



FRESH AND STYLISH, wicker and rattan furniture fit in any room of the home. This setting features pieces by Trouvailles. A mix of pine, leather, lacquer, and rattan provides a casual informal atmosphere.

The energy crisis signals a natural trend in furniture

by FRAN HECKART

The ominous energy crisis has reached the furniture industry. But fortunately it signals new trends in color selectivity and good shopping sense.

Color schemes and styles introduced at the Winter International Home Furnishings Market held recently in Chicago indicate that the energy situation was the source for many new trends. New concepts in plastic are inexpensive and durable, well-styled and fresh.

Interior designers regard the energy crisis as catalyst for the best, most stable trend in years: simplicity and natural colors in lighter shades.

Norman De Haan, president of American Association of Interior Designers, said overlit buildings were furnished in very dark colors. "Now with the lighting so dim, the furniture is lost. People are clamoring for lighter colors."

GENERALLY THE trend is toward softer, more natural earth tones in the home. Cinnamon and spice, deeper garnet reds, wheat, oatmeal and very warm blues are evident in the new decors.

There is much speculation among designers and manufacturers that Americans will be spending more time in their homes as the energy situation becomes crucial. And as the thermostats go down, people will probably begin to seek more warmth from their visual and tactile environments.

As people begin to spend more time in their homes, an interior awareness will follow naturally. Homes will become an extension of the individuals, said De Haan. "People will have to be authentic where they are," he said.

"People who spend time in their homes cannot afford to decorate in fickle colors like shocking pink," said David Payne, president of a North Carolina upholstering firm.

"AND WITH THE economy the way it is, people want colors around them that reflect a sense of stability."

Lettuce, lime, mint sherbert and grass green are the new terms in the paint and varnish industry. Plum, iris and egg plant purple also reinforce the natural trend along with deep earth, carmel and camel browns.

Off-white went pure for 1974, according to Margaret J. Wood of Benjamin Moore and Co. It has been relegated to moldings, trims and painted furniture instead of all four walls. She also cited cinnamon and other spices as popular new colors. Opaline, crystalline and Danish bluegreens have upstaged the long popular turquoise, she added.

Full-gloss paint is back in style, as well as wall glazes, wall graphics and painted floors, in stenciled or original designs. A revival in wood-graining may also be seen in the future — since the paint industry is short of pigments and wood will probably become less available.

Hand in hand with the advent of the stable ecology colors comes a gradual trend toward simplicity in design and materials. Clean basic lines have been combined with interesting styling in furniture designs. Furniture fashions have turned to simple uncluttered charm in creating a livable home environment.

The Early American designs for 1974 are very prevalent in almost all of the furniture categories, accentuating that our Bicentennial celebration is having an influence on furniture styles. Pine is the favorite wood for Early American bedroom, dining room and occasional furniture.

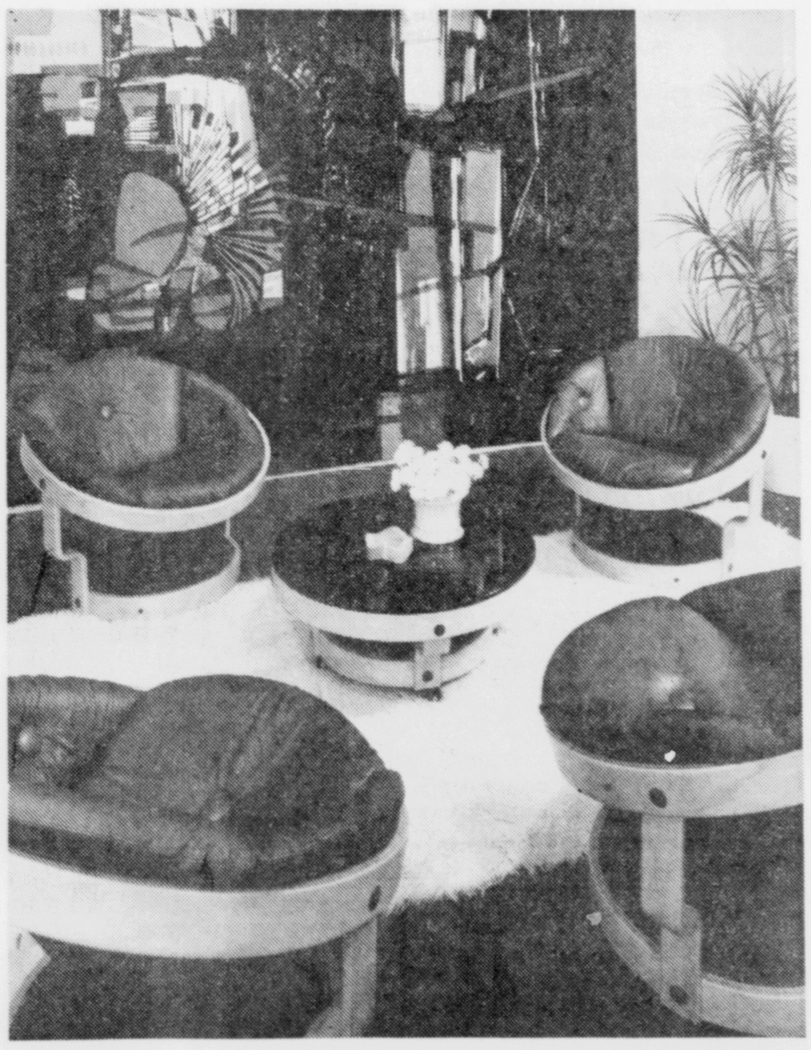
The new Mediterranean has assumed a country casual styling. Manufacturers seem to be leaning away from the more ornate, heavily carved Spanish styling and reverting to cleaner lines of all-wood construction.

KIMBALL FURNITURE of Alabama cites an increased popularity in Victorian furniture. Increased sales are attributed to the revival of a formal living room in homes and family rooms.

The elegant simplicity of modern furniture is naturally in keeping with the current trend toward less ornate designs.

Consumer demand for sound economy in furniture buying has led to greater quality with style in the industry. As Americans begin to spend more time in their homes, furniture investments can, hopefully, be based on sound judgment at the marketplace.

WOOD-TRIMMED, heavy rollarm sofa in knitted, flame stitched Herculon olefin fabric sets the pace for contemporary home fashions. Sleek-looking, leatherlike, brown Porogen urethane-covered arm chairs and glass-topped tables contrast with the shag carpet and furry toss pillows.



NEW IMPORT from Norway called Convair is of natural molded plywood, with swivel seats. Rounded lines are set off by modern tapestry.

THIS CONTINENTAL height party table adds style to family dining or a game of backgammon. The group features caned back caster chairs with gay pillows. A wheat finish is shown, but others are available.

College pair shares a love of music

Patricia Marie Schummer and William Alan Hofeldt are both serious musicians who carried their musical interest into their wedding. A composer, the groom wrote a song which he dedicated to his bride, and she in turn devoted a favorite Baroque work of hers to the groom. Together the couple arranged Baroque music which 11 of their friends played as a string orchestra.

The couple, married Dec. 29 in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, are both studying at the University of Illinois where they met in class in September 1972. Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schummer, 208 S. Louis St., Mount Prospect, and a graduate of Prospect High School, is a sophomore at the university. Her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hofeldt, Glenwood, Ill., is a senior.

PATRICIA IS AN applied piano major and William plans to conduct and teach orchestra at the elementary, junior high and high school levels as well as continue his education toward a master's degree.

For the 6:30 p.m. double ring, candlelight service Patricia chose a gown of white sata peau with Victorian collar, long sleeves edged in lace., full skirt of tiered lace and chapel train edged in matching lace. She carried a cascade of deep red roses with stephanotis, and for something old she wore a pair of pearl earrings that her father had sent to her mother while stationed in Hawaii during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hofeldt

Attending the bride were Jane Eisfeldt, Des Plaines; Joy Hennemuth, Kathy Haney and Carin Morath, all of Mount Prospect; and the groom's sister, Nancy Werley, Palos Hills. All wore floor-length gowns with maroon velvet bodices and pink chiffon skirts. Their hats and veils were also in maroon, and they carried courting lamps with pink and white carnations accented with holly.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Kevin Foss of Kirkland, Ill., was ring bearer. Attending the groom were his brother, Mark Hofeldt, Glenwood; his brother-in-law, Kenneth Werley, Palos Hills; William Jastro, Homewood; Michael Weiss, Park Forest; and Dave Aldrich, Pensacola, Fla.

A champagne punch reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors after which the newlyweds spent two days at the Marriott Hotel before leaving for the Hawaiian Islands. They are now at home in a Champaign apartment.

Sponsor classes for diabetics

Classes for diabetics will be offered by Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. Open to the community, the classes will meet at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 6, 7, 13 and 14. Reservations should be made by contacting the clinical nutrition department at Lutheran General.

The classes will be taught by clinical nutritionists and registered nurses on the hospital staff. Each participant needs approval from his personal physician to attend although the physician does not have to be on Lutheran General's medical staff.

There is a $25 charge to cover the cost. Persons registering for the classes must attend all four sessions.

Among topics to be covered are "Medical Aspects and Diabetic Emergencies," "Introduction to Diet and the Diabetic Exchange System" and "Food Preparation and Eating Away from Home." A discussion period follows each presentation.

Walter Slingerlands observe golden wedding anniversary

Although Walter Slingerland retired more than 20 years ago from the family business, the Slingerland Drum Co., he and his wife, Helen, have beaten a steady path of progress for the village of Schaumburg.

It was back in 1941, before World War II, that the Slingerlands bought 160 acres of farm land on Schaumburg Road, but it wasn't until 1946 that they moved into the old home on the property. After extensive remodeling the couple lived on the farm for 16 years.

OVER THE YEARS Walter and Helen saw the village grow from a tiny, unknown farm community to its present day status, home of Woodfield, reportedly the world's largest shopping center under one roof.

And over the years Walter has held many elective and appointive positions with the village including building inspector; Helen was the first village treasurer. Walter also served on the plan commission and as a village trustee for 13 years, and, of course, was instrumental in obtaining the incorporation of Schaumburg in 1956.

Last Saturday, Jan. 12, the Slingerlands observed their golden wedding anniversary at a quiet family celebration.

Helen, originally from Ohio, first met Walter, a Chicago resident, while visiting an aunt in the city. The pair married Jan. 12, 1924, in Chicago and lived in the city until moving to their Schaumburg property. Until his retirement Walter commuted to the drum company in Chicago. The company later moved to Niles and recently was sold by the family.

PART OF THE FORMER Slingerland farm site is now the home of the new village hall, but the old homestead still stands. Son Wally Jr. and his wife, Helen, also have a home on the original property; Bob and his wife, Jean, live in Northbrook.

Besides their sons, the Slingerlands also have five grandchildren.

What's new

Something new for the woman who is always short of time and energy because she has too much to do. A new report, "Household Hints for the Working Woman," is now available. It costs $4.95 and the money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. The organized presentation of ideas and information is based on experience.

A partial table of contents: locating babysitters, home employment, household help, nursery school, easier laundry tasks, food shopping, increasing storage space, reducing clutter, home cleaning, home delivery, clothing selection, clothing care, kitchen stains, clothing stain removal, carpet stains, simplified floor waxing, selecting cleaning materials, sensible housework standards, time scheduling, laundry sorting, food transporting, reducing garbage, prolonging garment life, reducing ironing, exchanging baby-sitters.

For a Happy Life

It's fun in January to:

1. Take one step toward making a dream come true.
2. Read aloud to your family a poem you particularly like.
3. Serve a candlelight dinner one night a week.
4. Telephone a compliment to someone who has given you good service.
5. Keep sand, salt, and a shovel in your car and be prepared for ice and snow.
6. Cut sprays of forsythia, place in water — then wait for lovely blossoms.
7. Bring your address book up-to-date.
8. Note this by Eleanor Roosevelt: "We are the sum total of all the choices we have made."

New regulations for furniture trade

by Monica Wilch

The furniture industry will be obliged to observe some new rules as of March 21, the Federal Trade Commission has announced. The new regulations are a revision of the FTC's 1963 trade practice rules for the industry.

Changes in technology and materials used in furniture, as well as widespread misleading advertising and other deceptive practices, were cited as reasons for the new guidelines.

The new rules provide for disclosure of the use of such materials as plastic, vinyl, marble dust and others which simulate wood, leather, marble, slate, etc. Whenever furniture is of veneered construction or whenever plastic is used which has the appearance of wood or other materials, manufacturers will have to disclose these facts on tags or labels.

The rules will also forbid retailers to remove manufacturers' tags and labels which disclose information about construction and composition of furniture, a practice the FTC called "widespread."

The guidelines will permit the use of such terms as "Chinese Chippendale" or "French Provincial" as indicating styles, but the names of countries are not to be used unqualifiedly to indicate style. For example, furniture in Danish style manufactured in the U.S. must be referred to as "Danish style," not just "Danish."

WHENEVER ANY representation is made that upholstery fabric has been tested, the test results must be disclosed clearly and conspicuously under the new rules. In addition, any claims for performance characteristics must have a reasonable basis in test or study data.

The commission is further evaluating proposals to prohibit disclaimers of implied warranties of product merchantability or fitness, and to provide that a seller automatically warrants the durability, colorfastness and suitability of the outer coverings under reasonable conditions.

FTC guidelines are interpretations of the laws which the commission administers. Practices in violation of these guides must be proven unfair or deceptive before legal action can be taken. The FTC has to prove the illegality of the act as well as the commission of it.

IN THE FIRST seven months of its existence, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has supervised recalls of nearly five million products with potential safety hazards. In reporting this record, CPSC Chairman Richard O. Simpson pointed the finger at quality control rather than design.

"I'm afraid we're faced with a situation in which we're designing safe products in most cases, but — for whatever reason — too often we're not building them," Simpson said.

"I think it's clear that the time has come for manufacturers to do their quality control in the factory and not in the home. I don't think it's right to rely on consumers for safety testing . . ."

Manufacturers are required by law to notify the commission of any potential safety hazard in any consumer product. Since its inception last May, the commission has received 55 such notifications, and Simpson suspects there are additional safety problems every week that go unreported.

In defense of the industry, Robert Abbott, technical director of the American Society for Quality Control, said the situation "is not worse," but rather the CPSC is "geting geared up" and "finding out the track record isn't as good as it should be."

MEANWHILE, RESEARCH continues into the safety problems of the new flame-resistant materials. While the chemical flame retardants have been considered successful in reducing the risk of burn injuries in the case of clothing, scientists are worried now about the toxic fumes emitted from flame-retardant carpets, insulation, furniture, drapes, blankets, etc.

Strong indications exist that a number of victims of several airplane crashes died of hydrogen cyanide and carbon monoxide poisoning rather than from the impact or flames. The planes were equipped with flame-resistant seats, trays, paneling and drapes.

The synthetics most effective in retarding flames — acrylics, polyurethane, polystyrene, Plexiglas — are all capable of generating "significant quantities" of highly toxic gases, according to scientists.

THE KEY SCIENTISTS are seeking now is just what triggers release of the gases.

In the meantime, the use of these materials is increasing by leaps and bounds. Currently a $90 million industry, the flame retardants market is expected to double by 1978.

Understand wood, enjoy fireplace

If you're making use of a fireplace these days, whether to beat the energy crisis or just to enjoy the fire, it helps to know about the wood you're burning and how to mix light and heavy wood for an ideal fire.

A full cord of dry hickory wood weighs about two tons and is approximately equal in heating value to a ton of hard coal or 200 gallons of fuel oil, according to the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Heavy and light wood should be mixed to get the best fire. Some kinds of wood that will burn longer, such as hickory, osage orange, dogwood, beech, hard maple, birch, mulberry, apple and ash, all rate "above 83" heat value based on hickory's value set at 100. Those with a heat value of under 74 (woods which ignite faster and burn quicker) are soft maple, cherry, sycamore, douglas fir, tulip or yellow poplar. At the bottom of the list is white pine with a 50 heat value.

WHEN BUILDING a fire in the fireplace, make sure the room is well lighted, the damper open and the flue unplugged before lighting the fire. A screen should be put in front of the grate to catch sparks. Avoid burning wet or green wood. Keep a fire extinguisher handy. Other combustibles should be placed some distance from the fire. And never use inflammable fluids indoors to ignite the fire.

A brochure on "How to Enjoy Your Fireplace" is available by writing Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Upper Darby, Pa. 19082.

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Living in an apartment has taught me both caution and alertness. So when I saw an unfamiliar insect crawling over the bathroom floor, I shooed it into a plastic pill bottle and mailed it to the county extension agent. He reported back that it was a saw-tooth grain beetle and if I found no trace of others there was no need to spray. I promptly checked the kitchen shelves, containers and so forth, and just cleaning up the apartment has given me a sense of security.

—Chris Markatos

Know what I did? Read your letter and promptly moved into the kitchen for my own precautionary clean-up. You were lucky. The saw-tooth grain beetle is closely related to the well-known weevil and an infestation is a grade-AA headache.

Dear Dorothy: Thought your readers might be interested in the following hints. The easiest way to get an onion smell out of a plastic storage container is to put a piece of newspaper in it, put the lid on and leave until you're ready to use it again.

Also, the easiest way to peel hard-cooked eggs that have been refrigerated is to hold them under hot water until the chill is gone. The shell comes off easily in two pieces. For people who sew, it might be helpful to know old receiving blankets make wonderful gowns for children.

—Mary Jane Oswald

Dear Dorothy: My family loves broccoli, but I can't get it tender and still be crisp. Is there a trick to it?

—Marian Waldman

You're just overcooking it. Use as little water as possible and stay by it with a fork. Take it off the heat just before it gets tender — and don't forget to make a slit in the end of a piece of it if it is thick. A vegetable-steamer does the job easily.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Two bridal shows next week

Two area fashion shows of spring and summer bridal fashions are scheduled next week.

Tuesday evening at 8 the Bridal Terrace of Palatine will stage a show in the Grand Ballroom of Howard Johnson's, Northwest Highway, Palatine. There is no charge, but tickets are necessary. The free tickets are available at the Bridal Terrace, 712 E. Northwest Hwy.

Thursday evening at 7:30 Marshall Field's will sponsor a show in the Woodfield store. No tickets are necessary for the show which will be held in the Fountain View Room.

Both shows will feature traditional bridal fashions in organza, ivory organdy, white pique, dotted swiss and chiffon as well as in contemporary fabrics of jersey and poly satin. Pin tucks, U-seamed bodices, short flared sleeves and draped waists are new. Accents will include pastel flowers, ribbons and floral dimensional effects.

Bridesmaids' gowns and ensembles for mothers of the brides will also be included in the shows. Handkerchief hems and sequin gowns are newest this season for mothers. New for bridesmaids are bare bare gowns with capes or matching shoulder scarves.

Do You Look Too Old To Land the Job You Want?

You wonder. Now that the children are old enough, you'd like the stimulation of a job. But you worry about all those young secretaries, salesgirls and junior executives. You're afraid you'll look too old, by comparison, to get interesting work.

If your complexion is dry, that dryness accents aging lines and wrinkles. So you may well look older than you need to. Looking your youngest would help your self-confidence and probably improve your job chances.

Discover the lovely benefits of a world-renowned blend, developed by beauty researchers to help women look their youngest. This remarkable fluid, known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion, helps skin look softer and more supple from the very first days you use it. Helps retain nature's moisture too.

Quick-penetrating, non-greasy Oil of Olay has a wealth of natural moisture, tropical oils and other emollients. The blend works to help maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for you to look your best.

Oil of Olay, twice a day. Why don't you and Oil of Olay® go to work together?

Here's how to announce an engagement in Herald

Paddock Suburban Living department is often called by those seeking information on submitting announcements for publication. We print the following for the reader's information and help.

The announcement of an engagement is always made by the parents of the engaged girl, who may either fill out an engagement form at our office or submit their own information along with a wallet sized picture of the bride-to-be.

If a wallet sized photograph is not available, a larger one can be used.

Bring or mail picture and copy to the Herald office in Arlington Heights or mail to Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.

Parents not using one of our forms may either write or type the information. If the announcement is submitted in hand-writing we ask that all names be printed to avoid errors. We also request that a phone number accompany the signature at the bottom of the announcement.

A glossy picture is preferable although a dull finish is acceptable. Color photos are used at the discretion of the editors depending on contrast and depth of color.

There is no charge for engagement pictures and announcements. Usually they will be printed within a week after reaching our office.

All announcements must be in our office at least a month before the wedding date.

A Paddock review

Rewarding evening with 'Thoreau'

by PAT ADAM

In one way it's unfortunate that writers Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee couldn't come up with a catchier title to their play "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail." Some may miss a rewarding evening of theater because the title fails to capture their interest.

Yet the name of the play is honest and to the point — like the man it's about. Henry David Thoreau holds a special place in American history for he was an individualist, a non-conformist, a man of conviction unafraid to act upon his conviction. As such he embodies the best of dramatic possibilities . . . a real life hero.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild is now staging "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail" with Mike Sims in the lead. I was much impressed with Sims as Lt. Cable in last fall's "South Pacific" and later in his bit role in "Forty Carats" and looked forward to seeing him in a lead part. He didn't disappoint me.

THIS IS A most demanding role for there's a tremendous amount of dialog to master and it's not frothy stuff either, but solid and thought-provoking though not without humor for Thoreau was a witty man as well as a poetic one.

Thoreau is in jail because he has refused to pay taxes on grounds they will be used for an unjust purpose — to wage war and support slavery. Sharing his cell is a vagrant who's been held for several months accused of setting fire to a barn. The vagrant, Bailey by name, played by Hank Vandenboom, claims the fire started accidentally by his smoking. He still has not had his day in court and Thoreau is outraged, more so because Bailey has not protested. Henry proceeds to relate his own experiences as he tries to prod Bailey to assert himself.

The play is a series of recollections — from Thoreaus' unhappy teaching experience, the school he and his brother John conducted together in a field near their Concord, Mass., home, the unexpected death of John which shakes Henry's faith in God to his association with Ralph Waldo Emerson and the days lived at Walden Pond which were the basis of his classic of American literature, "Walden."

THESE MAY NOT sound like good theater, but they are, due in part to the enthusiasm and passion Sims brings to the role and also to an excellent supporting cast.

John Marquette appears as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Transcendentalist philosopher who prefers pen and lecturn to active protest and whose predilection to "thinking it out" causes dissension between himself and his prized pupil, Henry.

A. J. Riegler as his patient yet frustrated wife Lydian shows another side to her talent following outstanding comic performances earlier in "South Pacific" and "Forty Carats."

John Schile Jr., fresh from his role as the blind Don Baker in "Butterflies Are Free," characterizes Thoreau's brother John as a winsome individual who shares Henry's love of nature but is less disturbed than he by the rules and laws of men.

THEIR MOTHER is played by Marianne Marquette, and it's obvious that the generation gap is nothing peculiar to today's society. She can't understand Henry either.

Vandenboom turns in another good acting job as the vagrant Bailey, and Ed Sauer is properly pompous and disagreeable as Deacon Bell, whose insistence on flogging causes Henry to leave school teaching. Colleen Pugliese makes her Guild debut as Ellen, an unpaying student who irks her teacher with her note-taking but later amazes him with her insight into John's death. She also is good.

Jim Curren is excellent as Constable Sam Staples, who considers Henry the most honest man he knows and pleads with Henry to pay his tax so he won't have to be arrested . . . but to no avail. Henry wants to make his point . . . and he did as the pioneer of civil disobedience, a tool of protest so effectively used later by Ghandi and Martin Luther King.

AS EMERSON'S son Edward, young Christopher Marquette is a delight. He knew his lines and showed no stage fright whatsoever opening night but rather seemed to be having a very good time.

Special mention should be made of Aaron Taylor, who stepped into the role of Williams, the escaped slave, only a week before opening night. He did a great job.

Henry's fellow townsmen were portrayed by Kathleen King, Betsy Forkins, Christine Gyssler, Brenda Renbarger, Cathy Pasowicz, Max Elsey, John Maes, Tom Priehs and V. J. Bondi.

Ken MacCowan who directed this production also designed the set which depends more upon lighting than props to set the stage for the various scenes. Marshall Kievit was responsible for the lighting.

Suburbanites who expect to find theater as art as well as entertainment in their own neighborhood should support this Guild production. It may be seen again tomorrow and Saturday night and also Jan. 26 and Feb. 2 at the playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Curtain is at 8:30. Ticket information, 296-1211 noon to 8 p.m.

Saturday night cards

A card party with proceeds going toward gym mats will be held Saturday evening in the Boys Club of America, 161 Illinois Blvd., in Hoffman Estates. Sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Boys Club Women's Auxiliary, the party is set for 7:30.

Admission is $1.50 and both men and women are invited. Bridge or any type of cards may be played. Advance registration is required; Louise Thiede, 885-4296, is taking reservations as is the club, 885-2513.

BOB meets tonight

Information about auditions for "Funny Girl" and a singalong of songs from the musical will be the highlights of Best Off Broadway Players' meeting tonight, 8 o'clock, at the Congregational United Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchoff Road in Arlington Heights.

A variety show, "Age of Aquarius," will be presented following the business meeting. Audition chairman Art Creighton will announce "Funny Girl" audition dates and describe the show's characters and musical numbers. Further information is available from Creighton, 359-0777.

Birth notes

Two sisters for Jennifer

All of a sudden there are three little girls in the Robert Zografos home in Buffalo Grove. Twins Amy Suzanne and Stephanie Ann were born to the couple Jan. 10 and are now at home with their big sister, three-year-old Jennifer.

It's a busy household at 621 Indian Spring Lane, all geared to the care of the trio of young daughters.

The twins arrived in Northest Community Hospital, Amy weighing 4 pounds 6 ounces and Stephanie 4 pounds 5 ounces.

Their grandparents are the Edwin Koops of Palatine, Corinne Zografos of Cleveland, Tex., and Raymond Zografos of Des Plaines.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Sherman Michael Paggi is baby No. 1 for Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Paggi, 44 W. Washington, Palatine. Sherman tipped the scales at 6 pounds 10 ounces on Jan. 8 and his grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brux Jr., Camp Douglas, Wis., and Mrs. Charles Paggi, Victory, Wis.

Heather Elizabeth Link's birth took place last Oct. 19 for Mr. and Mrs. V. Harwood Link of 1712 Beech Road, Mount Prospect. Their first child, she weighed 6 pounds 5½ ounces. Heather's grandparents are the Bert Schaefers of Dixon, Ill., and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Stauffer of Hagerstown, Md.

Melissa Ann Murawski is the newcomer in the Edward C. Murawski home at 4724 Arbor Drive, Rolling Meadows. She is their first child and arrived Jan. 10 at 7 pounds 11 ounces. Her grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Hill Jr. and the J. E. Murawskis, all of Rolling Meadows.

Danielle Barbara Giacalone is the name of the daughter born Jan. 11 to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giacalone, 2403 Fulle, Rolling Meadows. She has a brother, Joey, who is 2. Grandparents of the 6 pound 13 ounce baby are the Arthur C. Munins of Chicago and the J. V. Lanzarottas of Norridge.

Scott Richard Burnett is the name of the first son but third child of the Richard Burnetts, 142 S. Brockway, Palatine. The baby brother for Melissa, 4, and Kimberly, 2, arrived Jan. 11 at 6 pounds 14 ounces. His grandparents are the Leslie Parkers of Dundee and Mrs. Dewey Burnett of Wheaton.

Carolyn Ann Helzing, third child in the Carl F. Helzing family of 620 Jill Court, Des Plaines, was born Jan. 11. David, 2, and Lisa, 4, are her brother and sister. Grandparents, all of Chicago, are the Joseph Blaskis and the Frank Helzings. Carolyn's birth weight was 7 pounds ½ ounce.

Jason Nathaniel Brod made parents of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brod of Mount Prospect on Jan. 13. The 9 pound 6½ ouncer is now at home at 1101 Cottonwood. Jason's grandparents are the Richard Swansons of Safety Harbor, Fla., and the James A. Brods of Rolling Meadows.

Devin Peter Heffernan's birth Jan. 12 gave Colleen Ann, 3, a brother. Parents of the children are the Patrick T. Heffernans of 2506 W. Algonquin Road, Rolling Meadows. Devin's birth weight was 7 pounds 12½ ounces. His grandparents are the John R. Heffernans of Woodstock and the John H. McNaughtons f Rhinelander, Wis.

Joy Allyn Battistini is the newcomer at 210 E. Norman Drive, Palatine. Born Jan. 12 at 6 pounds 5 ounces, she has a brother, Robert Munn, 3. The children's parents are the A. Blair Battistinis; grandparents are the Alfred Battistinis of West Mystic, Conn., and the Robert Munns of Mount Lebanon, Pa.

Debra Alaine Frost arrived at 8 pounds 8 ounces on Jan. 7. She is the third child for Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Frost, 503 W. Berkley Drive, Arington Heights, who have a son, Rick, 9, and another daughter, Vicki, 2. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kamka of Norridge and the Anthony Frosts of Chicago are the children's grandparents.

HOLY FAMILY

Robert Bryant Shirley arrived the first day of 1974 for Mr. and Mrs. William C. Shirley II of 611 Piper Lane, Wheeling. He has a sister, Rebecca Lynn, 4. Grandparents of the 8 pound 1 ouncer are Mrs. Ralph Burkert of Shavertown, Pa., and the William C. Shirleys of Oak Park.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Adam Christopher Benhart arrived Dec. 12, a great-grandson for an Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Anna Rateike. The 8 pound 9 ouncer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Benhart of Itasca and has a brother, Jeffrey, 4.

Peter Anthony Pacione weighed 6 pounds 11 ounces at birth Jan. 1. He is the first son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pacione, 23 S. Grand Central, Schaumburg, and has a sister, Anna. 5. Grandparents of the two children are Sam Falco of Downers Grove and the Vito Paciones of Italy.

OTHER HOSPITALS

Sean Patrick Murray arrived Jan. 13 for Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Murray of Deerfield, formerly of Palatine. Their first child, Sean weighed 8 pounds 11 ounces at birth in Evanston Hospital. His grandparents are the J. E. Murrays, formerly of Palatine but now living in Taiwan, and the R. T. Rydens of Glenview.

Newborn diagnosis

A greatly improved method of diagnosing the cause of severe jaundice in newborn babies may be in general use within one or two years, Berkeley scientists say.

The method involves the relationship between red blood cell destruction and the formation of carbon monoxide and the pigment associated with jaundice.

Research physicians at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and the University of California Medical Center say a blood test measuring carbon monoxide can quickly and accurately pinpoint the progress of jaundice in babies.

Ricky Frieder's letter was one of many we received from students of Grade 3, Room 209, Roosevelt School, following their visit to Citizens Bank. Here students made friends with a computer and other facilities that will serve them well as they become citizens of the future.

You're welcome, Ricky. And it's going very, very, very, very well down here! Really, really, really, really!

When Ricky Frieder of Roosevelt School wrote to thank us for playing host to his third grade class, he asked, "How is it going down there?"

We're happy to report to Ricky—and to you—that "it" is going very well, indeed.

The old year, 1973, was a happy year for us, thanks to you. You helped our assets increase by more than $27,000,000 in 1973. In fact, in the past four years, you've helped us grow by over $148,000,000—a whopping increase!

And that made 1973 a happy year for you, too. Because you found our banking services the best around.

You found the right plan for you among our many different daily interest plans.....including high-yield savings bonds that pay up to 6½% on as little as $100.00.

You liked our two checking account plans, our exclusive new Photo Checks™ and our full range of personal loans for any worthwhile purpose.

You also liked our complete trust services including financial counseling and professional investment management.

You took out loans in six figures to help expand your business and used our data processing services to help you operate more profitably. You found that we did more than just lend you money, too.

Result? Our assets now top $305,000,000, and our total deposits make us Illinois' largest bank outside Chicago.

As we keep growing, we'll keep finding better ways to serve your needs...to help make for all of us, including our young friends like Ricky, a very, very, very, very HAPPY NEW YEAR!

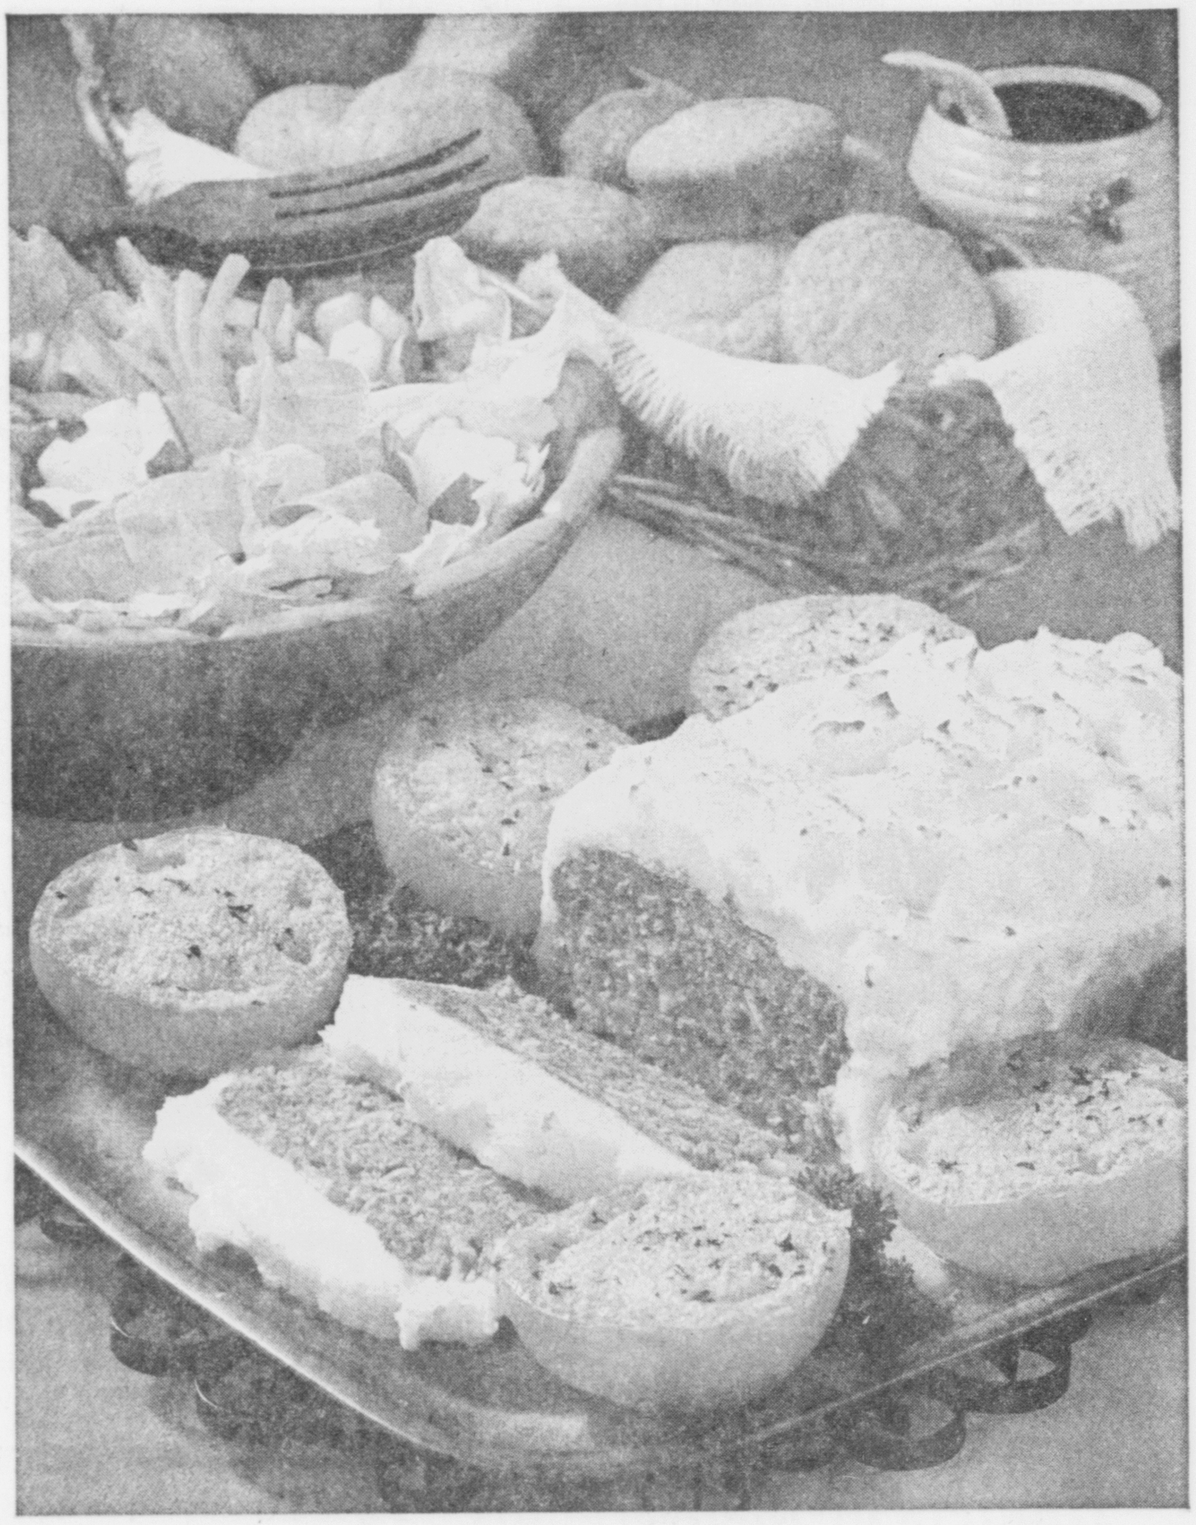
AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

Great ideas for ground beef



What better proof that economy need not be dull than the following array of recipes featuring ground beef. They were created with an eye to variety as well as to easy, pleasing preparations. Short cuts were used wherever possible, but there's no stinting on flavor and eye-appeal. All were prepared with 75 per cent lean ground beef, but choose the percentage that best fits your personal tastes and pocketbook.

COOK'S DELIGHT DINNER

Makes 8 servings

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- ¾ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup tomato juice
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 egg
- 4 cups hot mashed potatoes
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- ⅓ cup chili sauce
- 2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

For 2 large beef patties, combine ground beef, oats, onion, tomato juice, egg and Worcestershire sauce; blend well. Divide into 2 equal parts. Shape each to form a patty about 1 inch thick and 6 inches in diameter.

Broil 5 to 7 inches from source of heat 10 minutes on first side. Beat egg into potatoes and place in pastry bag. Turn patties. Pipe hot potato mixture in small mounds around patties.* Drizzle with melted butter. Return to broiler an additional 6 to 8 minutes.

Remove from oven, brush patties with sauce made by blending chili sauce, brown sugar, mustard and nutmeg. Cut in wedges and serve immediately.

*Potatoes can be spooned into a ½-cup measure and carefully scooped out in 8 equal mounds around patties.

JAUNTY LONG JOHNS

Makes 8 servings

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- ¾ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup catsup
- 8 small onion slices
- 8 tomato slices
- 8 lettuce leaves
- 4 slices American cheese, cut in half
- 1 loaf Vienna bread, cut into 16 slices

Combine ground beef, oats, salt, pepper and catsup. Shape to form sixteen 3-inch patties. Place 1 onion slice on top of each of 8 patties. Cover with remaining 8 patties. Press edges of patties together to seal in onion slices. Place in broiler about 5 inches from source of heat. Cook about 6 minutes. Turn and cook 5 minutes longer.

To serve, place a tomato slice, a lettuce leaf, half a cheese slice and a hamburger between 2 slices of Vienna bread. Reassemble loaf in bread basket.

SAVORY SKILLET DINNER

Makes 8 servings

Meatballs:

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon oregano
- ½ cup milk
- Two 1-lb. cans whole white potatoes, drained
- Two 1-lb. cans green beans, drained
- ¾ cup liquid from vegetables
- Two 10½-oz. cans condensed cream of mushroom soup

Combine all ingredients for meatballs thoroughly. Shape to form 16 meatballs. Brown in just enough shortening to cover bottom of large electric fry pan heated to 320 degrees. (Savory Skillet Dinner can be prepared in large skillet on top of range also.) Pour off drippings; reduce heat to 240 degrees. Blend together ¾ cup liquid from vegetables and the soup; pour over meatballs. Cover; simmer 15 minutes. Add potatoes and beans; cover and simmer 15 additional minutes.

MEAT LOAF MAGNIFICO

Makes 8 servings

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon oregano
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 cups hot mashed potatoes

Thoroughly combine all ingredients except mashed potatoes. Pack firmly into an 8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 hour. Drain off excess fat. Let stand a few minutes; remove from pan. Place on broiler rack. Frost loaf with mashed potatoes. Place under broiler 5 to 7 inches from source of heat 2 to 3 minutes. Serve immediately.

NOTE: Four medium-sized potatoes will yield about 2 cups mashed potatoes.

NEW WORLD CABBAGE ROLLS

Makes 8 servings

- 16 large cabbage leaves

Filling:

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 egg, beaten
- 3 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Sauce:

- Two 10¾-oz. cans condensed tomato soup heated

Drop cabbage leaves into boiling salted water; cook about 3 minutes. Drain. For filling, combine all ingredients thoroughly. Divide meat mixture into 16 equal portions. Place one portion of meat mixture on each cabbage leaf; roll leaf around meat tightly; secure with wooden toothpicks.

Place cabbage rolls in 1 cup water in a large fry pan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover fry pan tighly and cook over low heat about 45 minutes or until tender when pierced with a fork; drain well. Remove toothpicks. Serve cabbage rolls with warm tomato sauce.

MEATBALL SOUP

Makes 8 servings

- 1 lb. ground beef
- ½ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- One 16-oz. can tomatoes
- Two 10½-oz. cans condensed beef broth
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 bay leaf
- 1½ cups fresh, frozen or canned peas

For meatballs, combine ground beef, oats, salt, pepper, egg and chili sauce; blend well. Shape to form about 2 dozen meatballs. Brown gently. Drain well on absorbent paper.

Drain tomatoes, reserving juice. Add enough water to juice to measure 2 cups. Pour into large kettle. Add beef broth, onion, celery, tomatoes and bay leaf. Bring to boil; add frozen peas and meatballs; cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Skim off excess fat and remove bay leaf. If desired, serve with grilled cheese sandwiches.

Mrs. Herb Fasth

Hearty fare for her family of men

by LOIS SEILER

When cooking for a family of men, meals must be both hearty and flavorful. A real man-pleaser is Kol Dolmar which Mary Fasth of Arlington Heights prepares for her husband, Herb, and sons Tom, a junior at Quincy College, Dave, a senior at Prospect High, Jim, 13, and Bill, 10.

Kol Dolmar are cabbage rolls which Mary makes from a Swedish recipe handed down from her mother-in-law. There is no tomato sauce in this recipe; instead, the cabbage rolls are simmered in water and make their own tasty gravy which she serves with mashed potatoes.

This is a good meat stretcher as both ground round steak and pork steak are mixed with rice, eggs, onion and milk to fill the cabbage leaves. They are time-consuming to prepare — Mary calls it a labor of love — but the recipe is enough for two meals and half may be frozen, if desired.

As accompaniments she suggests a Waldorf salad or mandarin orange gelatin mold and glazed carrots. The carrots are an easy and economical vegetable and have a zippy flavor from the brown sugar and mustard glaze. They go well with many entrees, and proof of their appeal is the many requests Mary has had for the recipe. To top off the meal she recommends something simple such as tapioca pudding.

One of this cook's favorite desserts for a festive occasion is Chocolate Torte Royale. Both the meringue shell and the whipped cream and chocolate fillings are enhanced by the flavor of cinnamon which, in Mary's words, is a "fantastic combination."

Because it is rich and elegant, this torte is best served as the grand finale for a simple meal such as a roast, or it makes an excellent dessert for a ladies gathering.

STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS made Swedish-style are the specialty of Mrs. Herb Fasth of Arlington Heights. A combination of ground meats, rice, eggs, onion and milk is used to stuff the leaves before they are simmered.

KOL DOLMAR
(Swedish Cabbage Rolls)

2 large heads of cabbage
2 pounds ground steak
1 pound ground pork steak
2 eggs
2 cups milk
1 onion, chopped
1 cup cooked rice
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut core from cabbages. Place in a large kettle with water to cover. Simmer for five minutes to loosen and soften the leaves. Drain and separate leaves.

Mix together remaining ingredients. Place two heaping tablespoons of meat mixture in the middle of each cabbage leaf. Fold over sides and ends and tie with fine string as you would package. Fry in shortening until light brown on both sides.

Place rolls in a large kettle and sprinkle each layer with flour. Cover with hot water to the top of the rolls and simmer for three hours. Serves 10 to 12.

GLAZED CARROTS

2 pounds carrots
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Scrape carrots and cut in one-inch pieces. (If large, also cut in half lengthwise.) Cook in boiling water with salt added until just tender, about 20 minutes. Drain.

In small saucepan, cook butter, mustard and brown sugar over low heat until syrupy, about three minutes. Pour over carrots and simmer for five minutes. Serves 8.

CHOCOLATE TORTE ROYALE
Cinnamon Meringue Shell:

2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vinegar
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Cover cookie sheet with piece of heavy paper and draw an 8-inch circle.

Beat egg whites, salt and vinegar until soft peaks form. Blend sugar and cinnamon and gradually add to egg whites beating until very stiff peaks form and all the sugar has dissolved.

Spread within the circle, making bottom ½-inch thick and mounding around the edge making it 1¾-inches high. Bake in 275 degree oven for one hour. Turn off heat and let dry in oven with door closed, about two hours. Peel off paper.

Filling:

1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate bits (1 cup)
2 beaten egg yolks
¼ cup water
1 cup heavy cream
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling, water. Cool slightly. Spread 2 tablespoons of chocolate over bottom of cooled meringue shell. To remaining chocolate, add egg yolks and water and blend. Chill until mixture is thick.

Combine cream, sugar and cinnamon and whip until stiff. Spread half over chocolate in shell. Fold remainder into chocolate mixture and spread on top. Chill several hours or overnight. Serves 8.

Hunters or their friends can enjoy wild duck dinner

Franfare
by Fran Heckart

Not being a nimble nimrod, I'm dependent upon friends who rank as skilled hunters for a supply of game. On this occasion it was Bob Castelo of Champaign who decorated our larder with some fat mallards and we had a wild duck dinner.

Incidentally, for those who are as interested in word study as they are in food, Nimrod is a Biblical reference, the son of Cush, referred to as a mighty hunter. Thus, our common usage of nimrod to mean hunter.

Normally you'll need one duck per person. To start I placed the ducks in a deep pan and covered with water mixed with salt (1 quart to ¼ cup) and let the ducks soak overnight.

In preparation for cooking I poured off the salt water, replacing it with just cold water and cleaned the ducks very thoroughly in the cavities. Next dry the ducks and place breast side up on a rack in a roaster, after putting some celery leaves and a quartered apple in each cavity. On each breast place a small strip of thick bacon.

Set the roaster uncovered in the oven and turn temperature to 450 degrees. When breasts are browned (about 30 minutes) turn the ducks, cover the roaster and continue cooking for the balance of an hour, then reduce heat to 350 degrees.

WHILE DUCKS are beginning to cook prepare this basting sauce. In a saucepan, put one cup apple (or red currant) jelly, three tablespoons prepared mustard, one cup port (or sherry) wine, and salt and pepper to taste. Bring this to a boil stirring until well blended.

Before turning ducks baste generously with the hot sauce, then continue basting each 15 minutes throughout the remaining time which will total 1½ to 2 hours.

Heat a metal serving dish, cut ducks in half with game shears and remove breast bone with sharp knife. In the cavity put one-half cup cooked wild rice. Spoon over some of the hot basting sauce, decorate with parsley or water cress. Additional fruit jelly goes well with the duck.

To prepare the wild rice, wash thoroughly three-fourths cup rice, then put into three quarts chicken broth, which can be made easily with instant or concentrate in cubes. Cook until all grains have puffed, then turn off heat and cover tightly.

For the rest of the meal we served green beans almandine and sour cream cole slaw.

Little boys, too?

"Every minute, three billion cells in a little girl's body are being replaced by new ones," says an ad prepared by the Advertising Council for placement in magazines for girls and young women.

The ad for a campaign aimed at improving the nation's nutrition and health, continues:

"The material for each new cell comes from nutrients in the food she eats. What these nutrients do once they reach her body, and what they do with each other will make her different from every other little girl."

DISCOUNT SUPERMARKETS

Look For The Key Buys

Key Buys are items that bring Eagle shoppers extra savings above Eagle's everyday low discount prices. The lower price is made possible by either an exceptional purchase or a temporary promotional allowance. All supermarkets receive these allowances but not all stores pass the savings on to customers. We do at Eagle.

Single Item Pricing

At Eagle, we price by the individual item. One can, one box, one jar, . . . one price! With Single Item Pricing, you can tell at a glance just how low the discount prices really are. It saves you time and money every time you shop. Whether you're buying for one person or a large family, you get the same honest value.

Health and Beauty Needs Discounted

Your favorite health and beauty products in all categories — toothpaste, aspirin, shaving lather, hairspray, etc., are discounted except fair trade items. Save on all those products that your family need and use regularly. Eagle's everyday low discount pricing on these items add up to a lot of savings in a year.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

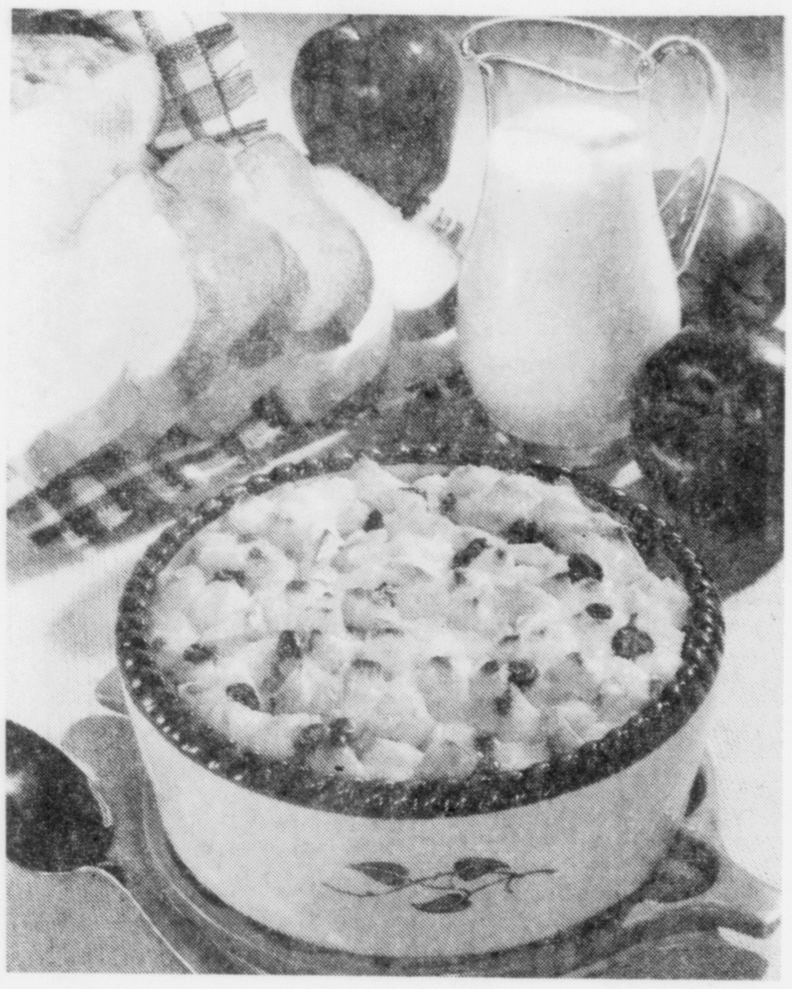
New main dish from old favorites



Macaroni-Beef Puff

Creating economical main dishes can be a challenge for even the most intenious homemakers. However, some of the most common foods can be turned into dishes worthy of family praise and easy on the budget.

Take macaroni and cheese, for example. They're a favorite from days much leaner than most people have ever known. With white sauce and eggs beaten separately, the old stand-by becomes a souffle, high and puffy.

Dried beef adds a meaty flavor accent while chopped green pepper and pimiento give both color and flavor. It goes into a slow oven for almost an hour and frees you for setting the table, tossing a salad and freshening your makeup before dinner.

One of the problems with many casseroles is that often they're not rich enough in protein. With this one, protein comes from milk, eggs, cheese and the dried beef.

MACARONI-BEEF PUFF

1/3 cup butter
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
3 egg yolks
1 package (7 oz.) elbow macaroni, cooked and drained
1 package (3 oz.) smoked sliced beef
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

In a 2-quart saucepan melt butter; saute onion until tender. Blend in flour, salt, mustard and pepper. Remove from heat. Stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in cheese until melted. If necessary return to low heat to finish melting cheese. (Do not boil.) In a large bowl beat egg yolks slightly, stir in a small amount of sauce at a time. Fold in macaroni, beef, green pepper and pimiento. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff but not dry; gently fold into macaroni mixture. Pour into ungreased 2-quart casserole or souffle dish. Bake in preheated 325 degree oven, 50-60 minutes or until set. Serve at once. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Everyone's interested in lowering the boom on high food bills while keeping nutrition up, up, up. Cheese and milk add first class protein to main dishes like Macaroni Pizza, Devlish Cheese Supper, Corny Beef Casserole or Budget Bologna Bake. These recipes and others along with smart shopping tips are all yours in a leaflet titled, "Let Cheese Do It — Stretch Your Main Dishes." For a copy readers may send a stamped, self-addressed legal size envelope to: American Dairy Association, Dept. IP, 6300 No. River Road, Rosemont, Ill. 60018.

The average cost of pork chops dropped seven cents according to a survey taken by the Herald on Monday. Bacon and ocean perch filets declined two cents from Jan. 7 but ground beef and chicken rose four and two cents, respectively.

The cost of American processed cheese continued its gradual but steady rise, increasing three cents this week. Margarine also showed a three-cent increase; however, milk and butter declined slightly.

Fruit and vegetable prices remained fairly stable — the largest fluctuation being a two-cent decrease in frozen orange juice concentrate.

One cent differences were noted for cereals and dry groceries. White bread and salad oil increased a penny while spaghetti and jelly decreased the same amount.

Nutrition labeling program for meat, poultry products

Mostly for men

by Charles Flynn

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed a nutrition labeling program for meat and poultry products. Under the proposed plan processors making nutrition claims for processed meat and poultry would have to spell out on labels exactly how much protein, fat, calories and carbohydrates the products contain.

Officials say the proposal provides for voluntary participation on the part of meat and poultry processors. If a processor elects to participate in the program, he would conform to regulations governing the type and content of nutrition information and its placement on the consumer package.

However, the officials stated that the program would be mandatory for processors who make nutrition claims for their products — such as "high in protein."

Processors who add vitamins, minerals or protein to their products, would also come under the mandatory sections of the program. The only exceptions would be processors who add nutrients to their products for specific technological reasons — such as the use of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) in cured meats to accelerate the curing process. In this case, according to the officials, the processor would have to list the ascorbic acid only in the ingredient statement on the label.

Under the proposal, labels would indicate the size of an individual serving, number of servings per package and the calorie, fat, protein and carbohydrate content of each serving. On products which require cooking, the label would also show the nutrient levels remaining after cooking.

IMMEDIATELY adjacent to the nutrition information, the processor would list the "Percentage of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances, (U.S. RDA)" per serving for protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron.

All of the nutrition information on labels would have to be approved by Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) officials. The processor would also be required to submit a plan for an inplant quality control program to the same officials to assure the product meets the nutritional values stated on the label.

Upon entering the nutrition labeling program, the processing plant would be under quality control monitoring by APHIS meat and poultry inspectors in addition to their regular inspection procedures.

Public comments on this proposal will be accepted until April 19 and a final decision on its adoption will be made after comments are considered. Comments should be sent in duplicate to the USDA Hearing Clerk, Washington, D.C. 20250 by April 19. Copies of this proposal are available from APHIS, Room 1658-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Source of energy

Carbohydrates are the major source of energy in the diet. These are starches and sugars found in cereal grains, fruits, vegetables and sugar added to foods for sweetening.

Wheat, oats, corn and rice, spaghetti, macaroni, noodles or grits provide starch, along with other important nutrients, say nutritionists. So do potatoes, sweet potatoes and vegetables such as peas, dry beans, peanuts and soybeans.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT NEEDED

We need an Administrative Assistant to add to our current group of two. Our Administrative Assistants organize and manage lease contracts from our hospital clients. This position requires phone contact and correspondence with our customers. It also requires general administrative abilities with some arithmetic involved. You need to be a self-motivated person and know how to organize yourself and your work. At least two to three years of experience or equivalent college is a requirement. We are a relatively small company, we're young — five years old and extremely successful. Our working conditions are excellent and our group congenial. We like our work and think you will, too. Come in and talk to us.

For an appointment, call: Marilyn Swanson, Lepeska Leasing Corp., 301 East Main St., Barrington, 381-2330

SECRETARY

We have an opening in a fast moving sales dept. for a mature experienced individual who enjoys a variety of responsibilities. Excellent salary & full range of benefits. Typing & shorthand necessary.

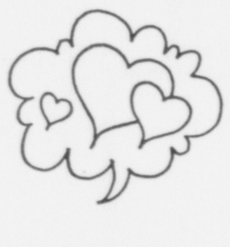
A girl can dream, can't she?



This time you're absolutely going to save something out of your paycheck. But, then, you really do need that pantsuit, a new coat and, of course, that perfume Eric likes so much.

Before you know it, the money's gone . . . and all you've got saved are your dreams.

That's why the Payroll Savings Plan is such a good idea for a single girl. When you join, an amount you specify is set aside from your check and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. And, it's all done before you get your check—so you can't help but save.

And then you'll find those Bonds a solid investment for the future, if your dream man ever gets serious.

And if he doesn't—well, at least you'll have a little travel fund stashed away. Who knows who you might meet on that wonderful cruise?

Either way, U.S. Savings Bonds can help a girl keep dreaming . . . and every girl needs to dream.
